By L. B. HARDAGE
County Extension Chairman

The second Rocky Mount Regional Feeder Calf Sale will be held on Thursday, October 27, at the Eastern Carolina Livestock Arena, starting at 10 a. m. Calves will be accepted only on the day prior to the sale from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m. on Wednesday, October 26. They must be consigned no later than October 14. Can secure blanks at my office. Same rules apply in this sale that are used in all State Graded Feeder Calf sales. If you have calves that are eligible, this will be a good place to sell.

Most tobacco farmers are doing a good job of destroying stalks; however, there are some fields that are not destroyed. Please encourage your neighbors or yourself to plow up and do a good job, some are not completely destroyed and will sprout as soon as rains come. Check tobacco stalks for root knot. This is real important; if no root knot is present, it might not be necessary to treat the land for root knot when you plant tobacco in these fields again.

Many tobacco farmers in the county have excellent tobacco crops and will have enough pounds to sell their crops. Others will not make their pounds this might be due to dry weather, no plants or late plants and various other reasons.

Oine 4-H Club Hears Report On Bottle Drive

The Oine 4-H Club met September 26 at 7:30 p. m. at the Oine Community Center with Arvella Downey presiding. The devotion consisted of song, prayer, and pledge. Old business included a report of the number of bottles that had been collected for sale.

New business: Plans were made from 4-H Church Sunday on October 23. A costume party was planned for Halloween. Members were given an opportunity to report on their summer trips and tours. Project books were discussed. Percell Downey gave a very interesting report on the Forestry Workshop and tree identification hike he attended in the Wise-Paschall Community. The Educational topic was about great persons who failed and succeeded in life. It was given by Peggy Downey. The meeting adjourned with the 4-H Motto. Refreshments were served.

You might take a good look at all practices and determine why your crop was not so hot. Land is always an important factor. If you have good tobacco land, you should give land top priority as this is the money crop in Warren County or certainly the dependable one year in and out.

The Warren County Fair is over. I would certainly like to thank the Fair Association, the exhibitors and others who went to the trouble to make the fair a success.

Working At 4-H Camp Is Said Good Experience

Working at 4-H Camp was a rewarding experience, especially working at the most modern camp in North Carolina—Betsy-Jeff Penn 4-H Camp in Reidsville.

My working day began at 7:30 in the morning and wasn't over until every camper was in bed. The days were tiring, but I wouldn't have traded them for anything else in the world.

My summer was extremely brightened when Warren County came for the week of July 11-16. Mr. Koonce and Mr. Woolard did an excellent job in keeping up the spirit of the group and getting total co-operation but I doubt if they told anyone about the outcome of the staff versus agents and leaders in a volleyball game. Our staff defeated them three times and didn't allow them to get any points. I learned a lot about myself this summer, and I would like to thank the

Adult Improvement Club Participates In Service

The Norlina Youth Improvement 4-H Club started National 4-H Week with its 4-H Sunday Program. The program was held at the Norlina Baptist Church with about 55 people participating and was very spiritual and enjoyable.

Walter Price, agricultural teacher at Hawkins Junior High School, was the keynote speaker. Price was chosen teacher of year by the Warren County Public Schools and has received many other outstanding awards.

small grains, and is not too late to sow permanent pasture, this needs to be sown right away for best results.

Mr. Johnson and Mr. Scott of the Phillip Morris Company, Richmond, Va.; asked if I would try to get a group of the top tobacco farmers to tour their plant in Richmond this fall. Wonder if any of you are interested? If so please call or let me know. Husbands and wives will be invited if there is enough interest. This is something to see. The Forestry Club visited this plant in the summer.

Warren County Extension Service for supporting me and giving me the opportunity to work at camp. It shall be a summer that I will remember all my life.

I would like to encourage every boy and girl who is not a part of the 4-H experience to join up. 4-H offers young people many opportunities for growth and development in its program of training in the art of better living. But it is also necessary that we, as 4-H'ers, learn to make the most of what we have, to pass on to future generations some of the knowledge gained and to make the land where we stand more valuable for those who follow us.

I would also like to encourage all 4-H members to attend 4-H Camp at least once. The camp program provides many opportunities, new experiences, recreational advantages, and the privilege of making new friends and coming in contact with people.

Price emphasized ways to "Make The Best Better." He also suggested ways to use the 4-H pledge for God and all mankind. Everyone listened as he spoke. During the whole program we knew God was in our midst.

We were also delighted to have the Wise-Paschall 4-H Club with its leader, Mrs. Eva Holtzman. They sang the old time favorites — "The Old Rugged Cross" and "Amazing Grace." One could almost see the world being made as Miss Lisa Reavis gave her recitation on "The Creation." Miss Reavis is in the Embro 4-H Club. The Community Echoes from Oine 4-H Club did a very beautiful job with "I've Been Running For A Mighty Long Time and I'm Not Tired Yet" and other soul stirring songs.

Each member of our club took a part in the program and did an outstanding job. We thank all the 4-H'ers, leaders, parents, and friends for coming and participating in this 4-H Sunday Program.

Temperatures have reached 134 degrees in Death Valley.

Stevenson farm about a mile north of Brown's Baptist Church on the Henderson-Warrenton Road. The soybean variety demonstration consists of 18 different varieties replicated six times under the lime, phosphate and potash versus no lime.

Mrs. Lynch Receives Certification

Mrs. Faye Lynch, Public Health Nurse at the Warren County Health Department, has been certified as a Pediatric Nurse Practitioner by the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond. Mrs. Lynch's nine month training included over four months classroom work at the college and 640 hours of clinical work under the supervision of the Duke University Medical Center Pediatric Department.

A Pediatric Nurse Practitioner is a Registered Nurse who has received additional training in the health needs and medical problems of children from birth through adolescence. Upon certification from the State Medical Board of Examiners the Nurse Practitioner is authorized to provide expanded medical services under standing orders from a physician.

Mrs. Lynch has returned to full-time service at the Warren County Health Department. She will use her training to expand the Pediatric Clinic services offered by the Health Department.

Ms. Carolyn Klyce, Warren County Health Director, expressed excitement over Mrs. Lynch's certification and return to the department. "The presence of a Pediatric Nurse Practitioner will greatly enhance our ability to provide comprehensive and high quality care for the children of our county."

Mrs. Lynch lives in rural Macon. She graduated from the Riverside Hospital School of Professional Nursing in Newport News, Virginia in 1972. She has been employed at the Warren County Health Department since 1975.

Plans Made For Clinic

Ms. Carolyn Klyce, Warren County Health Director, announced plans for the expansion of the Health Department's Pediatric Clinic. "Beginning Oct. 10, our pediatric Nurse Practitioner, Mrs. Faye Lynch, will conduct clinics for children on Monday and Tuesday of each week from 8:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m." She added that these clinics will be in addition to the regular Wednesday physician staffed clinic.

Mrs. Faye Lynch has recently returned to the Department after nine months training at the Medical College of Virginia. She was enthusiastic about her new role. "With two new clinics we will have time to perform more special diagnostic tests as well as do more counseling with the parents about the health needs of their children."

Dozen From Here On VG Deans List

Twelve Warren County students at Vance-Granville Community College have been named to the school's dean's list for the summer quarter.

Students honored are Rosetta Belk, George D. Harris, Henry C. Hayes, Thomas R. Burchette, all of Warrenton; Patsy B. Rooker, Jack H. Collins, James A. Hobgood, Donna L. Paschall, all of Norlina; Allan L. Adcock, Carroll E. Harris, Veronica J. Boyd, all of Macon; and Debbie Lynn Hicks of Wise.

Ball Completes Disease Course

James Ball, Jr., Public Health Investigator Aide for the Warren County Health Department, has completed a two-week course on Venereal Disease Epidemiology at the Chicago Social Hygiene Clinic in Chicago, Illinois. The course was sponsored by the US Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Center for Disease Control.

The course, listed as "An Introduction to Casefinding and Case Management," stressed the need for understanding and knowledgeable counseling for the patient with Venereal Disease. Ball, commenting on the course, said, "It certainly helped me understand better the need for an effective Venereal Disease program."

Ms. Carolyn Klyce, Warren County Health Director, commented that Ball's training would be a great help in the department's efforts to provide a comprehensive program of Venereal Disease Control. "We hope that we will now be able to offer a complete program of education, testing, treatment and counseling to combat the Venereal Disease problem."

Ball is a native of Norlina. He is employed at the

Price Is Speaker

By CHARLIE FIELDS, JR.

On October 2, 1977, the Norlina Youth Improvement club observed its 4-H Sunday at the Norlina First Baptist Church. The guest speaker was Walter Price. Price spoke on different opportunities in the 4-H program. Also appearing on the program was Lisa Reavis, member of the Embro 4-H Club who recited "The Creation"; Wise-Paschall 4-H'ers, who sang two selections; and the Community Echoes, members of the Oine 4-H Club. We express our thanks to those who participated.
