Vaughan Teacher Recognized As Club's Teacher Of Month

Mrs. Virginia P. Faulkner, a veteran teacher and a Warren County native, was recently chosen Teacher of the Month at the Vaughan Elementary School in Vaughan.

She was selected by a committee of teachers at the school.

Mrs. Faulkner, who lives in Macon, teaches math, science and social studies to the seventh grade.

Her philosophy is that teachers should possess certain characteristics which are required for effective teaching. These characteristics should include love, a sense of humor, a sense of fair play and the ability to mold values and Christian principles, she observes.

"I try to love the children I teach and try to earn their respect with kindness, rather than demand it with authority," she says. "I like to think that I am being influential in molding character that will blossom into happy, well-adjusted citizens capable of making contributions to society."

Mrs. Faulkner says that, although she laughs with her children, at the same time she is aware of the admonition of Ecclesiastes 3 which says, "To everything there is a season, and a time every matter under heaven: A time to be born, and a time to die...A time to weep and a time to laugh...A time to mourn and a time to dance." As a member of the Mount Zion Baptist Church in Macon, she is active in its program and serves as church clerk, a Sunday School teacher, president of the Senior Missionary Circle and director of the youth choir.

Her civic affiliations include membership in the Holiday Club of Halifax County.

A graduate of Fayetteville State University, Fayetteville, Mrs. Faulkner has done additional work at Howard University in Washington, D. C. and at East Carolina University in Greenville.

She holds membership in the National Education Association, the Warren County unit of the North Carolina Association of Educators and the local Association of Classroom Teachers.

The project of choosing a Teacher of the Month is sponsored by the Warrenton Junior Woman's Club.

Patent for the electric light bulb was granted to Thomas A. Edison in 1880.

Dr. Nannette Henderson Addresses North Warren's Student Council

The Student Council of North Warren Middle School for the 1977-78 school year was installed Friday. The guest speaker was Dr. Nannette Henderson of Vance-Granville Community College.

Kathy Powell, listing some of the qualifications necessary to become members of the student council, opened the program, and David Paschall, reading from 1st Corinthians, Chapter 13, gave the invocation and led the group in prayer.

Members of the student council were introduced by William Shulenburg and installed by Willie J. Cuthbertson.

Officers installed were: Connie Fogg, president,

Tony Mayfield, vice-president; Josephine Durham, secretary; Angela Alston, assistant secretary; Nathaniel Hicks, treasurer; Kathy Powell, assistant treasurer; David Paschall, reporter; Jeff Murphy, assistant reporter.

President of the student council Connie Fogg introduced Dr. Henderson, whose speech, "How We Should Plan For Our Future," stressed the illimitable possibilities of each individual regardless of race, sex, geographical, social background, or economic status.

"You make up your mind what you want to be and you can be that, if you are willing to take the initiative. The only limitations are in your own mind," said Dr. Henderson.

"Start making up your minds now, about the things you enjoy doing. Wouldn't you like to get paid for what you like to do?"

Dr. Henderson told the students to read everything they can get their hands on, and not only to read, but to understand everything they read.

"Aim for the best," she said. "If you want to go to Harvard, work for the grades that will get you to Harvard."

However she said that there was no need for students to go out of state to find excellent "senior institutions," and reminded students that UNC at Chapel

Hill is second in dentistry, while Duke is "in the top five for medicine."

Dr. Henderson discussed the financial and educational advantages of two-year educational institutions such as Vance-Granville, where "almost every student we have is on financial aid," and suggested that students begin a savings account for college as early as possible.

The program was closed with the singing of "America."

Maconeer's Hold Open House At New Center

By DIANE TURNER
The Maconeer's 4-H'ers, leaders, parents and friends came to Open House at the Macon Recreation Center Sunday from 1-2:30 p. m.

Praise and congratulations were extended to club members for their dedication shown towards the club house project.

Following open house, the Maconeer's and friends again assembled for thanksgiving. The occasion was 4-H Church Sunday Observance being held at the Second Baptist Church. Speaker for the annual service was S. M. Cheston, Norlina 4-H club leader.

Cheston's exhortation to everyone centered upon personal and group satisfaction. He challenged the group to prevent pride and jealousy from blocking success.

Remarks were given by Mrs. Estelle Somerville, an adult volunteer leader of the Maconeer's. The Rev. Lawrence Harrison gave the beginning prayer and benediction.
