Iron Source
Good sources of iron include dried fruits such as raisins, dates, prunes, peaches and apricots. A one-half cup serving of most dried fruits provides at least one-sixth of the iron recommended for the normal healthy person per day.

THE GREAT AMERICAN SANDWICH RETURNS

As food prices increase and time seems to diminish, many people are returning to "brown bagging" it at lunchtime. It is no wonder that peanut butter and jelly, The Great American Sandwich, is more popular than ever before. Peanut butter and jelly provides low cost, high quality nutrition. This basic combination is packed with protein, niacin, essential minerals and energy, yet it is low in cholesterol. Ounce for ounce, peanut butter has more protein than higher priced sandwich spreads such as chicken, tuna or ham salad. The fresh fruit flavor of jelly or jam enhances the peanut butter partnership.

Peanut butter and jelly sandwiches are quick to fix and easy to tote. By varying bread selection and adding some imaginative ingredients of your own, you can eat a different peanut butter and jelly sandwich every day of the month! Try peanut butter and jelly plus raisins, honey, chopped apple, shredded cheese—the list is limitless. Just add a container of icy cold milk and indulge.

DOUBLE CRUNCH SANDWICH

3/4 cup Jif Crunchy Peanut Butter
1/4 cup bacon, crumbled cooked
2 tablespoons parsley
3/4 cup Welch's Grape Jelly or Jam

12 slices bread
In a bowl mix peanut butter, bacon and parsley. Stir until well blended. Spread mixture on 6 slices whole wheat or other bread. Spread jelly or jam over peanut butter mixture. Top with 6 more bread slices.

BANANA-BERRY SANDWICH

3/4 cup Jif Creamy Peanut Butter
1/2 cup Welch's Strawberry Jam
2 medium bananas, sliced
1 tablespoon water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
12 slices bread

Evenly spread 12 slices of banana nut bread or other bread with peanut butter. Spread 6 of the slices with jam. In a bowl mix water and lemon juice. Add bananas and toss until well coated. Spoon banana slices over jelly. Top with remaining bread, peanut butter side down.

Watch For Termite Signs Around Home

It's that time of year when the presence of termites can most easily be detected, so be on the lookout for these highly destructive pests.

Identifying a termite is very easy, even for a person who doesn't know much about insects, suggests N. C. Agricultural Extension Service specialists. Take a close look at the area directly behind the insect's legs. If that area is very broad and about the same diameter as the rest of the body, it's a termite.

Then, take a look at the wings. On a termite, all four wings are about the same size. Check the antennae. Those on a termite are more or less straight with no elbow.

Now that you have identified the insect, the question is what should you do about it?

If you discover a termite, it's best to call a professional licensed pest control operator. Don't panic, termites work slowly. Call several companies and have them come out to take a look. Get several estimates before contracting the job. A termite job done correctly will usually last as long as the building does.

Some pest control companies will offer an annual inspection contract. These are usually a good idea, if not too expensive. In most cases, only an inspection will be necessary and little, if any, insecticide will need to be applied.

If you need more information on termites, check with your local Agricultural Extension Service office.

TRIVIA

Marshmallows freeze well. They're easier to cut and much less sticky when partially frozen. Dip kitchen shears into hot water for a minute or two before cutting marshmallows.

To freeze mushrooms, wash and slice or leave whole, whichever way you plan to use them. Freezer-wrap in the quantities you'll need. They may also be sauteed and frozen.

Angels Disguised As Children

These little angels can sing, now that they are no longer ill or hungry. Others are still waiting.

Angels sing in the strangest places...in Ouagadougou, Bangalore, Guayaquil and Dacca, and the angels are often disguised as children. To thousands of these angels, the places are not strange—they are home, a place to laugh and play and sing. Unfortunately, for 350 million of the world's children, home can also mean hunger, malnutrition, disease and loneliness.

For some of these angels, love has changed their cries of hunger to songs of confidence. You can bring a new song to a hungry child by becoming a child sponsor. Sponsorship can mean a new life of health and happiness for a child.

For a free booklet on how you can help the angels sing... "Building Bridges of Love"... write World Vision International, Box O, Pasadena, Ca. 91109.
