appeared in a film with Ronald and Nancy Reagan, shown above. The famous couple recently autographed the picture taken on the set of "Hell Cats of the Navy" for Mrs. Burwell.

Terrell Named To School Post

TERRELL

Benjamin Travis Terrell, a former teacher at John Graham High School, has been named principal of Warren County's new consolidated high school. His election was announced Monday night by the Warren County Board of Education.

Terrell, 33, is now serving as principal of Scotland Neck High School in Halifax County. He has been at that post since 1973. Terrell was chosen from a field of 17 applicants seeking the new position.

"We're real pleased that a person of his calibre and background is coming back here," Superintendent Mike Williams said Tuesday. Terrell is expected to begin his duties here after the first of the year.

Terrell began his teaching duties as a teacher at Bethlehem School in Warren County during the summer of 1969. He also began a four-year stint as a teacher at John Graham High School that year.

While in Warren County he was a member of the Warren County Rural Fire Department and a vestryman of Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

Married to the former Susan Connor, he and his wife have four children, Jennifer, Eleanor, Benjamin and Emily.

Terrell is a graduate of Raleigh's Needham B. Broughton High School. He has degrees from East Carolina University and Appalachian State University and is at present completing requirements for a Ph.D. degree at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Warren Clubs Receive State 4-H Recognition

Five North Carolina 4-H Clubs have been named state winners in a "Youth Looks at Aging" Contest.

The winning clubs were cited for outstanding involvement with their grandparent generation, according to Isabelle Buckley, extension specialist in gerontology at North Carolina State University.

The winners are: Bute Street Neighborhood 4-H Club, Warren County; Griffith 4-H Club, Forsyth County; Ross Drive 4-H Club, Stanly County; White Marsh 4-H Club, Columbus County; and Wildcat 4-H Club, Sampson County.

The five winning clubs received engraved plaques from the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), the sponsor for the contest. The program is conducted by the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service.

Honorable mention was given to Surry County EFNEP (Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program) Youth Groups and to Embro Community 4-H Club in Warren County.

Miss Buckley said the purposes of the "Youth Looks at Aging" Program are to promote better inter-generation understanding and communications, to promote youth sensitivity to the needs of others, and to encourage youth action on needs of their elders.

Twenty-six 4-H clubs submitted records, based on evidence of relationships developing and continuing between youth and the elders in community affairs. Forsyth County's Griffith 4-H Club of all boys, also a winner in a national contest, started its project with the study of aging and their attitudes toward elders. Then upon interviewing active retired persons and planning inter-generation activities, the 4-H'ers discovered some very interesting people who were pleased to be recognized. Some fine friendships were begun.

The 4-H boys distributed 500 copies of a senior citizen phone list of emergency numbers and frequently used numbers.

The boys gave gift certificates to their new friends, promising to do chores, such as washing cars, mowing yards and washing windows.

Greater respect for elders was developed by the boys and was demonstrated as the 4-H'ers made bulletin boards at their schools on the theme: "Growing Old Gracefully Begins With

Tuesday Election Facing Voters

Warren County voters will go to the polls in all 14 precincts of the county on next Tuesday, Nov. 4, to express their choice for President and Vice President of the United States, U. S. Hollister Landmark Is Gutted By Fire

The Warrenton Rural Volunteer Fire Department was one of five fire companies responding to a call from Hight's Grocery Store at Hollister, formerly Shearin's Barbecue and Grocery, early Monday morning.

The one-story frame building and its contents were a total loss. The cause of ignition is unknown. No estimate of loss was reported.

The Warrenton Company received a call for assistance at 4 a. m. Monday and dispatched 12 men, a pumper and tanker to the scene.

Other fire companies assisting in the unsuccessful efforts to save the building were Arcola, Inez, Littleton and Red Oak.

In the second fire of the week the Warrenton Rural Fire Department, responding to a 12:05 a. m. call on Tuesday, dispatched 16 men, a pumper and a crash wagon to Cochrane Eastern Furniture Factory on North Main Street where sparks had ignited a sawdust pile. A sanding machine nearby was also

No estimate of damage, believed to have been slight, was reported.

A total of eight fire trucks were brought to the scene by the combined departments with an estimated 40 men. The call was reported to have been received by Arcola Fire Chief Elmer Harris around 4 o'clock on Monday morning and was not controlled until around 6 a. m.

The fire departments reported saving a car garage which stands about six feet from the burned building and which held, at the time of the fire, around $2,000 worth of property.

Total estimated damage was placed at approximately $114,000 by H. P. Hedgepeth, Halifax County deputy sheriff. Hedgepeth said he did not have any reason to suspect arson and that the fire probably started on its own. He said he did not know how the fire began but that evidence showed the place of origin to be around the cash register.
