Firemen

The Norlina Volunteer Fire Department responded to three calls this week, but only minor damage was reported. At 11:08 on Monday the unit received a call that a tractor trailer's brakes had overheated as the rig was travelling on U. S. Highway 158 just east of Norlina. No damage was listed to the 1977 International owned by Glenn Coleman. Five men and one pumper were sent to the scene. At 2:50 a. m. on Tuesday the department responded to a call from the residence of Irvin were served refreshments. The Rev. Mike Safley closed the meeting with prayer.

Other changes in eligibility guidelines for Reduced and Free meals will be announced as soon as they are received in the county, Mrs. Ann Kiliian, School Food Service director, said.

Board Meets Monday

(Continued from page 1) told the commissioners that the State would require a 60-foot right-of-way, which he said was much beyond the actual needs for the road, and he hoped that something could be worked out.

The commissioners suggested that the petition be forwarded to the State Department of Transportation, which would send one of their engineers to the scene and meet with Mrs. Palmer and Mr. Benton in the hope that something may be worked out.

The commissioners re-appointed for three-year terms as Health Board members, Dr. Kirit D. Trivedi, Alpheus Jones and George Fleming.

Re-appointed members of the Capital Health Systems Agency Board, also for three-year terms, were McCarroll Alston and Commissioner George Shearin. Mrs. Doris Dryden was added to this agency as a member of the selection committee.

Appointed as members of the Aging Advisory Council were: Mrs. Ira Bolton and Julian Farrar, for two year terms; Commissioner Clyde Edwards, for a one-year term, Mrs. Thelma Davis, for a one-year term, and Mrs. Annie Bell Richardson, for a three-year term.

County Manager Glenn Newsome announced that sales and use tax collection in Warren County for the month of November totalled $26,038.35.

Consider Construction Before You Purchase

As you slide an outfit on, take a look at it in the dressing room mirror.

Besides asking yourself if it fits, consider a garment's construction before you buy, advises Judieth Mock, extension clothing specialist, North Carolina State University.

Construction not only affects how a garment looks when you wear it, but how long it will wear, she adds.

As a top-to-bottom guide, start with the facings. They should lie flat and not peak out beyond the seams. Also check to make sure the undercollar doesn't show.

Darts should be smooth, without puckers at the ends. Inspect buttonholes to see if they're firmly and evenly stitched, without any loose threads.

Scrutinize those hemlines. On knits, hemming should be invisible. Pulls and puckers are signs of poor construction.

Overall, see if plaids or prints match. Are there any loose threads hanging out of the seams?

Look inside the garment. See if seams have been finished to prevent raveling, especially in woven fabrics.

Good construction gives you a better return for your clothing dollar, the specialist concludes.
