Teresa Gail Clark Weds John Bowman

In a double-ring candlelight ceremony on Saturday, May 23, at Knightdale United Methodist Church, Teresa Gail Clark and John Wallace Bowman were united in marriage by the Rev. H. Robert Warren.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis C. Clark of Knightdale. The bridegroom's parents are the Rev. and Mrs. John Martin Bowman of Warrenton.

The wedding vows were pledged before an altar centered with an arrangement of white glads, daisies, shasta mums, miniature mums, baby's breath and palm branches. In the midst of the arrangement was the Unity Candle which was lighted by the bridal couple during the ceremony.

During the ceremony Holy Communion was observed by the couple as they knelt on the single kneeling bench. Immediately following "Sweet Hour of Prayer" was rendered on the organ chimes.

Wedding music was rendered by Miss Josie Cozart, organist, and Mrs. Betty Barden, cousin of the bride, accompanied on the piano. Among the selections were Trumpet Voluntary in D Major, Ode to Joy, You Light Up My Life, Nadia's Theme, and others.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a formal gown featuring a high neckline, fitted bodice and long slim sleeves. The neckline and bodice were lavishly trimmed in chantilly lace. The skirt was full and ended in a chapel train. Deep flounces of chantilly lace were featured over the entire skirt and train. Her picture hat had chantilly lace trim with satin bow and streamers.

Mrs. Cindy Watson, sister of the bride, was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Gail Mahan of Rocky Mount and Miss Rhonda Bowman of Warrenton, sister of the groom; and Amanda Carroll of Clayton, cousin of the bride.

Mr. Bowman served as his son's best man. Groomsmen were Marty Bowman, brother of the groom; Michael Mahan, brother-in-law of the groom; and Tony Johnson of Wendell.

Presiding at the guest register was Mrs. Shirley Warren, wife of the minister.

The bride is a graduate of East Wake High School and King's College in Charlotte. Prior to her marriage she was a medical office assistant in Raleigh.

The groom was graduated from Vaiden Whitley High School and received a B.S. degree in Civil Engineering from North Carolina State University in May. He will be employed with Gearhart Industries in Cleveland, Okla.

The church was decorated by Douglas Jones, cousin of the bride, who also directed the ceremony and reception.

Reception Immediately following the ceremony the parents of the bride entertained with a reception on the lawn of the church annex.

The wedding cake, a four-tier fresh coconut baked by the bride's mother, was separated between the third and fourth layers and featured a bouquet of flowers. The top was graced with the bride and groom of ceramic and lace for the bride's dress and hat. After the bride and groom cut the first slice, guests were served by Mrs. Frances Carroll and Mrs. Josephine Horton, aunts of the bride, Mrs. Paulette Morris, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Ada Cozart and ladies of the United Methodist Women Night Circle assisting. Other refreshments included punch, chicken salad pastry shells, cheese pennies, nuts, mints, fresh strawberries and a watermelon basket filled with melon balls, grapes, pineapple and cherries.

The bride's table featured her portrait and bouquet.

Rehearsal Prior to the rehearsal, the Bowman-Clark wedding party was entertained by the groom's parents at a cookout at the annex. During the evening, the couple-elect presented the ladies of the wedding with oil lamps to be used in the wedding and the men received engraved key chains.

Showers On April 28 in Warrenton, Teresa and Wally were honored with a miscellaneous shower given by members of the two churches at which Mr. Bowman is pastor. Teresa was presented a corsage and many practical and useful gifts. An arrangement of yellow and white flowers centered the table with yellow tapers. Refreshments consisted of cheese straws, mints, nuts and cake squares.

On April 30 Teresa was

GARDEN African Marigold Is Hardy, Adapts To Most Soils

The African marigold is a member of the Compositae family that did not originate in Africa. African marigolds, like zinnias, are native to Mexico. The plant takes its formal name, Tagetes Erecta, from an Etruscan deity. Etruria is the ancient Roman name given to a part of N.W. Italy, where the marigold was probably introduced sometime in the 16th century.

As one would expect of a Mexican plant, the African marigold is somewhat hardy, producing a sturdy plant that is usually capable of adjusting to local soil conditions. In moderate climates, seeds may be planted under glass in early spring and transplanted in outdoor locations once the danger of frost is past. In tropical areas, the seeds are usually planted outside.

The African marigold likes full sunlight. Watering is required until the plant is established but does not have to be continued on a regular basis except during periods of lengthy drought. Large, single, yellow or orange flowers bloom in summer and late autumn in the moderate and temperate regions, often much longer in the tropical climes. Extended blooming can be induced by removing dead flower heads on a regular basis. Some cultivars are double flowered and may bloom in a variety of colors. Plant height ranges from one to three feet.

Africa's Lake Tanganyika descends to a depth of 4,700 feet.
