Take Good Look If Stuck For Gift

If you're stuck for a good, unusual gift for someone special, take a good look around your own home.

Gifts of family heirlooms such as old books, cookbooks, sheet music, quilts or other handiwork, or even furniture, will be greatly appreciated by those close to you, says Dr. Thelma Hinson, extension family resource management specialist at North Carolina State University.

This is a particularly good gift-giving idea for older persons, perhaps on fixed incomes, who can distribute some of the things they've collected through the years.

Inheritance taxes can be avoided and the valuable or sentimental object will go to someone you know will appreciate and care for it.

Not-So-Eager

Contrary to popular belief, some beavers are careless dam builders and not very eager, the National Geographic Society says. A few old beavers without mates make only halfhearted attempts at dam-building and build structures that look as though the material had drifted there.

MRS. MARTIN LOUIS BOLT

Miss Bloomer Weds M. L. 'Rusty' Bolt

Gail Ann Bloomer of Cedar Grove, N. J. and Martin Louis (Rusty) Bolt of Littleton were united in marriage Saturday, August 21, at 3 p. m. in the Old First Church in Cedar Grove, N. J. with the Rev. Richard Clayton officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bloomer of Cedar Grove, N. J. The groom is the son of Mrs. Ethel Gordon of Littleton and Eugene Bolt of Louisburg.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of chiffon and Alencon lace with a Queen Anne neckline and sheer, full, bishop sleeves with lace appliques and beads. The skirt was three tiers of lace and appliques and featured a chapel train. Her veil was illusion, lace, and net with a floor-length train.

Virginia Aicklin of Cedar Grove, N. J. was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were her sisters, Lisa Bloomer of Cedar Grove and Linda Schneider of Vernon, N. J., Linda Ryder of Littleton, sister of the groom, Tina Esposito of Cedar Grove, N. J., and Karen Dembowski of Fairfield, N. J.

Heather Douma of Hamburg, N. J., cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Eugene Bolt was his son's best man. Ushers were Butch Bolt of Littleton, brother of the groom, Michael Williams of Macon, Kerry Nixon of Littleton, Mark Schneider of Vernon, N. J., and Ed Benge of Cedar Grove, N. J.

Jarman Ryder of Littleton, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer.

A reception was held at the Hanover Manor in East Hanover, N. J.

After-Rehearsal Party
An after-rehearsal outdoor party was held at the home of the bride's paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bloomer. Attending were members of the bridal party and guests from North Carolina.

Health Hazard

People who have experienced job troubles or financial setbacks are nearly twice as likely to be ill or injured and more than twice as likely to report psychological symptoms than those not experiencing such events. Furthermore, members of the middle class appear to be most vulnerable to these undesirable events when the economy takes a turn for the worse.

Singing Seals

The elephant seal often snores to amuse himself. While partly submerged in an isolated tide pool, he may snore in a manner that suggests singing in a bathtub.

Salted

The word "sausage" is derived from the Latin "salsus", meaning salted.
