Moths Munch This Summer

Woolens have been put away, but have they been protected from clothes moths? These common household pests damage many items, particularly furs and wool garments.

To prevent moth damage, follow these tips offered by Dr. Harriet Tutterow, extension clothing specialist - in - charge, North Carolina State University.

—Never store dirty clothing. Dry cleaning or laundering will get rid of any infestation, but cleaning alone will not keep moths away.

—Once garments are cleaned, they should be stored sealed right in containers. It is best to keep the clothing in a cool, dry location away from sunlight.

—Moth balls work. Use paradichlorobenzene (PDB) or naphthalene crystals, available at most drug stores or supermarkets. Certain dyes may be affected by the chemicals, so don't place them in direct contact with fabric. Put the PDB or naphthalene crystals in a ventilated box in the storage area.
