By Commissioners

Full Complement Named To Board

Warren County commissioners Tuesday morning appointed five members to the Warren County Health Board, bringing the total on the board to the 11 required by a newly-enacted North Carolina statute.

Frank Hinson, Warren General Hospital administrator; Dr. Cosmos N. George, Warrenton physician; Mrs. Linda B. Blackburn, a registered pharmacist; and Mrs. Ann R. Copley, a registered nurse; were appointed for three-year terms to expire January 1987.

Mrs. Eva Howell, a teacher at Warren County High School, was appointed for a two-year term to expire in 1986.

The members' terms are staggered so that four have terms expiring in 1987, four have terms expiring in 1986, and three have terms expiring in 1985.

Alpheus Jones, a Warrenton pharmacist, could not be reappointed after his term expired this month because he had served three successive terms and is not eligible for reappointment until he has been off the board for a year.

Dr. Kirit D. Trivedi, whose term also expired this month, was not eligible for reappointment because he is not a resident of Warren County.

The commissioners also approved fee increases for services at the Warren County Health Department as recommended by the state of North Carolina. The state makes such recommendations on an annual basis.

In another committee appointment, the commissioners re-named Doris Dryden to the Capital Health Systems Agency, Inc., for a three-year term beginning April 1.

Remaining Cases Are Disposed Of In Warren Court

The following cases were disposed of recently in Warren County Superior Court by Judge Darius B. Herring, but were not available by presstime for inclusion in the court account in last week's edition:

Ollie Johnson, guilty to felonious possession of stolen property, ordered confined in the N. C. Department of Correction for two and one-half years, suspended for five years, supervised probation for five years upon the following conditions: Pay $2,000 fine and costs, pay $508 restitution to Robert Wahl of Raleigh, and serve 30 days active sentence in Nash or Warren County Jail under supervision of a probation officer. Three counts of breaking and entering, larceny and possession were combined with the felonious possession of stolen property cases and two charges of breaking and entering, larceny, and possession were dismissed by the prosecutor.

John Goode, guilty of felonious possession of stolen goods, ordered confined to the N. C. Department of Correction for a period of two years, suspended for five years under special supervised probation for five years upon the following conditions: that he serve an active sentence of 60 days in the N. C. Department of Correction as a committed youthful offender, the balance of the sentence on probation, pay the costs, remitting any jail fees, reimburse the state of North Carolina the sum of $260 for court-appointed counsel. Supervision fees are remitted.

Larry Wayne Hamm, assault on a female, dismissed by prosecutor.

Willie B. Smith, guilty of driving while license revoked, ordered confined in the N. C.

Department of Correction for one year suspended for five years, unsupervised probation for five years upon the following conditions: Pay $100 fine and costs, not operate a motor vehicle upon the public highways of North Carolina unless and until licensed to do so by competent authorities.

90th Birthday

Observance Held

A reception was held at Sulphur Springs Baptist Church on Sunday, Jan. 2, in honor of Mrs. T. D. Kimball's 90th birthday.

Seven of her children were with her for the occasion. Mrs. Kimball also has 22 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren. She also has one great-great-grandchild who comprises the fifth generation.

Many of her friends and relatives were present, and all enjoyed music played by her son and grandson. The honoree participated in an old fashioned sing-along.

Guests brought a covered dish and the tables were piled high with delicious food.

Mrs. Kimball was born in Granville County, but has lived in Warren County since she was 18 years old.

Nothing Like Soup On These Cold Days

By BARBARA A. MINTER

On these cold winter days nothing seems to warm you up as quickly as a hot bowl of homemade soup right out of the pot. Often made from leftovers, soup is a good way to feed your family nutritiously as well as clean out the refrigerator.

Soup could be called one of our very first convenience foods. Pioneer women often left a pot of stock simmering over the fireplace and added their leftover vegetables and meat at the end of the day to keep a "meal on hand." This way, there was always soup hot and ready to eat.

During winter in colder areas, soup was often hung in an outdoor shed! A large paddle with a hole in the handle was frozen upright in a huge kettle of soup. When the frozen soup was removed from the kettle, the soup was hung up by the hole in the handle. Later when someone wanted soup, all they had to do was "chop a chunk" of the soup and heat for a filling meal.

Recipes for soup are always helpful, but not absolutely essential. After you have taken account of your taste buds, ingredients in your recipe, and check your pantry, your imagination can take over. With this in mind, you will most certainly wind up with a dish that has award winning appeal for you and your family. Here are several recipes which I think you'll find great for making delicious homemade soup for these cold winter days.

Ordinary Stock

- 2 to 3 pounds raw meat, (poultry, red meat or combination)
- 1 onion, quartered
- 1 celery stalk, sliced
- 1 large carrot, sliced
- 3 to 4 quarts cold water
- Salt & pepper

Put all ingredients except the salt in an 8 to 10 quart pot. Bring slowly to a boil and skim off all scum as it rises to the surface. Let the broth boil for 20 minutes or so, reduce the heat to a faint simmer, and cover and simmer for 2 hours. Add salt, and skim off any scum that may linger. If you plan to use the meat, remove it if it is tender. Simmer for another hour or two and let the broth cool. When it is thoroughly cold, remove the fat and the vegetables and bones. Clarify the broth if you like.

A Hearty Main-Dish Soup

- 1 1/2 to 2 quarts stock
- 1/2 cup each diced onion, celery, carrot, green beans, potato, and cabbage
- 1 teaspoon thyme or sage
- 1 cup diced cooked meat
- 3/4 cup shell beans or lima beans
- 2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
- 1 cup elbow macaroni or other pasta

Combine all ingredients but macaroni and bring to a boil. Reduce heat to simmer and cook until vegetables are tender and just slightly overcooked. Add macaroni and cook till it is tender. Serve in warm soup bowls with chopped fresh herbs and, if you like, with grated cheese. With the addition of buttered toast or hot rolls and butter, perhaps sliced tomatoes dressed with oil and vinegar, you have a good hearty supper.

Bean Soup

- 1 1/2 cups dry beans
- 9 cups water
- Meaty ham bone
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- Salt & pepper to taste

Soak beans in water. Boil for 2 minutes, remove from heat, soak 1 hour and then cook. Add ham bone, chopped onion and seasoning. Boil gently, covered, for about 2 hours, or until beans are tender and soup is desired consistency. Remove the ham bone. Mash beans if you like. Cut meat from ham bone and return meat to soup. 6 servings, 1 cup each.

Department of Correction for one year suspended for five years, unsupervised probation for five years upon the following conditions: Pay $100 fine and costs, not operate a motor vehicle upon the public highways of North Carolina unless and until licensed to do so by competent authorities.

Agriculturally Speaking
By RUSSELL KING
Extension Chairman

The following landscape checklist for January should help you have a more productive landscape in 1984.

1.—Many of the summer flowering bulbs will need to be dug and stored for the winter. The following bulbs need some type of overwintering storage: achimenes, agapanthus, anemone, caladium, canna, dahlia, and gladiolus. Several summer flowering bulbs which overwinter and do not require storage are allium, iris and daylily.

2.—Keep fallen leaves raked off of newly seeded lawn areas. A compost pile comes highly recommended. Much has been written on adding fertilizer and lime, turning it periodically, and keeping it shaped where water collects in the center of the pile. These are all good ideas, but not really necessary. For the average homeowner, simply shredding leaves and using as a mulch is sufficient.

3.—Remember to water ornamentals (broadleaf evergreens) during the winter if dry, cold periods are forecast. Also, to help slow down the rate of transpiration, use an anti-transpirant — Cloud Cover or Wilt-Pruf are two familiar products.

4.—Pruning: Large overgrown shrubs can be pruned heavily during this time and should begin to rejuvenate themselves in March and April. Then, in several years, they can be pruned heavily again. A solution to this common situation is to remove the plant and start over with a dwarf or slow-growing species.

5.—If you plan on forcing bulbs into bloom, plant them now. Plant five or six in a six-inch container as they prefer to be slightly potbound. They will be quite a welcome sight during the typical February/March months. After planting, usually six weeks is required to bring into bloom. Discard the bulbs after they bloom.

6.—Recent research results indicate that Tall Fescue requires 10 days at 60 degrees F. to achieve 50 percent germination. The constant temperature below which 50 percent germination will not occur is 55 percent.

Warren Farmer Selected To Take Part In Meet

A Warren County farmer has been selected to participate in a panel discussion on soybean production at the annual meeting of the N. C. Soybean Producers Association on Jan. 20.

Albert Seaman of Ridgeway, a four-time winner of the Northern Piedmont Soybean Yield Contest, will participate with three other panelists at the Raleigh Conference in a presentation on what makes a consistent high yield winner. Russell King, chairman of the Warren County Agricultural Extension Service, said last week that he was pleased Seaman would be participating in the program, and noted that Seaman's soybean crops are an outstanding example of what can result when proper methods of soil conservation are practiced.
