programs, but added that he felt it was not the responsibility of the Board of Education to provide those programs. "Our funds and finances must be directed toward the instructional program," he said. "We don't have that much to begin with."

Before casting his vote against the rate increase, Pitchford said it was not his desire to "provide" the recreation, but to put the facilities "in the reach" of the community.

The board also voted to amend the current policy to provide that school - sponsored groups, such as the PTA, booster clubs, and alumni groups, would be charged no fee for use of facilities because of their varied contributions to the school system.

In other business, the board accepted the resignation of Mary B. Walker as a food service employee with 32 years of service to John Graham Middle School. She is retiring.

It approved the employment of Nancy Townes, food service employee at John Graham, as her replacement.

Also approved were the employment of Juanita Green, part-time exceptional children aide at Norlina Middle School and Carolyn Lockley as ECIA Chapter 1 aide at Hawkins Elementary School.

Maternity leaves were approved for Catherine G. Sledge, secretary at Warren County High School, and for Mary A. Walton, teacher at Northside Elementary School.

A request from Paul Kearney of Afton that his children, Rhonda, a second-grader, and Paul, a third-grader, be permitted to continue attending Mariam Boyd School although the Kearneys have now moved into the South Warren attendance area was granted for the remainder of this school year.

Among the budget amendments approved was the addition of $10,000 to the capital outlay fund as a result of a repayment of money secured by the N. C. Justice Department from Watson Electrical Company. The attorney general recovered the funds after the company's conviction of bid-rigging on Phase III of the Warren County High School project.

At Superintendent Williams' suggestion, the funds were approved for use in roof replacement at Vaughan Elementary School.

Old Timer: "Oh, it's nothing, look how long it took me."

SP4 Garry Andrews, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Andrews of Warrenton, receives a congratulatory handshake from his commander, Brigadier General Mildred E. Hedberg, following his recent promotion. Andrews entered the U. S. Army in May of 1963 and completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S. C., where he won the Instructor's Award. Later, he taught himself and five others to operate a word processor and helped to create a new customer service section in the Military Personnel Office at the headquarters for the U. S. European Command. Currently applying for the rank of warrant officer, Andrews has taught himself to speak German and Dutch.

Cedric Tant of Warrenton (right) is shown with Richard Coleman (left) displaying a quilt he won for the cost of a $1 raffle ticket during a gospel-singing program sponsored by Coleman's group, the Voices of Harmony. The quilt was made by the ladies in the group, and Tant's lucky ticket was drawn Sunday during the group's concert in the Warren County High School theater.

Jelly Drive Chairman Is Named Here

Walter M. Gardner, Jr. of Warrenton Insurance & Real Estate has been named chairman of Warren County Jaycee Jelly Week by Jim Huey, president of the Warren County Jaycees.

Gardner will head the local drive beginning this week to raise money for the North Carolina Jaycee Burn Center in Chapel Hill.

The Jaycee will canvass Warren County during the coming weeks selling jars of jelly to aid the North Carolina Burn Center.

"A goal of 420 jars of jelly has been set for Warren County and I am quite confident that the citizens of our county will continue to support the North Carolina Jaycee Burn Center," Gardner said. The jars of jelly sell for $1.00.

Persons wishing to order jelly would contact Gardner by calling 257-3104 or see any Warren County Jaycee.

Aid's policy to abide by town ordinances regarding pornography, and that in some instances sale of such magazines had been stopped if a sufficient number of complaints were made to the home office by local citizens.

"We really don't want to cause problems," he said, and noted that the sale of the magazines was a relatively low-volume business.

Rite Aid currently carries such magazines in a rack at the check-out counter, and the covers are not exposed, he explained.

"But it's still bad," he said.
