CLYDE E. RODWELL
Graveside services for Clyde E. Rodwell, 92, were conducted at Fairview Cemetery in Warrenton at noon Friday by the Rev. Gary E. Parker, pastor of Warrenton Baptist Church. Mr. Rodwell died Wednesday at Warren General Hospital at Warrenton after being in declining health for several months.

A native of Oakville, Warren County and the son of the late Walter P. and Margaret Jeffress, he graduated Cum Laude from Wake Forest College in 1914. Following his graduation, he taught school for a short period, worked in the Bank of Warrenton and served for a short time as Warren County's first auditor.

In January 1920 he and his elder brother, H. W. Rodwell, became stockholders of W. H. Dameron and Company in the supply business. Following the death of W. H. Dameron, Warren Cotton and Fertilizer Company was incorporated in 1932 with H. W. Rodwell, C. E. Rodwell and Mrs. W. H. Dameron as stockholders.

He served with the company until its sale to Smith-Douglass Company in 1965. At that time he was president of the company to which W. R. Woodall had been added as stockholder. Following the sale, unwilling to retire, he formed his own fertilizer company with a warehouse at the Warrenton Railroad Depot with Wiley Coleman as warehouse manager. He served as salesman for one or two years before his retirement.

For about 10 years he served as a member of the Warren County Industrial Commission until his retirement because of ill health. He was a member of the Warrenton Baptist Church where he had served as trustee and deacon for many years. He was a former member of the Warrenton Rotary Club.

Surviving are his wife, Annie Harris Rodwell of the home; two daughters, Mrs. Anne R. Huntley of Reston, Va., and Mrs. James E. Trotter, Jr., of Durham; eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Memorial donations

may be made to the North Carolina Synphony.
