Olive Grove Homemakers Meet In Wilkins Home

By THELMA BYRD
The Olive Grove Homemakers Club met in the home of Mrs. Lillian Wilkins April 18.

The meeting was called to order by the president and devotion was led by the hostess.

Miss Margaret Woods, extension agent, gave the educational program on "Low Cost Decorating." A film was shown to seven members present entitled, "No Nonsense Decorating."

The program was enjoyed by all. The film showed all types of furniture, old, restored, inexpensive, and various designs in fabrics. Items on display were a rug (for wall hanging), drapes with clip-on pleats, a handmade lamp shade, pictures, and a large pillow.

Miss Wood suggested these questions to ask when decorating: What about your interest, Where do you live: How many are in your family? What about your lifestyle? Who are you?

With these points in mind, and understanding that price does not mean quality, you will be able to manage very well. Be sure to decorate according to your needs.

We continued with the business part of the meeting and reviewed some of the accomplishments we had enjoyed during the year.

Oine 4-H Club Has Gathering

By SABRINA WYCHE
The Oine 4-H club held its regular monthly meeting recently in the home of Mrs. Alice Harrison.

Miss Margaret Woods, extension agent, was the guest speaker. She discussed project books and stressed the importance of an early start on book preparation.

The group also discussed 4-H Camp. President Marie Downey presided over the meeting.

Twenty-one old members and one new member were present, in addition to five leaders.

The club repeated the 4-H pledge and the pledge of allegiance before closing with the 4-H motto.

Refreshments were then served.

Mrs. Samuel Howard from Washington, D. C. has been able to meet with us for the last two months. We always enjoy her presence.

The meeting was adjourned with the Club Collect and grace song. Refreshments were served.

Glenn E. Woolard, Warren County 4-H agent, has graduated from the North Carolina Agricultural Extension's Executive Institute.

Woolard was one of 25 students who attended 18 days of instruction over a six-month period. Along with classwork, students put much time on team case studies and individual work in home counties.

"The Institute is a leadership program for outstanding county agents," said Dr. Chester D. Black, state extension director. "It focuses on developing those concepts, skills and values that extension workers must possess to provide dynamic and effective management and program leadership."

Woolard holds degrees from North Carolina State University. He joined the Warren County Extension Service in 1977.

Water and a damp environment will make furniture finished with shellac sticky.
