

Express Anger

tract within Eaton's Ferry Estates' restrictive boundaries brought objections from the propertyowners.

Although Brock is currently selling residential lots he owns within the Eaton's Ferry subdivision, his plans for the multi-family dwellings have been put on hold because the current county zoning ordinance does not address townhouses or condominiums.

That ordinance is being restudied by the Warren County Planning Board and representatives of the N. C. Department of Natural Resources and Community Development and proposed amendments to the ordinance are expected to be presented to commissioners in the near future.

Mrs. Eva M. Clayton, chairperson of the board, told the delegation of property owners that the board wanted to be on record in favor of development. "Also, we are aware that you can have bad development and unprincipled developers and we don't want that," she said. "We don't want development at the expense of those who live here."

No action was taken by the commissioners, but Mrs. Clayton told the delegation that they had "brought out many issues that we need to know about."

In 1983, Brock was found to be in violation of the N. C. Sedimentation Pollution Control Act of 1973 in the development of the West Lake subdivision. He was ordered by the N. C. Department of Natural Resources and Community Development to submit a revised sedimentation control plan which is due this month.

Tunstall alumni of the Year Award was presented to Mrs. Trudi Alston Hargrove of the Northern New Jersey Chapter and was accepted by Mrs. Nan K. Moore.

Other recognitions and awards were made by Miss Ella C. Dunson, Roosevelt Evans and Mrs. Patsy T. Hargrove.

John Moore presented the recently published alumni yearbook (memory book), which is a must for all alumni to have. Copies may be purchased or reserved through the executive secretary or members of the Warrenton Chapter.

The annual dance followed the banquet, with music rendered by the Charlie Hunt Band of Durham.

The day is coming when Americans — notorious for their love of a tender steak — can order a custom-made tenderloin from a combination of meats such as rib-eye, sirloin and even pork roast. Made possible by a process called co-extrusion, the technique is already being used by some fast food restaurants which offer "ribs" or steak fingers made from a combination of meats.

Baltimore Club Meets

By TIMOTHY KEARNEY
On Wednesday, Aug. 29, the Baltimore Community 4-H Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Kearney.

Conieka Stevenson, president of the club, called the meeting to order. The minutes of the last meeting were read after which the club discussed dues and projects with members.

George Koonce, extension agent, 4-H, worked with the members of the schedule of events for the 1984-85 calendar year. The club welcomed three new members: Claudetta Jones, Terrance Wiggins and Lee A. Kearney, Jr., and Brenda Kearney, adult leader.

The meeting ended with refreshments by Miss Willie Bell Stevenson. The next meeting will be Sept. 11 at the home of Mrs. Arlene Alston.

GED PREP CLASSES

General Education Development (GED) classes help adults earn the equivalent of a high school diploma. The student is guided in the area of study needed to pass the high school equivalency tests. The GED test covers five subject areas: writing skills, social studies, science, reading skills and mathematics. When a student feels ready, she or he can take the GED tests which are administered on campus ($5.00 for all five tests). A student who passes receives a nationally-recognized High School Equivalency Diploma from the State of North Carolina.

GED classes are free of charge. However, book fees will be approximately $10. To pre-register call VGCC at 492-2061, or your local community school coordinator Mary Hunter, 257-3184.
