Members Of Pfeiffer Choir To Appear Here

The Pfeiffer College Handbell Choir will appear in concert at 8 p.m. Thursday, March 14, at Wesley Memorial United Methodist Church in Warrenton.

The performance, which is open to the public without charge, is part of the 12-member choir's March tour of the East Coast. Comprised of both music majors and non-music majors from the college, located in Misenheimer, the group is directed by Marvin Burke, associate professor of music.

The choir has toured every year since its inception in 1978, performing throughout the Southeast. In addition, its members have made television appearances and regularly give performances at area high schools as well as two performances annually at the college.

"Because of our widely varied program and the talented young people in the group, we have always been well received wherever we have played," Burke said.

The program will include both sacred and secular music, including "To Music" by David Stanley York, "Festive Overture by Alice Proctor," "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today" by Lyra Davidica, "Send in the Clowns" by Stephen Sondheim, and "Holiday for Strings" by David Rose.

Founded in 1885, Pfeiffer is a four-year, Methodist-related institution of arts and sciences and selected professional studies with an enrollment of 800 on campuses in Misenheimer and Charlotte.

"Bells have become a very important part of church music in the United States," Burke said, "so they are an important part of the educational experience of the many Pfeiffer students who prepare for careers in church music."
