Backwards Prom Held

By LISA WILSON

Warren County High held its first annual "Morp" Friday night. The "Morp" was a backwards prom sponsored by the Future Homemakers of America. Instead of wearing their Sunday best, students wore their Friday worst. Girls asked guys to be their dates, and couples ate at Hardee's rather than at steakhouses. Unprofessional photographs were taken. The event was not restricted to juniors and seniors as the prom traditionally is. Freshmen and sophomores were welcome to attend, too. The dance was a big success and students look forward to next year's "Morp" with anticipation.

Wednesday marks the end of the first trimester at WCHS. Thursday and Friday are teacher workdays and students will have a holiday. Exams will be Tuesday and Wednesday, with first and third period tests Tuesday and second and fourth period tests Wednesday. Second "tri" will begin Monday, Nov. 25.

Ms. Pattie Bugg, a new vocational guidance counselor, has founded a Students Against Drunk Drivers chapter at WCHS. "SADD" encourages students not only to dissuade friends from driving while intoxicated, but also refrain from driving drunk themselves. Responsible representatives from each homeroom will compose the group.

A representative from the School of Textiles at North Carolina State University visited the campus Thursday. He talked with seniors who are currently enrolled in chemistry or physics courses and discussed career opportunities in the textile field and N. C. State University as a college choice. The suggestions he offered were both informative and helpful.

Coach James Howell's varsity boys basketball team will open their season Tuesday night with a scrimmage game against Northampton West. Friday night, they will scrimmage Bunn. The regular season begins Monday, Nov. 25, against Louisburg. All three games will be at home. Everyone is encouraged to come out and support the Eagles.

Conferences Slated

By SALLIE PIERCE

Now that we have reached the end of the first trimester, it's time for parent-teacher conferences. This is when parents come to school to meet with teachers and pick up report cards. This week's conferences will be held from 3-6 p. m. on Wednesday and from 8 a. m.-1 p. m. on Thursday. Appointments have been set up by the advisors. Parents, please keep your appointments!

The Blue Waves are very proud of the new celebrity in our midst. Our secretary, Mrs. Anne Mulchi, appeared on "P. M. Magazine" last week and showed off an unusual talent. Mrs. Mulchi plays the cigar box! On the program she delighted her audience as she played along with a Willie Nelson tune. Her television debut brought a sense of pride to Norlina's students and faculty. Thank you, Mrs. Mulchi.

It's almost basketball time again, and the Blue Waves are preparing for the season. Coaches William Shulenburg and William Fuller have set try-outs for the week of Dec. 2. Students who plan to try out must have insurance and a current physical. The students look forward to practice and the prospect of a winning season!

We also look forward to Thursday and Friday of this week when we will not attend school.

Recently, students from Ms. Priscilla Shepard's eighth grade social studies class dressed as figures from North Carolina's history. The students portrayed such persons as Queen Elizabeth, Sir Francis Drake, John Cabot, Manteo and many others. As a part of the project, they were interviewed by Mr. W. T. Ramey, III, the principal, and asked to explain the role of their characters in North Carolina's history. The students gained many insights into historical events of the past through this project.

John Graham Middle School closed out the football schedule with a win over Gaston Middle School from Northampton County. This is the first year in several that the Yellow Jackets have enjoyed a winning season. They ended their season with a 25-8 victory over Gaston, giving them four wins and three losses for the season.

Craig Battle scored two touchdowns in this last game, Eric Davis scored one and Norwell Wilson scored one. Shawn Kearney kicked one extra point. Charles Perry and Daryl Hall shared the quarterback duties for the Yellow Jackets.

Depth Problems Bothered Eagles

By GAREY BALLANCE
Sports Writer

After a 1-5 start, the Warren County Eagles football team won three of their last four games to finish the 1985 season at 4-6. This changed the outlook of their season from dismal to respectable.

The Eagles were short on depth this season and were forced to start inexperienced sophomores at some positions. Still, Coach Coleman put together a solid team. With a little luck, Warren County game close to finishing 8-2, which would have put them in the playoffs. Four of their six losses came from margins of six points or less.

Key offensive players for the Eagles this season were tailbacks Randy Jordan and Oakley Green and quarterbacks Dan Blaylock and Allen Ellington. Blaylock and Green are seniors. Jordan, who rushed for over 900 yards this season, will return along with Ellington.

On defense, the Eagles were led by seniors, Michael Jordan, Jim West, Cornelius Davis, Richey Hawkins, Roy Kearney, Steve Williams, Waverly Taylor, Oakley Green and Jason Coffman. Also, Randy Jordan, Grady Sessoms and Maurice Crump are all returning starters for the defense.

Eagle fans wish Coach Coleman much success as he prepares for the 1986 season.

Basketball season officially begins for Eagle teams on Monday, Nov. 25, when they play host to Louisburg. Basketball practice began on Nov. 1 and now coaches are in the process of making their final cuts.

All three clubs are very optimistic about having a winning season. Only the JV boys were below .500 last season, but they have a good crop of players coming in this season.

The Eagle basketball coaches are McCoin Brown; junior varsity; Floyd Shaw, varsity girls; and James Howell, varsity boys. All of these coaches are returning to their last-season positions.

Friday night the Eagles will tune up for Louisburg when they face Bunn in a scrimmage contest. The game will be held at the high school gym with the JV game beginning at 5 p. m.

Committee Of 100

(Continued from page 1) agriculture could not continue to shoulder its proportionate share of years past and that steps must be taken to fill the void.

Representative Frank Ballance offered informal remarks, pledging to do what he could in the State Legislature to support the group.

The meeting at the Warrenton Lions Den ended on a positive note, with citizens and businesses making contributions or commitments to the Committee of 100.

Mrs. Wilson noted on Friday that the response surpassed what she had anticipated. At the next meeting of the steering committee, she said, the group will split into two parts and enter into competition for engaging participants. She encouraged anyone interested in joining the committee or in learning more about the project to contact her office at 257-3114 or to write: Warren Committee of 100, Inc., P. O.
