Bronze Star Comes 40 Years Late

Forty years ago, Claude J. Smith of Warrenton was notified that he had been awarded a Bronze Star for his service in the U.S. Army in the European-African-Middle Eastern Theatre of Operations during World War II. This past September, Smith finally received the medal, along with a commendation from President Reagan for "meritorious achievement in combat against an armed enemy." According to Smith, a friend who prefers to remain anonymous recently decided the time had come for Smith to get the military decorations he deserved and undertook the task of greasing the wheels of government bureaucracy. Smith, shown here with the Bronze Star and other medals of commendation, said this week that he served 310 days on the front lines and never got a scratch. "I got my medals," Smith said with a smile, "and that's all I want." Smith, a Henderson native, served in the Army from 1943-45. An employee of A&P Grocery in Warrenton, he will retire after 33 years of service in February.

Unexpected Gift Found By Afton-Elberon Man

William L. Fuller, Jr., of Afton, received an unexpected belated birthday greeting last week, unbeknownst to the sender. On Tuesday Fuller, whose birthday was Monday, noticed an unusual white object in his pasture. Upon examination with binoculars, he determined that the foreign object was a cluster of "Happy Birthday" balloons which had been snagged by a tree limb. Fuller retrieved the balloons and learned from the inscription that the balloons had been sent to Jackie Dean of Louisburg. During the weekend, Fuller's wife, Eleanor, telephoned Dean and learned that the balloons had been sent to him anonymously on the preceding Saturday, a day before his birthday. Somehow, Dean said, the helium-filled balloons disappeared from his residence on Monday. The chain of events amounted to one of those coincidental happenings which come along rarely. Mrs. St. Sing Honored At Carolina Sportswear

Carolina Sportswear honored Emily St. Sing at a reception on Nov. 11 in recognition of her upcoming retirement on Dec. 31. Former retirees attended the reception as honored guests. Among those present were Carrie Allen, Betty Cobb, Ella Collins, Sue Darnell, Lizzie Falkner, Mary D. Hecht, Henrietta King, Lillie King, Gladys Leonard, Pamela Moseley, Beaufort Odom, Sarah Parham, Alice Robertson, Estelle Robertson, Harry Sabrowski, Katie Shearin, Sue Shearin, Gertrude Short, Susie Stegall, Viola St. Sing and Mary Tucker. The honoree's daughter, Pat St. Sing, also attended as a special guest.

Guests and employees were invited into the lunchroom by the plant manager, John Andrews, and supervisors. Mrs. St. Sing was presented an engraved silver tray from her co-workers and she also received many personal gifts from fellow employees and friends. The occasion took place on Mrs. St. Sing's birthday and she was remembered by her son, W. C. St. Sing of Chesapeake, Va., who could not attend, with an arrangement of long-stemmed red roses.

The retiree has worked at Carolina Sportswear since Feb. 6, 1959. Employees voiced their regret at her leaving and noted that they would remember the pet statement she has made through the years when pleased with her work, "Now, ain't that 'purty'." The lobby and lunchroom of the plant were decorated for the celebration. The bulletin board was designed especially for the former retirees, displaying pictures of them during the time they worked at Carolina.

Refreshments and a time of fellowship were enjoyed by those attending.

Little Garden Club Members Have Meeting

By JAN PERKINSON
The Little Garden Club met at Emmanuel Episcopal Church Parish House on Tuesday, Nov. 12.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Katy Jones and Mrs. Betty Rollinson.

Mrs. Nellie Gardner introduced Bradley Carroll of First Citizens Bank who spoke on the purpose and function of the Warren County Committee of 100 and urged support for the countywide project.

Bill Delbridge of Norlina presented a delightful program on "Lawns and Shrubs." He gave many useful gardening tips and suggested remembering his five "P's" when gardening: planning, preparing soil, planting, pruning and propagating.

A business meeting followed the program.

On Dec. 5, members will be traveling to Hope Plantation near Windsor for a tour.

Cologne is perfume that has been diluted with water and alcohol.
