Campaign Is Planned

The Warren County Board of Health gave its endorsement Monday night to a campaign which Health Director Dennis Retzlaff hopes will give new meaning to the term "public health" in Warren County.

"Partnership for the Public's Health" is a "broad-based campaign to help the general population understand what it means to promote public health," Retzlaff said yesterday.

In the past 10 years, Retzlaff commented, the department has become more geared to providing direct services, such as family planning, to county residents.

With those services has come the notion that the health department exists primarily to provide health care services Wheels were set in motion Monday night for the beginning of a new term of office for the Warrenton Town Board as Mayor B. G. White and seven commissioners were sworn in by Clerk of Superior Court Richard E. Hunter, Jr.

Taking the oath of office along with the six returning commissioners was new commissioner, Ray Shearin, who ran unopposed in the November election for the seat vacated some months ago by the death of Commissioner Gordon Haithcock. Councilmen resuming their places on the board included Eddie

Bobby Edmonds, W. A. Miles, Charles White and A. A. Wood. The board made the following appointments of town personnel: V. R. (Pete) Vaughan, town administrator; Freddie Robinson, chief of police; Bill Neal, water superintendent; W. C. Williams, street superintendent; Carolyn specified period of time. In another personnel matter, the board voted to offer Debbie Formyduval, assistant town clerk, who recently tendered her resignation, a salary increase of $125 per month if she would consider remaining in the town's employ until July 1. The recent transfer of the police department to the Town Hall necessitated new responsibilities for Mrs. Formyduval, according to Town Administrator Vaughan. Clayton, Phil Daniel, The commissioners further voted to compen> sate former policeman Eugene Mustian for the unpaid overtime hours during his tenure on the police force at the rate of pay in force during the year involved. County Parks and Recreation Director Dickie Williams appeared before the board to request a lease agreement for use of one acre of land owned by the town at the Warrenton Railroad property. Commissioners Edmonds, Wood and Clayton were appointed to meet with county officials and the town attorney to work out arrangements for the lease. Williams indicated that the land would be used for recreational activities.

Commissioner Wood, reporting for a committee on which he served with Commissioners Edand Leon Cheek, fire monds and Daniel, chief. The appointees stated their recommenwere designated to serve dation that the Veterans at the pleasure of the Day holiday be added to the list of official board and not for a holidays to be observed by town employees. At the November meeting Mayor White had appointed the committee to study the personnel policy and report their recommendation.

Police Commissioner Wood reported that the new policemen who had for several weeks been enrolled in school were now on full-time duty with the police force. The department is now one officer short of a full force since the resignation of Policeman Mustian to accept the position of magistrate.

Mayor White was designated by the commissioners to serve as the town's representative to the Region K Council of Governments and Commissioner Miles was selected to serve as alternate.

Rent on the office occupied by the license agency, operated by Mrs. Carolyn Robertson, was increased from $400 to $600 per year on a decision by the commissioners.

Committee assignments for the commissioners were announced by Mayor White as follows, with the chairman's name listed first: Finance, Eddie Clayton, Charles White and A. A. Wood; Water, W. A. Miles, A. A. Wood (Continued on page 14) for those who can't afford to go to a private physician.

"We aren't going to neglect those who need those services," Retzlaff said. "but we need to get back to the basic services of public health." Public health includes an emphasis on how to prevent illness and how to maintain a healthful lifestyle.

"Too many of us don't think about our health until we're sick and need a doctor," Retzlaff said.

The need for education in areas such as nutrition and child care is especially acute in Warren County where so many live below the poverty level.

While the challenge is formidable, Retzlaff is encouraged by the prospects for success.

"We hear so many negative things about Warren County," he noted. "What encourages me and gives me reason to hope is that because we are a small community, people with determination and enthusiasm can make a difference." Further details of the campaign will be presented to the Board of Health at its Jan. 7 meeting.

Suffers Stroke

The Rev. John Gill, former pastor of War-renton Baptist Church, is a patient at Wake Medical Center in Raleigh, where he was hospitalized following a stroke last Thursday.

Parade sponsors, Warren County Jaycees, will also have a float in the parade.

The parade will begin at Mariam Boyd School at 3 p.m. and continue down Main Street, ending at Warren County Fairgrounds on Ridgeway Street.

Those with float entries are asked to assemble at the school by 1:30. Marching units are to assemble at 2.

Mayors of Warren's three municipalities and county commissioners have been invited to ride in the parade, which will also feature Santa Claus.

Anyone interested in participating in the parade should contact Walter Gardner, at 257-3104 or 257-4307 no later than Saturday morning.

Seasonal Factors Blamed

Jobless Rate Here Rises

The unemployment rate in Warren County, as in most counties and metropolitan areas of North Carolina, rose slightly during October, according to a recent report from the Employment Security Commission of North Carolina.

"We believe the increase, which is not statistically significant, is due to seasonal factors,"stated Bob Campbell, ESC public information officer.

The October rate for Warren County was 6.7 percent, up slightly from the September rate of 6.0 percent.

Neighboring counties followed the statewide trend with the exception of Franklin, which registered 5.8 percent in October compared to 6.0 in September. Final October figures for other adjoining counties were:
