

The Warren County High School Marching Band is showing off their new uniforms that were purchased before the Christmas break. The uniforms are the result of a two-year band uniform drive which included a Band Booster drive, teenage dances and a house cleaner sale. The uniforms are still incomplete without the ornaments such as name patch, citation cords and plumes for the hats. This year the band will kick off their fund raiser with a talent show in late March.

The Marching Eagle Band enjoyed a wonderful marching season this school year. The band participated in several Christmas parades out of town and has made plans to travel to participate in other parades scheduled for the Azalea Festival and Kings Dominion. (Community Schools Photo by Mary Hunter)

Tar-Roanoke Cellar Occupied By Eagles

By GAREY BALLANCE
Sports Writer

Warren County's varsity boys' team ended their season last week with a loss to Northwest Halifax in the first round of the Tar-Roanoke Conference Tournament. Finishing last in the league with a 1-9 mark, the Eagles were not invited to the 3-A sectional playoffs.

The Eagles fought valiantly against the taller Vikings but were 72-62 losers. Ricky Wilkins led the team with 18 points. Tony Davis added 10 points, along with 10 rebounds.

Northwest went on to reach the finals Saturday night where they fell to Tarboro, 70-66.

Last week's loss ends a frustrating season for the Eagles and Coach Donald Austin. They finish with an overall record of just 2-19. In many of their games, especially in the conference, the Eagles were very close, but came up short.

Trailing 29-26 in the final period, the Eagles got a basket and a free throw from Tracey Evans to tie the game at 29-29. Then the team played tough defense on Bertie's final possession, only to see Valjean Spivey connect on a desperation shot at the buzzer.

Tracey Evans led the Eagles with 11 points.

Georgia Cofield and Erica Ruffin both scored 12 points for Bertie.

Last Monday night the Eagles won their 13th game, beating Northwest Halifax 48-36. Up 24-18 at the half, the Eagles played well in the last two quarters.

Angela Ballance led all scorers with 13 points. Tracey Evans and Tasha Alston added 12 and 11 points.

Gloria Arrington got 12 points for Northwest.

Girls' Game

The Lady Eagles lost a heart-breaker to Bertie last week in the semi-finals of the conference tourney after defeating Northwest Halifax in the opening round. Despite the loss, the Eagle girls, now 13-5, qualified for the state playoffs. They traveled to East Carteret on Monday night for a first-round game in the 3-A sectionals.

In last Thursday's semifinal, the Eagles fell to Bertie 31-29 after a last-second shot from near mid-court. Bertie controlled the first half, leading 11-6 after one period and 19-10 at intermission. But the Eagles regrouped and outscored Bertie 14-6 in the third quarter to pull within one at 25-24.

JV Game

The Eagle jv's suffered a tough loss to Northwest Halifax last Thursday in the junior varsity tournament. Leading 31-19 at halftime, the Eagles lost their composure in the second half, allowing the Vikings to take a 47-44 come-from-behind win.

Charles Perry led the Eagles with 16 points. Tywayne Williams had 14.

Power Of Ice
Not only does ice produce heat while freezing and absorb it in melting; if floats, because (unlike almost every other substance) it is lighter as a solid than as a liquid.
If it were not for this phenomenon, ice cubes dropped in a glass of water would sink to the bottom. Icebergs would not float. Lakes, rivers, and seas would freeze from the bottom up. The world would be in deep, cold trouble.
