As Outside Chores Begin, Don't Neglect House Plant

You can get your fill of scratching in the dirt, planting and watering now that spring weather has arrived, but leave enough time to continue taking care of the plants that are in the house. Their needs don't change with the change of seasons.

Just remember, the house plants again will be the center of attention next winter when everything now turning green outside fades back to brown.

The best method of feeding house plants is to use liquid fertilizer, suggest North Carolina State University agricultural extension specialists.

Be sure to follow manufacturer's directions when using a soluble fertilizer. If you use a dry garden type fertilizer, dissolve one teaspoonful in a quart of warm water. Stir well and let stand overnight before using. Then use enough of the solution around well established plants to wet the soil well.

Plants that have out-grown their containers should be repotted in large containers.

A good potting medium is a mixture of three parts loamy soil, two parts peat moss and one part coarse sand. To this mixture add one cup of 20 percent superphosphate per bushel of prepared soil. Bone meal may be substituted for the superphosphate.

Many house plants do better out of doors in the summer, if they are adapted to outside conditions. They may be grown on porches, terraces or in the garden border. This would not apply to African violets and certain other sensitive specimens.

You can carry many types of house plants through the summer by burying them up to the rim of the container in a choice site out of doors. A layer of gravel at the base of each pot will assure good drainage.

Mrs. Melvin Shearin, scholarship chairman, reported that she had received only one letter for the Lily Wood Scholarship. Mrs. Shearin's address is Rt. 1, Box 26, Hollister, N.C., 27589.

Mrs. Wood announced that the May meeting would be the family picnic. She also urged members to attend the meeting of District V in Henderson at 1:30 on April 23 at the Legion Post on Garnett Street.

The new method for paying dues for the coming year was explained.

A motion was made and passed that the club support the Child and Youth Program of the Auxiliary at the state level.

Mrs. Dorothy Fowler gave a most provocative program on current events.

The hostesses served coffee and cake to the members present.
