WINSTON-SALEM MIGHT GET COLLECTOR'S OFFICE

Was the report sent out from Washington a few days ago to the effect that the collector's office was to remain in Asheville a false alarm? Mr. Brown, the new collector, tells the Statesville Landmark that he has no information except that contained in the newspapers; that the location of the office was not mentioned to him by any of the government officials. This means that the location of the office is by no means settled, the Asheville reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

In regard to the location of the collector's office the Landmark hears that both Winston and Salisbury will apply for the office on the ground that the bulk of the business of the district is from these two towns. This city could put in the strongest claim for the office of any place in the district, because more stamps are sold here than at all the other offices combined, Asheville included. The business men of Winston-Salem might accomplish something by bringing this fact to the attention of the powers at Washington.

Mr. Brown's nomination as collector was probably certified to today, when his commission will be issued by the Secretary of the Treasury. As soon as his commission is ready the bond will be filed, but as these preliminaries necessarily consume a few days it will hardly be possible for Mr. Brown to take charge of the office July 1st, as was expected. The date for the transfer of the office from Mr. Harkins to Mr. Brown has, therefore, not been fixed.

The Statesville Landmark thinks there will be changes in force under new collector, notwithstanding the civil service order issued by the president. The Landmark argues, however, that "if as the Asheville people claim, the office is to be retained at Asheville, and on top of that the civil service is to apply to keep the present officers in, the victory of Mr. Blackburn in securing the appointment of a collector will, like dead sea fruit, turn to ashes on his lips. But these matters are by no means certainly settled to the extent indicated and there will probably be some interesting developments in the next month or two."

MAY REDUCE NUMBER OF SALOONS IN CITY

Winston Aldermen to Decide Tomorrow Night When Committee Will Report-- Company Not Prepared to Say When Car Line Will be Built to East Winston.

The Winston Aldermen held a special meeting and a caucus last night. The first was to consider the proposition to extend the street car line to East Winston and the latter the question of granting saloon license. It was announced that the street railway people claimed not to be in a position now to say just when the line to East Winston would be built. However, the company proposes to extend the line to this part of the city sometime in the future and the aldermen propose to use their best efforts to secure it as early as possible.

At the caucus the board discussed a suggestion to reduce the number of saloons in the city. At present there are ten bars and with the exception of the Phoenix all of them have made application for renewal of their license, which expires on the 29th inst. George Rosdiger and C. C. Shoffner have formed a co-partnership and will do business in the new Rosdiger building, corner of Third and Church streets.

A committee was named last night to investigate conditions and report the same to the board at a called meeting tomorrow (Thursday) night. It is known that several members of the board are in favor of not allowing any saloons on the south side of Third street on account of the new hotel. It is quite likely that if T. K. Renigar and M. Robre & Co. get a renewal they will have to open elsewhere.

CAPTAINS OF THREE SHIPS EXONERATED

By Wire to The Sentinel.
WASHINGTON, June 27.—Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte today made public the findings of the court of inquiry that investigated the collision of the battleships Alabama and Kentucky and the grounding of the battleship Kearsarge in New York harbor January 7 last. The court exonerated the commanding officers.

Religion is a mighty poor fit on most people. There is hardly any crop you can raise that will pay less than children. It tickles a man almost to death to be taken for somebody who is rich. If a girl insists on telling what a good time she had probably she did not. One of the things a girl likes about a dance is she has such a good excuse for having her breakfast in bed the next morning. When a woman sneaks her husband's only decent necktie out for their son to wear she realizes that she is not acting fairly, but she knows she is being a good mother.

INQUEST AT TOMBS

Inquiry Into Killing of White by Millionaire Thaw Tomorrow.

Thaw Appears More Calm Today— Bundle of Letters Which it is Claimed Materially Strengthens His Defense is Turned Over To Thaw's Lawyer: By His Wife—Fatal Note, of Recent Date Among Papers Attorneys Have.

By Wire to The Sentinel.
NEW YORK, June 27.—Harry Thaw in his cell in the Tombs today had recovered his self-possession and calm after the breakdown which he suffered yesterday. The restraint of the cell is annoying to him after the free life he has always been accustomed to living, but he is making the best of it all. He slept fairly well last night and after a breakfast of rolls and coffee read the accounts of the tragedy in the morning papers. He expects a visit from his wife and counsel today.

It is said that Thaw has never been the same man since his wife told the story of her connection with White. After the shock of the first revelations Thaw recovered somewhat, believing that his warnings to White would be sufficient to keep him away. White's continual hounding of the woman when it came to Thaw's notice drove him to desperation and the tragedy followed.

One bit of evidence which it is stated will be used to great advantage for Thaw has been offered by his wife. This is in the shape of a bundle of letters and papers which she received from White since her marriage to Thaw and which she turned over to Thaw's attorneys. The fatal note of recent date which probably brought matters to a climax and which Thaw found is said to be among the papers the attorneys have.

RALEIGH ALDERMEN DO NOT CALL ELECTION

RALEIGH, June 27.—The Raleigh board of aldermen last night declined to call an election on the question of "dispensary" or "prohibition," petitions with ample signatures of qualified voters being presented for the purpose of securing such an election. The ground for the refusal is that the city attorney, W. B. Snow, reported to the board that an examination of the Watts law showed there is no provision for an election on "prohibition" or "dispensary," and that the only elections that could be called would be on "saloons," "dispensary" and "distilleries." He claims that the law is defective in this respect, although prohibition elections have been held in a number of towns in the State under this act. Rev. S. J. Betts, who lead the fight for the election by getting up the petitions, will go before some judge within the next few days for the purpose of procuring a mandamus for calling of the election on "prohibition" or "dispensary."
