ALIENISTS SAY THAT THAW IS INSANE

Some Retained By Former Judge Olcott Express This Opinion.

(By Publishers' Press.) NEW YORK, July 21.—The effort of Thaw's counsel, Clifford W. Hart, to obtain all papers in the case from former Judge Olcott, whose law firm was dismissed by Thaw because it was its purpose to enter the insanity plea as the defense, have brought out the fact that alienists retained by Olcott have made no written report. Should Judge McLean order Olcott on Monday to turn over all papers to Hart there will be no records from alienists. No record is made of the fact that alienists told Olcott that Thaw is insane. Olcott has announced that as those alienists are now under restraint of Mr. Thaw, the alienists, when their written reports are made they will not pass out of his possession.

ELECTION OF A CHIEF MAY BE DEFERRED

Allderman Sterling Smith has returned from an extended pleasure trip. He is chairman of the police committee and as soon as Mr. R. S. Galoway, another member of the committee, returns from Denver, where he attended the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of Elks, a meeting of the board of aldermen may be called to elect a chief of police. Some say, however, that as the regular election of city officials comes off on the first Thursday in September, the selection of a chief may be deferred until that time. Acting Chief Thomas says he is not making any active fight for the position, but is just standing on his heels. If elected, a number of names are mentioned. The other named candidates are Frank Martin, C. A. Pratt and W. T. Price.

Dr. D. Clay Lilly, who has been assisting in a meeting at Madison, returned to the city this afternoon and will preach at both services tomorrow at the First Presbyterian church.

Dr. J. L. Hanes and Wingate Brown had a rather unpleasant experience a few nights ago. They drove into a swollen stream near Pine Hall when some part of the harness broke. Dr. Hanes agreeing to take charge of his clothes. Before Mr. Brown could get to the horses they had freed themselves from the buggy and swam to the bank. The vehicle began moving down stream and Dr. Hanes was forced to leap from the buggy and swim ashore with his clothes on. He was unable to take care of his partner's suit. The two travelers rode horse-back to the home of a friend, where Mr. Brown succeeded in borrowing a suit of clothes.
