STAKE ANNUAL CONVENTION PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS

(By Publishers' Press.) COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 22.—In the Hotel Hartman here today the annual convention of the American Association of Public Accountants was held and both from point of attendance and business transacted was the most important of its kind ever held under the auspices of this association. The banquet with which the business was commenced was a brilliant affair. Controller Herman A. Metz, of Brooklyn, delivered an important address on "The Importance of Accounting to at least four millions of people." The governor of Ohio and mayor of Columbus delivered addresses of welcome, after which there was a debate on "accountants' fees." In the course of a long address on the status of the association, the president explained that in 1896 the New York legislature passed the first legislative enactment of any State in the union relating to professional accountancy and gave legal recognition to the profession in two distinct ways. It provided for the conferring upon qualified accountants the degree of C. P. A., certified public accountancy, and made it a legal misdemeanor for any public accountant in the State to use these degree letters without the possession of a diploma so conferring from the Regents of the University of the State. It delegated to the Regents of the University of the State the authority to determine who of the accountants then practicing in the State were qualified to receive the degree; to conduct examinations of subsequent applicants for the degree and to issue C. P. A. certificates to those ascertained to possess the necessary qualifications. A board of examiners composed of those professional accountants who had continuously since 1896 prepared examinations on the following four subjects: Theory of accounts, practical accounting, commercial law, auditing. About 355 certificates have been issued to accountants already. Following closely upon this legislation the New York State Society of Public Accountants was organized. The movement extended in other States and accountancy laws have been passed in Pennsylvania, Maryland, California, Washington, Illinois, New Jersey, Michigan, Florida and Rhode Island.

THE SANTA FE EXTENDS TERRITORY

(By Publishers' Press.) HELENA, ARK., Oct. 23.—The purchase of the Arkansas Valley and the Holly and Swink railroads by the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe will give the Santa Fe line about 95 miles in length between Holly and Rocky Ford, Col., along the north side of the Arkansas River, parallel to its present main line, which follows the north bank of the river. While the primary object of the Santa Fe acquiring these properties undoubtedly was to prevent the invasion of its territory by competing lines, the rapid development of the rich Arkansas valley, and the best sugar industry may be said to be in its infancy, presages a future business which will justify the construction of a north bank line. The Arkansas valley is regarded as one of the richest irrigated districts in the United States. Aside from the fruit crops, including peaches, apples and the famous Rocky Ford cantaloupes, the principal products of the valley are wheat, alfalfa and wheat, all raised under irrigation. The valley is divided with irrigation canals, and at a cost of more than $10,000,000.

RALPH BINGHAM DELIGHTS AUDIENCE

The series of lyceum entertainments to be given during the season at the Zinsendorf Auditorium opened last night under most auspicious circumstances. A large audience was present and that it appreciated the opening number of the star course was demonstrated by frequent and enthusiastic applause.

Mr. Ralph Bingham, who, by the way, is president of the International Lyceum Association, made up of artists on the lyceum platform in almost every country in the world, gave a varied entertainment of stories, solos and instrumental selections. His story of Bill Johnson, in which he introduced variations on a popular melody, literally "brought down the house." His violin selections were indeed clever and his negro dialect was exactly what it claimed to be. Altogether the entertainment delighted the audience. RICHARDSON & CO. SUE AMERICAN TOBACCO CO.

A special from Reidsville says: R. P. Richardson, Jr., & Co., one of the largest smoking tobacco concerns in the country, have through their attorneys instituted suit against the American Tobacco Company for the non-performance of a contract which was entered into many months ago.

It is said that this contract was for the purchase of the major part of the stock of the Richardson plant, and it is alleged that the American Tobacco Company promised certain things to the Reidsville firm which the American Tobacco Company failed to perform, and the Richardson firm has instituted suit annulling the same, so that they may carry on business as they did before the American Tobacco Company became a part of it.

The legal battle will be a great one. The American Tobacco Company is represented by a long list of counsel. It will take weeks to try the case, as carloads of evidence will be introduced.

It is the biggest suit ever brought in this county.

IMMENSE BREAKS

Six Hundred and Fifty Tobacco Wagons Crowd the Streets.

The Largest Breaks This Season And One of the Largest in History—Two-Thirds of Crop Will Be Sold Before Christmas.

The biggest leaf tobacco breaks in the history of the local market is creating much interest here today. The sales on the warehouse floors today and tomorrow will be record-breakers. About six hundred and fifty wagons and one thousand farmers are here today.

The tremendous break today and tomorrow is largely accounted for by the fact that the farmers, being unable to keep tobacco in high order, are rushing it to market to keep it from damaging. Also the farmers are unable to sow wheat now.

It is estimated that two-thirds of the tobacco crop will be sold by Christmas, something never known before on this market.

North Carolina this year will not produce over 70 or 75 million pounds of leaf against 85 millions last year. In 1902 the State produced 142 millions. It will thus be seen that the amount this year is just about half what it was four years ago. One reason for the decrease is found in the fact that farmers in the east are finding it more profitable to raise cotton than to raise tobacco. Also in every section of the State farmers are going to town and labor is scarce.

In this section the acreage is about what it has been. The continuous rains have damaged the crop. Prices are pretty good on common and medium grades. The better grades are selling fairly well but not high. A large per cent. of the crop is common. Very few wrappers are showing up, hardly enough to quote prices.

The local market will sell full capacity this week. The market will probably sell one and a half million pounds during the week. About $125,000 will be paid out.

Mrs. Olson is fairly good-looking and the nuptials were witnessed by a number, the invitations being extended by the affable Register Lindsay.
