severe injuries. A few may have escaped without any report being made of the fact, but it is believed all the others met the fate of those whose bodies have been removed from the submerged cars.

Practically all the survivors, some passengers in the third car which was not entirely submerged.

The wreckers and rescuers worked all night by aid of electric lights. Efforts are being directed to raising the submerged cars but the task is proving a hard one. The remains in force of the fall were buried deep in mud. Several times the chains passed around the cars broke when the cranes attempted to lift them.

The district attorney is at the scene with the coroner and officials of the company are investigating.

Fifty-Two Bodies Removed.

Later—Fifty-two bodies had been taken from the waters of "thoroughfare" to noon today and it is believed there will be at least twenty others recovered. The conductor of the train said this morning there were fifty-five passengers when the train left Pleasantville. All of the dead have been identified but sixteen. Crowds are hovering about the entrance of the morgue.

Some Heroic Deeds.

The deeds of individual heroism in connection with rescue of several survivors of Sunday's tragedy are coming to light today as in excitement and sorrow of Sunday everything was overlooked except the great fact that these lives had been spared, miraculously it seemed. It was from the lips of the rescued that they came as a more modest set of heroes and heroines never existed.

To a Mrs. McDonald, of Philadelphia, is attributed four rescues. With her husband she was a passenger in the second car. When the coach she was a passenger on went into the river she had the presence of mind to smash a window beside her and soon rose to the surface. She is an expert swimmer and she at once dived to rescue her husband. Groping under water she found a man, brought him to surface but it proved to be a stranger. Again she dived and rescued another man to find her husband was still below. Twice more she dived before she found the right man and brought him to the surface, having saved a third stranger in the meantime.

The chapel, or Sunday school room, was built in 1891; the main auditorium was begun in 1893 and finished in 1898. The total cost of building and ground is approximately $5,500.

Since the organization several evangelists have held meetings by which many have been added to the church. Among these evangelists three have a national reputation, viz.: W. J. Wright, W. H. Hook and Herbert Yenell. The total enrollment since organization is about 225; the present enrollment about 132. The congregation was aided by sustaining a minister for the first nine years by the Christian Woman's Board of Missions, the American Christian Missionary Society and the North Carolina Christian Missionary Society and the Church Extension Board added in building by loaning $1,500; all of which has been repaid, and the church is free from debt. The last year has been a most prosperous one. There have been 50 additions to the church and for all purposes $2,836 raised. Of this amount $76.87 was reported from the Sunday school; $35 from the Helping Hand Society; $17 from the Christian Woman's Board of Missions; $928.35 was paid on the church debt; $72.29 for missions and the rest for preaching and other expenses of the church.

Cocke-Snowden Marriage Celebrated in Baltimore

The following report of the marriage of Rev. Henry Teller Cocke, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church taken from Thursday's Baltimore Sun, will be read with interest by the many friends in this city.

The ceremony took place at Grace Protestant Episcopal church in the presence of a large and fashionable assembly. Rev. Arthur Clifton Powell, the pastor officiated. He was assisted by Rev. Harris Mallinckrodt.

The bride entered with her father by whom she was given in marriage and was met by the groom, attended by his brother, Mr. William Cocke, of St. Louis, as best man. She wore a princess gown of white satin with heria and panels of duchess lace. Her tulle veil was caught with single blossoms and she carried a white-mosses book.

Miss Alice Vall Snowden, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore an exquisite gown of white crepe de chine, combined with princess lace, and a Dresden hat, trimmed with pink ostrich plumes and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The brides were Mr. Willson Snowden, Jr., a brother of the bride; Mr. George M. Powell, Mr. George Culbreth Thompson and Mr. Harry F. Holbrook, of New York.

MR. GORDON APPOINTED ASSISTANT STAMP CLERK

Collector Geo. H. Brown has appointed Mr. Iside M. Gordon assistant stamp clerk in the revenue office here to succeed Mr. Harry E. Nelson, who was promoted to stamp clerk. Mr. M. J. Reynolds resigned. Mr. Gordon is a native of Stokes county, but has been a resident of this city for a year or more, holding the position of bank-keeper with Piedmont warehouse. His salary in the revenue service will be $3,000 a year.

Referring to the appointment made by Collector Brown the Asheville News-Gazette says:

There is still another sign to the quarter which is of the east. When Mr. Reynolds accepted the nomination for clerk of the Superior Court of Forsyth county, he encountered the rule of Judge Blyden, that candidates for judicial office should have residences in the State. Mr. Reynolds' residence was in the State and he was appointed. In the meantime he has had some business connections in this section and vice. Senator Simmons claims that these men are violating the law which forbids pernicious activity on the part of federal officials.

Mr. Chap Bodenhamer, of this city, has purchased from ex-Judge W. P. Bynum, of Charlotte, the old Bynum homestead near Germanton, the consideration being $10,000. The farm contains over 100 acres and is one of the most valuable in the Piedmont section. It contains over 200 acres of the timber—pine, oak and hickory. In addition there is much fertile bottom land on the place.

Mr. Bodenhamer is arranging to move to his new possession. There are three residence buildings on the place, one of which is a large and handsome frame building. The new owner will operate a saw mill on the place and lease familiar with the fact are predicting that Mr. Bodenhamer will realize more than $10,000 from the sale of the timber on his place.

After the sale of his farm, ex-Judge Bynum intended to retire to his home in Col. L. M. Blalock, who was arrested Friday night on the charge of stealing $250 from T. W. Mechem, of Davie county, was tried before a magistrate Saturday afternoon and bound over to the Superior court under a $200 bond, in default of which he was placed in jail. The prisoner's father came here from Colesburg and attended the hearing, but declined to give bail for his son, saying he could not stand for such conduct. The young man confessed that he got the money, but claimed that he did not know the amount he took out of Mechem's pocket. Blalock alleges that a portion of the money was buried beside the road in or near Walkertown; that he scratched a hole in ground and covered the hole, supposed to be about $200 worth of leaves and trash. The money may never be found.

GREENSBORO CHURCH HAS CALLED PASTOR

(Special to The Sentinel.)

GREENSBORO, Oct. 29.—At a congregational meeting of the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning, the Rev. Melton Clark, of Florence, S. C., was called to succeed the Rev. Dr. Egbert Watson Smith as the pastor of the church. Dr. Smith preached at the morning service and preached over the congregational meeting. There was a large attendance. Several months ago Dr. Smith accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church of Louisville, Ky., and shortly thereafter entered upon his work. The session of the church appointed a committee to recommend a man for the successor of Dr. Smith, and after a thorough investigation made their report to the church yesterday morning. The new pastor is a South Carolinian, a graduate of South Carolina College and Columbia Seminary. He has been engaged in the ministry in Florence for eight years. He is said to be a preacher of more than ordinary ability.

A large number of young ladies and young men of the city who have musical ability are arranging to give a dime opera, entitled "The Serenaders," in the Grand Opera House Friday evening. The play is for the benefit of the Young Women's Christian Association and a large attendance is expected. It is the second attempt of the Greensboro people to give a comic opera with music. The last was held in the opera house last winter and was a splendid success in every particular. There are a number of good voices in the piece, and the fact that it is home talent adds interest to it.
