pair there and strengthen his moral and physical nature and thus make them better citizens.

Rev. Mr. Durham's Speech.

Rev. Plato Durham, of Charlotte, following Dr. Lilly. He began by telling a joke that put his hearers into the best of humor. Discussing the work of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Durham asked that our citizens consider this institution as a part of the city, an institution that improves our young men and thus performs a great work not only for the young men as individuals but the community as a whole.

Mr. Tibbetts, of Washington.

Mr. George F. Tibbetts, of Washington, D. C., an earnest worker in Y. M. C. A. work, made a short talk, his speech being more of a review of the work done by the associations in different sections of the country. Stereoscopic views were used in connection with this speech and the pictures flashed on the walls and explained by the speaker made one of the most delightful features of the evening.

Governor Glenn's Plea.

Governor Glenn was greeted with hearty applause when he rose to address his fellow-townsmen. He said it was always a pleasure for him to come back to Winston-Salem—his home. He loved the city and her people. Around them clings the sweetest of memories to him and in all his travels he had never yet found a place so dear to him as his home city. He referred to the great strides the Twin-City is now making in the commercial world and declared that no city could stand still in this day and time. It must either go forward or backward, and upon the youth of our land depends the growth or downfall of our city, State and nation.

OFFICERS FOR COMING YEAR ARE ELECTED

Annual Meeting of the Wachovia Historical Society Held Last Night in Its Building.

SOME NOTABLE RELICS DONATED

Splendid Papers On Historical Subjects Presented in an Effective Manner—Various Business Matters Considered By the Society, One Being Suggestion To Have Exhibit At the Jamestown Exposition.

Wachovia Historical Society held its tenth annual meeting in the auditorium of the society building at the corner of Main and Academy streets last night. The attendance was the largest of any meeting since the organization of the society.

Promptly at 8 o'clock the society was called to order by President H. J. Pfohl, and after dispensing with reading of the minutes, the following members were appointed by the president on the nominating committee to name officers for the ensuing year: Mrs. J. L. Patterson, Miss Adelaide Pries and Col. W. A. Blair.

Next in order were the reports of the president, secretary and librarian reviewing the work of the society and officers during the past year. In his report the president recommended the work of placing stone slabs at the various places of historical interest throughout the town, which was discussed by the members and referred to the executive board to be considered and carried out at the will of the society. The paper on the Ku Klux Klan, prepared by Dr. J. F. Shaffner ten years ago, was read by Mr. Fred Bahnsen. The paper showed careful preparation and was greatly enjoyed by the large audience that was present.

Mr. J. A. Lineback, by request, had prepared and read before the society an interesting paper on some of the experiences of the Twenty-sixth Regiment at the Gettysburg fight. Mr. Lineback was a member of the Twenty-sixth Regiment band, which was composed of Salem boys.

Dr. J. H. Clewell, of the Salem Academy, followed and referred to some historical facts about Salem and corrected some errors which had crept into the records. Dr. Clewell, on account of business engagements, did not have time to prepare a paper but stated that he would later have some historical articles which would appear in print.

The committee for the nomination of officers made their report and the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: President, H. E. Pries; vice presidents J. C. Buxton, W. F. Shaffner, Clarence Crist, Geo. H. Rights, Fred Bahnsen and Mrs. Frank Stockton; corresponding secretary, Miss Sallie Shaffner; recording secretary, W. S. Pfohl; librarian, J. A. Lineback. On the executive committee are Bishop Rondthaler, Mrs. E. A. Ebert, B. J. Pfohl, Miss Gertrude Siewers, and Mrs. J. D. Lougenour. The importance of the society's making an exhibit at the Jamestown exposition was presented by Mrs. J. L. Patterson and after discussion was left with the executive committee with power to act as they deem best.

The following are among the articles presented to the society at the meeting last night:

Old flail for beating out wheat, old flax break; set of cooper's tools and other old style wood-working tools; part of a log from an old log house with loop-hole in it, house being built in 1780, standing about nine miles northwest of Winston-Salem, British army being encamped around it in 1781, on their way to Guilford court-house; machine for cutting gear wheels for clocks by A. Schaub, of Bethania, in his blacksmith shop, 100 years old, a very ingenious machine; musket presented to Mr. Shaub by Gen. Stoneman, of the Federal Army, when it passed through Bethania in 1861. Stoneman told Shaub he would perhaps need it to defend himself from stragglers; also old pistol from Schaub; old pistol by R. W. Belo; painting of the old Salem hotel, from John Henry Bomer's family; set of old Indian flint, found near Virginia line; old time straw bread basket; pamphlets, books and papers.
