TRIAL OF JIM SMITH

No Damaging Evidence Is Brought Out Today

Several More Revenue Officers, Witnesses For Prosecution, Examined at Morning Session—Nothing Yet Shown Connecting the Defendant With Conspiracy To Take the Life of Mr. Hendricks.

GREENSBORO, April 14.—At this morning's session of the federal court several revenue officers testified for the government in the case against Jim Smith, of Smithtown, indicted on the charge of conspiring to take the life of Revenue Officer Hendricks last December.

When court adjourned for dinner no evidence regarded as of a damaging nature to the defendant had been brought out. The impression prevails that District Attorney Holton is simply "laying the ground work" in the case.

Other Witnesses. Yesterday afternoon B. F. Atkins, J. T. Shepherd, H. B. Taylor and J. F. Miller, all revenue officers, testified.

Atkins testified that he knew of raids that had been made in the Smithtown settlement at various times including raids in June, July and December of last year. The object of the testimony seemed to be to show that the condition of Smithtown was such that the people were lawless and that some of them had made up their minds to resist at any cost the progress of the revenue officers in wiping out illicit distilleries.

All of the witnesses told of hearing the ringing of bells through the settlement as they went on their raid. It was the theory that these bells were signals of the moonshiners, one to answer, as they found the revenues were coming.

On one of the raids, as told by the revenue officers, there was a demonstration plainly intended to intimidate the officers. On this occasion 150 to 200 shots were fired. Officers saw men in the distance and the smoke of their guns, and one of them told of bullets whizzing by him.

Deputy Collector B. F. Atkins told of a conversation he had on one occasion with Jim Smith and of Smith saying, "What have the revenue officers got to do with Jim Smith anyhow?"

It was brought out by the testimony that while there is some good farming land in the Smithtown settlement very little of it is under cultivation. The inference being suggested that the people are too busy distilling illicit spirits to devote much attention to farming.

Women Attending Trial. The mother of Deputy Collector Hendricks was in the court yesterday morning and her face was hit by a ball. The wives of James Smith and Oscar Sisk were also in court.

Mrs. Smith occupied a seat by her husband. She is a thin, plainly-dressed woman with light hair and complexion, and not far from middle age. The look of seriousness on her face showed that she appreciated the gravity of the charges against her husband.

Mrs. Alice Sisk, the wife of Oscar Sisk, was shown as one of the witnesses in the case. She is a younger woman than Mrs. Smith, more showily dressed, and apparently less anxious about the future than the older lady. She is dark-haired, and a comely young woman.

BOTH COMMIT SUICIDE. Hungarian Brothers Take Their Lives at the Same Time.

BUDAPEST, April 14.—Each with a bullet in the brain, one still clutching a pistol and the other with weapon on the floor at his side, each seated in front of a mirror he had used to add him in aiming at his own head, Miklosa Micholas and Paul Vonnalsch were found dead today in a dressing room of the suite they occupied together. They were twin brothers, members of aristocratic but impoverished Hungarian family, hopelessly in debt, and in love with the same woman. They resolved to die together, made arrangements for the double suicide with the greatest deliberation, dined together, drank freely, propped several friends, returned to their room, each wrote a scalding letter to the woman they loved, and then suicided.

The street cars began running today to Nissen Park over the new track running from the terminus of the Wauhatchow line via the park.

TO MAKE INQUIRY. HUGHES IS SILENT

Mayor of Chelsea, Mass., Will Say Nothing About a Published Report.

It Has Been Persistently Reported That He Will Send Militia to Aqueduct Track Tomorrow to Stop Race Track Gambling With Bayonets If Necessary.

CHELSEA, Mass., April 14.—Mayor Beck inaugurated today a rigid investigation of the origin of the great fire Sunday by which five lives were lost and twelve million dollars worth of damage done to property. A business man, and a friend of the mayor, is positive he saw a strange man apply the torch.

Full one-third of the citizens are homeless. The militia is still in command of the situation. Much money is coming in but money is still the city's principal need.

Local Concern to Make the Pedestal

Maj. Joseph M. Morehead, president of the Guilford Battle Ground Company, while in this city yesterday contracted with the Consolidated Granite Company for a handsome pedestal for the statue of Clio, already on hand.

The pedestal will be of the Balfour pink granite and will contrast finely with the bronze of the statue. Major Morehead tells the Greensboro Telegram that the statue when completed and in place on the battleground will be something unique for this state and will be most appropriate.

The "Fourth" this year will be the greatest yet observed at Guilford Battle Ground, Maj. Morehead states. He says that Col. W. A. Henderson, chief counsel for the Southern Railroad, has assured him that he will be down with his car load of scholars and politicians from Washington.

"On the Fourth and at Guilford Battle Ground," said Maj. Morehead, "are the time and place for a great gathering of politicians and this being a campaign year we are looking for them in unprecedented numbers. Every politician in the state and all his friends, in fact everybody from all parts of the state who wants to see or be seen will be here. And of course, the more that shall come the better the Battle Ground management will be pleased."

Mr. H. W. Stanford Meets With a Painful Injury

Mr. H. W. Stanford suffered a very painful accident while driving a delivery wagon down East Sixth street this afternoon about 1 o'clock.

The coupling jolted out of the wagon which he was driving, the result being that the end of it dropped down, which frightened the horse. The latter ran away, throwing Mr. Stanford out, dragging him some distance, which resulted in the foot being nearly all torn from his feet and ending a long push over his eye, besides other injuries. The horse ran up Sixth street into Eighth, and was stopped at the corner of Eighth and Hickory street by two colored men, who happened to see the horse coming. The animal, while running away, struck one of the shafts just behind one of its front legs, the shaft going clean through. It took two men to pull it out.

Mr. Stanford was carried to his home at 510 Ridge avenue, where Dr. Spencer was hastily summoned and bound up the wounded members.

It is not thought that the wounds will prove serious unless some unforeseen complication sets in.

LEWIS IS CONFIDENT.

Says Interstate Agreement is Certainly Going to Be Established.

TOLEDO, April 14.—Claiming eastern operators don't want resumption of mining because they have enormous storage of coal at head of lakes, Illinois operators are not participating in conference of miners and operators of central competitive field now in session. President Lewis of the miners, confidently declared no action which the Illinois operators and miners might take could stop the re-establishment of interstate agreement between Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana.

A ROYAL RECEPTION.

One Will Be Accorded United States Fleet at San Diego.

SAN DIEGO, California, April 14.—Wireless dispatches from April Evans' fleet received early today assurances that the big vessels are to arrive off the harbor exactly on time at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The fleet is coming up the bay in squadron formation, in which sailed for the last 24 hours.

All preparations are complete for a big reception to the fleet as it arrives here.

New York Democratic Convention in Session.

Lively Time is Expected—Plan of Instructing for Bryan is to be Opposed—State Committee Meeting.

NO SELECTION YET.

Orphanage Committee to Visit Twin-City First.

Representatives of Winston-Salem, Lincolnton, Hickory and Mount Holly Present Bids—At Meeting of General Board This Afternoon Exact Date of Making Decision Will Be Determined.

SALISBURY, April 14.—The Methodist orphanage committee met here this morning and received propositions from Winston-Salem, Hickory, Lincolnton and Mt. Holly for the location of the proposed orphanage to be established by the Western North Carolina M. E. Conference. After discussing same the committee agreed unanimously not to decide upon a location at this meeting; but to visit Winston-Salem at an early date and inspect the site to be offered by that city.

The committee is composed of Rev. George F. Ivey, of Hickory; J. L. Nelson, of Lenoir; S. L. Rogers, of Franklin; Rev. Harold Turner and J. A. Glenn, of Charlotte. Every member was present at the meeting.

The committee has visited Hickory, Lincolnton and Mt. Holly and inspected the sites offered by these places. The general conference board is in session this afternoon and before adjourning will fix a definite date for deciding upon the location of the orphanage. Representative Winston-Salem's interests the following gentlemen were here today from that city: J. K. Nurfleet, member of conference orphanage board, Dr. T. F. Marr, presiding elder of Winston district; Mayor O. B. Eaton, President F. J. Lilpfort, of Winston-Salem Board of Trade; G. W. Hinshaw, chairman of orphanage committee from Board of Trade and P. H. Hanes.

It is understood that the farm of Mr. R. J. Reynolds just east of the city, or any part of it desired, can be secured at reasonable figures for the location of the orphanage, provided Winston-Salem's proposition is accepted. Other desirable sites will be opened the committee when it visits the Twin-City.

The Sentinel is told that it is the plan or purpose of the committee to secure a good farm for the orphans to work under the supervision of a competent man.

At the meeting last evening the local committee, appointed to solicit subscriptions for this city's $15,000 offer, a $100 pledge was received from the Baraca class of Broad Street Baptist church.

Foraker Makes Bitter Attack on President

WASHINGTON, April 14.—In one of the most sensational speeches ever delivered in the upper hall of congress Senator Foraker this forenoon hurled a thunderbolt of denunciation at the head of President Roosevelt because the chief executive dismissed from companies of negro soldiers as a result of Brownsville riot.

He declared if the bill of Sen. Tillman permitting any discharged soldier to enlist upon army charges men to relief of the president was passed, "before" he would appear for justice before a judge who has already pronounced a verdict.

He said, "I would have the vilest horse thief, the most vicious burglar, the bloodiest murderer wouldn't be required to trial before his innocence and admit to trial before a judge who even in most casual way had expressed the opinion that the defendant was guilty."

He reminded the overflowing galleries, among which were hundreds of negroes, that the measure is not now in the hands of the citizens. He urged the passage of his resolution and said he would give the testimony to show the innocence of the negro soldiers.

Embezzler Says That They Have Caused His Downfall.

MOBILE, April 14.—They caused my downfall. This is the explanation of Corway B. Penny, assistant clerk of Mobile, in a confession to admitting his guilt of charge of embezzling city funds.

The new fire alarm box which was recently put up in Fairview was completed today. The number of this box is 26.

NEW YORK, April 14.—The Democratic state convention to elect national delegates is likely to have stormy sessions.

The state committee is divided on the question of instructing for Bryan. State Senator McCarren, the Brooklyn leader, told the state committee in conference this morning before the convention was called to order that he would fight a plank in the platform endorsing Bryan.

The state committee has slated for national delegates William J. Connors, Charles F. Murphy, John B. Stauchfeld and Lewis Nixon.

Justice Crane's Decision. NEW YORK, April 14.—Justice Crane, sitting in Brooklyn this morning, vacated the injunction obtained yesterday by Secretary McCarren to prevent interference with his delegates. This will permit the Democratic state-convention to proceed. McCarren's delegates are still on temporary roll and that part of the injunction relating to the names is not dissolved. The state committee went into session on receipt of the decision.

The convention was postponed until after the meeting and did not convene until after 1 o'clock.

Hon. Locke Craige's Visit to Wilkes County

Hon. Locke Craige, one of the aspirants for the Democratic nomination for governor, addressed a large crowd at North Wilkesboro last night and a traveling man who heard him reports that Mr. Craige's speech was not so well received by many of his hearers.

"He was too severe on the railroads for many of his auditors," is the way the drummer put it and he stated that he heard a number of voters declare after the speaking that they would support Mr. Kitchin.

Mr. Craige passed through this city to Wilkes to look after his fences in that county. He expressed himself as being pretty well satisfied with present gubernatorial conditions. He wanted to know how Forsyth was going and stated that judging from reports coming to him he and Mr. Horne together would get a majority of the votes in Guilford and Durham counties.

Surry Man to Be Tried at October Term

GREENSBORO, April 14.—On yesterday Judge Boyd allowed S. H. Turner to go home on his own recognizance to appear at the October term of United States court, when he will be tried on the charge of illicit distilling. Turner was brought here from Surry county several days ago to stand trial at the present term of court, but his condition is such that the prisoner cannot walk. He was assisted from the jail to the street and a carriage was summoned to convey him to the station to board the Winston train for Elkin. Turner was taken ill several days before he was brought here and had to be carried from the station to the jail on a cot. He says when he attempts to walk there is a catch in the small part of his back, and this occasionally goes around his body to the pit of his stomach.

The prisoner seemed glad to get out once more and he said he was going home. He is bothered by his pitiful sight as he is supported by the prison guards, being supported by the United States marshals on one side.
