A Fine Opportunity For Candidates In The Great Contest

Big Bonus Proposition On New Yearly Business Offers Splendid Chance For Those Who Desire to Win Splendid Prizes.

"Count on me for at least two clubs," wrote one contestant yesterday. This contestant has already grasped the importance of the bonus offer that was announced Saturday by The Sentinel Contest Department, and is determined to profit by it.

Another provision of great importance is that of allowing the extension of three and six months subscriptions to one, two or three years. If you have already secured a subscription of this kind, go back to the subscriber and get him to extend it to a full year, when you will be given credit for the extra months.

Every contestant should turn in at least one club, and the ambitious contestant is not going to be satisfied with one. ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND EXTRA VOTES, it must not be forgotten, will be given for every club of new yearly subscriptions turned in before midnight, October 26. It is not necessary to wait until you have secured an entire club before turning in the orders. Just send them along as you receive them and let the subscriber be getting his paper. There is nothing to be gained by holding back subscriptions after they are secured. Send them in promptly.

New yearly subscriptions already turned in will be counted in making up clubs. It is also provided that two and three year subscriptions will count as two or three one year subscriptions in making up clubs.

It is not unlikely that the standing committees will also be named for the coming year.

GREAT CIRCUS WILL BE IN TWIN-CITY TOMORROW

Tomorrow in Winston-Salem will be the biggest day of the year. The circus is coming. What is more, it is Ringling Brothers. Nough said. Everybody knows what that means.

The parade is scheduled to leave the show grounds at 10 o'clock. It will proceed over the usual route. There will be three miles of it, and the entire outfit is new. It is the masterpiece of a corps of Italian and French artists. An army of workmen was busy night and day all last winter building it in the foreign workshops of the show at Stoke-on-Trent, England.

Early in the morning a downtown ticket office will be opened in O'Hannon's Drug Store, where reserved seats and admissions can be bought at the regular prices. Crowds began to arrive in the city from the surrounding country early this morning. They have been coming all day. Railroad officials say they expect to bring a banner crowd into town and are making preparations to handle them.

The "twelve-four-hour" man of the show and his corps of assistants are in the city making final preparations for the coming of the big organization. A. J. Webb, the steward of the circus, is expected today. He will buy all the provisions for the canvass hotel in the local markets. All the feed for the horses and the other animals will also be purchased here.

There will be two performances in Winston-Salem. The afternoon show will begin at 2 o'clock. The night show will begin at 8 o'clock. The doors will open an hour earlier to give visitors an opportunity of inspecting the big new menagerie. During this preliminary hour Albert C. Sweet's military band will render an operatic concert. Visitors should go early and have a long look at Darwin, the missing link, and the interesting colony of baby animals Darwin receives friends from the time the doors open up to the beginning of the show. Then he retires into his house to remain till the audience begins to leave. He is a friendly fellow, with a head full of gray matter, a warm hand clasp and a human smile. On coming out patrons may see him through the window of his dining room, seated at a table enjoying his dinner. He eats with knife and fork and insists on a napkin.

MILLIONS FOR TUBERCULOSIS FROM RED CROSS STAMPS

Arrangements for the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals for 1910 were announced in a bulletin issued today by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis and the American Red Cross.

Two features of the sale this year are unique and will bring considerable capital to the tuberculosis fighters. The American National Red Cross is to issue the stamps as in former years, but this organization will work in close cooperation with the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, which body will share in the proceeds of the sale.

The charge to local associations for the use of the national stamp has been reduced also from 20 per cent. to 12-13 per cent., which will mean at least $30,000 more for tuberculosis work in all parts of the United States.
