RODE IN AN ICE BOX FROM FLORENCE TO THIS CITY

From Florence, South Carolina, to Winston-Salem in the ice box of a refrigerator car on the Southbound railroad was the experience of P. H. Harding, a traveling typewriter repairer, who was taken from the car in the local Norfolk and Western yard Saturday afternoon and turned over to the police.

On the evidence furnished the court this morning, the man was fined $10 and costs by Judge Hastings for trespass on the property of the railroad company. From records carried by Harding, it was evident he had traveled from coast to coast during the past few years, altho he denied he was a regular "hobo," declaring that until he tackled the cotton country he was getting along all right and making a decent living. The cotton country was able to get along without typewriter repairs, Harding declared, and he was forced to set to Winston-Salem via the cheapest route he could. Dressed in khaki, he presented quite a neat appearance in court today and did not appear like a regular "hobo" as generally expected. He appeared none the worse for his cold ride in a fruit car and no evidence was offered that any damage was done by the trip. It was intimated by the court that the man might be liberated later in the day and allowed to earn the money with which to pay his fine.

THREE PRISONERS AND 17 GALLONS WHISKEY

Chief of Police J. A. Thomas, with the cooperation of Sheriff Flynn and his deputies, is determined to cut off the wholesale importation of whiskey to this city and county. Every train coming to the city from Virginia is being watched and during the past few days large quantities of whiskey have been taken from both passengers and others who were beating their way on freight trains.

This morning Policeman Matthews was sent to Walkertown, where he was met by Deputy Sheriff Jones and Officer Smothers and Deputy Sheriff Hanser went to Daisy to watch for persons who were expected to get off the train with whiskey to be brought to this city under cover of night.

When passenger train No. 21 from Roanoke, due here at 1:29 in the afternoon, pulled into Walkertown three colored men and two colored women were seen to leave the train carrying heavy baggage. The officers made a break for them and were able to capture three of the negroes, two of the men, leaving their suitcases, escaping to the woods. The two cases left behind contained three gallons of liquor each.

THE BEST FOR THE LAST

IT is unusual that the best lots in a development are left until the last; nevertheless, this has been the case with "ARDMORE," after selling 60 lots in this property that every one thought were the best to be had. We have been able to buy an addition to this property that we are now developing, which, when ready for the market, will far exceed in every particular anything that has so far been developed west of Winston-Salem.

This new addition joins the present "ARDMORE" property, lying on the west side of Ardmore Ave. and extending in a westerly direction three thousand feet. This property overlooks the entire city and suburbs and has an elevation twenty-two feet higher than any property west of the city. The contractors are now engaged in excavating and grading the streets and within sixty days we expect to have sewer, water, and lay concrete sidewalks in this property. There are also six new residences to be under way of erection within the next few weeks. There will be sixty-four of these lots, and if present indications don't fail, will all be sold within the same number of days, as there are several people who wanted lots in the other development who were too late about speaking and will no doubt be on the alert for one of these choice lots before they are all gone. These lots will be 100 by 200 feet, which is much larger than the usual size lots, and with all modern improvements, and will be sold at "live and let live prices," on terms that anybody can meet, while the improvements on this property will not be completed until about sixty days. We will be glad to show anyone who may want to have first choice of these beautiful lots. ASK ABOUT THE
