SPEAKS GETS 30 YEARS

Greensboro, Apr. 8.—After two hours deliberation the jury in the Mose Speaks murder case last night found Speaks guilty of murder in the second degree.

Upon the opening of court this morning Solicitor Gattis prayed judgment in the case and Judge Daniels sentenced him to 30 years in the State penitentiary with instructions to the authorities to confine him in the department for the criminal and dangerous insane but in no event should he be given a chance of escape or of injury to any one within the limits of the prison.

The crime for which he was convicted is remembered by Yadkin people as the prisoner was caught in the western part of the county and placed in jail here until an officer could arrive from High Point.

Dies Playing Poker

When Nathan Anderson a negro about fifty years old, of Spartanburg S. C., caught 4 aces in a poker game the other day, he dropped dead. Several negroes were playing a quiet game in a barn on Broad street, within one block of the police headquarters, and, judging the fatal effect the "fat" hand had on Nathan, the cards had evidently been running low in his vicinity, and when his eager gaze fell on the four biggest ones the shock was too great for him and he died of heart failure in a few seconds.

Mathews-Kelly

Married on Apr. 5th Mr. C. E. Kelly of Los Angeles Cal. to Miss Ada Mathews of Yadkin county N. C. The ceremony was performed by the writer in the presence of several of their nearest neighbors and friends, and while it was a very rainy day those present enjoyed the fine dinner prepared for the occasion.

The bright and happy couple left early after dinner for the city of Winston, whence they will go to their future home in Cal.

Mr. Kelley left this country about five years ago, being an intelligent young man, he has been very successful in life. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. F. Mathews, widow of the late S. F. Mathews, and is one among our best Christian girls.

While we regret to see them leave, we wish them great success and a happy life.

T. C. MYERS.

The strained relations between China and Russia have been amicably adjusted. The settlement of the controversy, of course, involved China's further humiliation on account of her unpreparedness to defend her rights. China is a sleeping giant, but one of these days she will awake to a consciousness of her power, and when she does, if prepared for the struggle, she will make some of the powers that have been humiliating her wish that they had been more considerate of her rights.

GUARDING THE KING.

Old English Methods When the Monarch Was Taken Sick.

The law raises peculiar safeguards round the person of the English sovereign in case of sickness. They are more survivals in the present settled order of government, but at one time the opportunity which the king's incapacity afforded aspirants to the throne or treason makers to shorten his days at a minimum of risk of detection made the precautions reasonable.

"If the king be taken sick," says Coke in his "Institutes," "there ought to be a warrant issue from the privy council, addressed to certain physicians and surgeons, authorizing them to administer to the royal patient poisons, syrups, laxatives, medicines, etc. Still, none of these should be given except by consent and advice of the council, and they ought to set down in writing everything done and administered, and they should compound all drugs themselves and not intrust their preparation to any apothecary."

Coke wrote thus of precedent in the year 1610, and today the law is practically as he found it, although at the present time in practice the privy council simply hears reports of the progress of the king's malady and leaves actual treatment entirely to the physicians in direct charge of the case.—Exchange.

GIANT TREES OF JAMAICA.

They Shed Masses of Beautiful Silk Cotton Every Year.

The silk cotton trees of Jamaica are one of the most striking natural features of this beautiful island, and visitors express much curiosity concerning them. The fiber of the cotton is too short for textile uses, but its quality is delicate and fine.

The trees are most interesting in structure. They reach a height of 200 or 300 feet. It is the largest tree on the island, and the branches often overhang more than an acre of ground. Some of them are centuries old, dating back to the landing of the Spaniards. They have withstood the tropical winds of the region through the adaptation of their structure. The leaves are very few, and there are heavy masses of roots.

This giant tree flowers once a year. It bears a number of pods much the size and shape of a cucumber. These pods dry and burst, and out floats the beautiful cream colored silk cotton, covering the ground and sailing in the air for some distance. The seeds, of course, are borne on the silky filaments. This cotton is used at present only for pillows. Its use as gun-cotton has been spoken of.

The trees are often felled by the native Jamaicans and hewn into canoes, which last for generations.—Christian Science Monitor.

Some Task.

The office manager turned to the new boy.

"Here, George," he said, "go into the next room and look up 'collaborate.' I am not quite sure about the spelling."

The boy disappeared and didn't return. The manager put the letter aside and took up some other duties. Presently he remembered the boy and went out to look for him. He found the lad studying the big dictionary with great intensity.

"What are you doing, George?" he asked.

The boy looked around.

"I forgot the word you told me, sir," he replied, "an 'I'm lookin' through the book to find it."

The manager gasped.

"How far have you got?"

"I'm just finishing the second page, sir."

"That'll do, George." — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Fixing the Lesson.

Parson Saunders was a little perturbed one Sunday morning over some worldly matter and made a mistake in the reading of the Scriptural lessons. He read the second lesson where he should have read the first. As he neared the end of his reading the parson saw that he was in error. He saw that his congregation knew he was in error. How, then, to conclude? To conclude in the orthodox way—"here endeth the second lesson"—would hardly do, as it was not the second lesson, but the first. Nor, could it, on the other hand, be called the first lesson since properly it was the second? Parson Saunders, after a moment's thought, wisely and frankly concluded:

"Here endeth the wrong lesson." — New York Press.

Very Considerate.

"I suppose, Jennie, you wouldn't want to go to the concert Wednesday in your old hat?"

"You dear thing! I couldn't possibly think of showing myself in it."

"That's what I thought, so!"

"What?"

"Bought only one ticket to the concert." — Meggendorfer Blatter.

The Aspect.

The school board, the police board and the jail board are all in the limelight at once for trouble.

"Yes, it certainly does seem as if our city public affairs were going by the board." — New York Journal.

The Harvest.

The law of the harvest is to reap more than you sow. Sow an act and you reap a habit; sow a habit and you reap a character; sow a character and you reap a destiny.—George D. Boardman.

True friends have no solitary joy or sorrow.—Channing.

W. M. Swain, Mayor.

Easter givel! Now bi-jings.

Where is the candidates for Mayor, etc?

Oh! where is our friend John D. Rockefeller?

They have reduced the size of ladies hats, but the price remains just the same.

Has anybody seen anything of that Forsyth-Yadkin turnpike headed in this direction?

"Have you heard any of the Democratic organs bragging about what the Legislature did?" asks an exchange. Sure and we haven't!

"Morgan plans money trust" says a head line. That sounds small for a man who has got the United States Army down in Mexico to protect his interests.

If the old saying that "the early bird catches the worm" can be applied in politics Senator Simmons need not lose any sleep over his senatorial toga.

The new members of Congress are loaded for new business. The less experience some men have the more noise they make and generally the bigger nuisance they make of themselves.—Ex.

A leading society woman in San Francisco appeared at a public luncheon barefooted the other day which gave the country a shock. Strange this couldn't have happened in New York or Chicago.

That Spartanburg negro who held four aces in a poker game and died of heart failure certainly was not made of the same stuff that his brudder Booker Washington. He held the gaze of New York for two days and never batted an eye.
