The Wilkes County Fair

The promoters of the Wilkes County Fair are planning the greatest fair on record, to be held Sept. 24, 25 and 26th. A letter received from Mr. Jno R. Jones, secretary says:

We expect to have a parade over a mile long, in which will be six high class brass bands. We desire to again call your attention to the Premium List including prizes for all things made and produced in factory farm and house-hold.

HEALTH TALKS

Street Peddlers

Of all dirty, disgusting, dangerous places to buy foods, fruits, and confections, the street stands and push cart peddlers take first place. Did you ever stop even for a few minutes to watch the various ways in which these foods are continually exposed to dirt and disease? Who has not seen some more or less unclean, filthy looking foreigner hovering around an old push cart loaded with the cheapest grades of sticky candies, stale nuts and overripe fruits? In many cases his entire stock of wares are exposed to flies and dirt. Some of the more progressive vendors now have their candies and fruits protected from flies by means of mosquito netting. But this affords little protection against the clouds of dust that are stirred up by street sweepers, gusts of wind, and passing vehicles. The idea of having to inhale such dust is revolting enough yet in this case it is eaten—only in a disguised and more palatable form. All thoughtful persons recall at once the possibility of eating dangerous germs in dried tuberculosis sputa as well as unaesthetic material from the street sweepings

To minimize this dust nuisance, peddlers can frequently be seen blowing the dust off their candies and in the case of fruits the original lustre is restored by rubbing in the hands, with the coat sleeve, or worse still with a badly soiled pocket handkerchief. It is unnecessary to even speculate on the possibilities contained in these handkerchiefs.

Last of all, let us not forget that it is the small boy and girl, with their pennies and nickels, that are greatest victims of these peddlers of confection and diseases. Growing children must have sweets but there is no reason for our permitting them to patronize such places. Give the boys and girls good, pure candies and clean fruits. It will reduce doctor bills and increase the child's prospects for a good stomach.

Statesville Air Line

Mr. Editor: It has now been about two years since work began on the Statesville Air Line Railroad and at the rate the work has progressed so far it will be ten years before it reaches Yadkinville and 4 or 5 more before it gets to Boonville. Bonds of sufficient amount were voted to grade this road and if there is any reason why it should not be done we are entitled to know the reason. Three townships in Yadkin County are tied up to the amount of $90,000.00 and are thereby disabled to aid in the building of another road. We were told that if we voted these bonds that the road would be built forthwith and that the amount would be sufficient to grade the road through the county.

Now the question arises that if sufficient bonds are available to build the road WHY NOT build it NOW and let the present generation get some of the advantage of it? The people who voted these bonds are entitled to know what is being done and should start some kind of an investigation at once and see if something cannot be done to get the road built and built now.

SUBSCRIBER.

[The Ripple has made several attempts to get information from the managers of this road but our request has as often been turned down—Editor.]

WE WIN BY FOREIGN BLOOD

So Says Ex-Oxford Athlete Who Wants England to Copy the Plan of Sweden.

W. Beach Thomas, an Oxford graduate and former athlete, in reviewing the Olympic games in the Daily Mail says: "One can understand American supremacy. The winners are mostly Englishmen, Scotchmen, or, above all, Irishmen, at one remove from the old country. One conspicuous victory was won by an ex-Swede. "A vast population, recruited by the best red blood, as the Americans boast, from virtue Europe, a population, specifically devoted to the narrowest form of athletics and possessed almost of a mania for competition, is likely to produce a fine team. It did produce an incomparable team. The inclusion of Indians, Hawaiians and one Anglo-Russian further added to the total marks. "The Swedes are a better standard of comparison. Their athletes are a delight to the eyes. They were none of them specialists, but were all gymnasts in a wide sense, as well as athletes in a wide sense. The nation has used the Olympic games as a test of the physical training in which the whole nation has been brought up. By a quiet, methodical and really national movement they have vastly increased the nation's virility. The people at large can drill, row, swim, run, throw and play.

The question for England is whether we cannot direct our national talent for athletics so that our teams may at least have some esprit du corps, in which the defeated Olympic team was grievously deficient, and so that athletic skill with a chance of representing the nation may become a really healthy ambition among the rich and poor in town and village. Such an ideal is realized already in Sweden, Denmark and Finland, and is being discussed in France and Germany."

FIND A USE FOR SWEEPINGS

Street Refuse Makes Good Fertilizer If It is Quite Free From Oil.

The United States department of agriculture has been conducting elaborate experiments to ascertain the value of street sweepings as a fertilizer. J. J. Skinner and J. H. Beattie of the bureau of soils tried samples collected in various ways upon wheat, corn and radishes and found that hand sweepings were best, but not nearly so good as well-rotted stable manure; that machine sweepings were about one-third as good as hand and that decomposed sweepings were almost useless.

The reason for this was that the sweepings contained much lubricating oil. The experimenters made tests of sweepings from which the oil had been extracted and found that both hand and machine sweepings produced as good results as stable manure, while the decomposed sweepings were not far behind.

The department issues a bulletin warning farmers and gardeners that sweepings from which the oil has not been extracted will eventually impair the productivity of soil, unless through drainage the oily material is drained off or changed.

The Whale's Song.

Whales are rarely thought of as vocalists, yet according to Miss A. D. Cameron in "The New North," they really have a distinctive song of their own.

A certain Captain Kelly was the first to notice that whales sing. One Sunday, while officers from three whaling ships were "gamming" over their afternoon whisky meat, Kelly started up with "I hear a bowhead!" There was much chaffing about "Kelly's band," but Kelly weighed anchor, and went to find the band-wagon. Every sail followed him, with the result that three whales were bagged.

Among bowheads, this singsong is a call that the leader of the school, as he forces a passage through Bering sea, makes in order to notify those that follow that the straits are clear of ice.

Walrus and seals and all true mammals that have lungs and live in the water have a bark that sounds strange enough as it comes up from hidden depths. Every lookout from the mast-head notices that, when one whale is struck, the whole school is "galloped" or stampeded at the very impact of the harpoon; they have heard the death song.

The sound that the bowhead makes is like the long-drawn-out "hoo-hoo-oo-oo!" of the hoot-owl. A whaler says that the cry begins on F, and may rise to A, B, or even C before shipping back to F again. He assures us that with the humpback the tone is much finer, and sounds across the water like the note from the E string of a violin.

Strindberg Not at Home.

In an appreciative article upon the late August Strindberg, which appears in Harper's weekly, James Hunker describes his interview with the Swedish writer. He traveled from New York in the hope of meeting him. It was a chilly night in June when his friends threw gravel at Strindberg's window and bawled at him. Presently a tremendous head on a tremendous pair of shoulders came into view. A volley of words, a verbal broadside, and the window crashed down again. "After the laughter had died away I innocently asked what he had said as he retired," writes this author. "He told you to go to h— and never bother him again," he was informed.

What Makes a Woman?

One hundred and twenty, more or less, of bone and muscle don't make a woman. It's a good foundation. Put into it health and strength and she may rule a kingdom. But that's just what Electric Bitters give her. Thousands bless them for overcoming fainting and dizzy spells and for dispelling weakness, nervousness, backache and tired, listless, worn out feeling. "Electric Bitters have done me a world of good," writes Eliza Pool, Depew, Okla., "and I thank you, with all my heart, for making such a good medicine." Only 50c. Guaranteed by all Drug
