Getting Your Fruit To Market

TO MOVE FLORIDA'S 1920-21
CROP ALONE REQUIRED—
600 Million Pounds of Ice.
Costing $1,700,000
in 25,713 Refrigerator
Carloads

It took over half a billion pounds of ice costing over a million and a half dollars to cool 25,713 refrigerator carloads by one transportation agency in the huge task of moving the perishable fruits and vegetables of Florida alone in the 1920-21 season, to the consuming markets of the North and East. Large new ice manufacturing plants have recently been built at Jacksonville, Miami, Orlando and Lakeland, Florida, in order to insure a sufficient and regular supply of ice for the cars.

This is in addition to the movement of 10,000 cars of Georgia peaches and other thousands of cars of small fruits and vegetables in need cars from the Carolinas and Virginia, where large modern icing plants have been constructed.

These figures will be startling to the thousands of fruit and vegetable growers of the South who have not been informed as to the actual workings of the great new adjunct to the transportation industry that is fast increasing the wealth of the Southern States.

A mass of conflicting information and fragmentary figures was recently submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington in connection with the revision of the Florida Traffic Commission's charges for a reduction in refrigeration charges, and in the near future the effort will be made by the transportation companies to throw the spot light on the actual operations and all the costs involved in protecting the products of Southern fruit and vegetable growers from their farms and plantations to the tables of consumers in New York, Chicago and other great and distant markets.

Certain of their officials state that the public lacks reliable information of what it actually means to take an orange, a head of cabbage or lettuce, a bunch of celery, a grape fruit or a box of strawberries from the warm Southern climate to the table of the Northern consumer in a fresh and edible condition as though grown in his own back yard.

They want that information to be gathered by an official body so that the farmer who raises and ships his crop and the man in New York who buys the fruits and out of season vegetables, once looked upon as luxuries, may know whether they are paying fair charges for refrigeration en route to market, and whether the transportation companies can give proper service on the charges allowed by the Federal Commission.

The volume of shipments under refrigeration out of Florida alone, last year, was twice that of two years ago and six times that of three years ago, indicating the importance of the question for the future both to producers and consumers.

Winston-Salem Lady is Electrocutel

Mrs. Ellen Sink was shocked to such extent at her home on Elm street, Winston-Salem, last Sunday evening that death was almost instantaneous.

Mrs. Sink had gone into the basement of her home to turn on an electric light when she received the shock that caused her death. Her husband, Mr. Cicero Sink, was standing on the sidewalk in front of the home when he heard his wife scream. He rushed to the basement and found her lying on the ground, dead. Her thumb and first two fingers were severely burned by the electricity which passed through her body. Several other persons in the vicinity of the Sink home suffered severe shocks Sunday as they turned on their light. The exact cause of the trouble has not been learned, but it is supposed the wires had become crossed at some point.

Mrs. Sink is survived by her husband and eight children, six daughters and two sons.

Notice to All Ex-Service Men

The Clean-Up Squad, sent out by government agencies, the Red Cross and the American Legion arrives in Winston-Salem, on October 2, 1921, and will establish headquarters at the Postoffice. The squad will remain there until October 9th, during which time, the members will work with one end in view and that end is to get in touch with every ex-service man who has a claim against the government, and set in motion the machinery to get quick and satisfactory adjustment of that claim.

The paramount idea of the Clean-Up Squad is to cut red tape that has prevented hundreds of disabled veterans and ex-service men in general from receiving the compensation that the government is glad to give. In this work the Red Cross and the Legion have every assurance from the government of complete and whole-hearted cooperation.

Under the plan of campaign, the Squad, composed of experts who are thoroughly familiar with every detail of the workings of the War Risk Insurance Act and Vocational Rehabilitation Act, will get in personal touch with every man who has a claim or who thinks he may have a claim, take up his case as an individual proposition, avoid lengthy and nerve wrecking correspondence—and get results.

With that thought in view the Squad will visit centers in every state in the Southeast and before the campaign is concluded, every county in the section will be covered. It is believed that by bringing this opportunity right to the doors of the veterans every man entitled to compensation, will get it speedily.

The Squad furnishes the big opportunity for the veteran to have straightened out all his difficulties of Compensation and vocational training and medical treatment right at home. It is, as well, the chance of many to find out if they have claims and if they have, get them filed properly, so that response will be satisfactory and immediate.

To reduce trouble, delay, and expense to a minimum, the Squad will furnish each disabled veteran, who reports at Squad headquarters, with transportation back home and meals and lodging until his business is completed.

While the Squad is here it will take up in addition to the affairs of local veterans, the affairs of ex-service men in Yadkin, Forsyth, Stokes and Davie counties.

If you desire further information see Dr. J. G. Marler, Yadkinville, N. C.

Skull Crushed by Blow on The Head

Mr. Robert Dishman, whose home is a few miles north of Statesville, on the Chipley Ford road, was brought to the Carpenter-Davis hospital last night probably fatally wounded. The officers are searching for Bob Beason, a negro, who is charged with the crime.

From the best information obtainable at present, Mr. Dishman, traveling in an automobile, was coming south along the Chipley Ford road yesterday evening just after dark. His car struck the buggy of Beason, which was standing at the home of Jule Cowan, colored, where Beason was visiting. Beason went out and taxed Mr. Dishman for what had happened. Words followed. It is alleged that Beason told Dishman that he would telephone for the sheriff and that Dishman agreed that he would wait until the sheriff could arrive and assess damage, which he would pay. A time later, it is stated, the quarrel was renewed and Beason used a stick or some other weapon on Dishman, crushing his skull, probably causing him several times while Beason sat in the car.

After the attack, Dishman, who lives not a great distance from where the trouble took place, made his escape. Officers and others searched for him all during the night and renewed the search this morning. No reports he had not been captured.

Dishman, who has a family, and who is about 40 years old, was brought to the hospital where no hope is entertained for his recovery. His skull was badly crushed and the brain injured.—Statesville Daily, 19th.

A team of mules were killed and a wagon torn to pieces in the cave-in. It was one of the worst tragedies to happen in that vicinity in a long time.

Fatty Arbuckle Charged With Murder

Miss Rappe became seriously ill while attending a party given by Arbuckle at his rooms and died within a few minutes. The verdict of a coroner's jury was that the woman came to her death from the effects of an internal injury caused by Arbuckle. He was placed in jail to await trial.

Attempt to Burn Out Snake Caused Big Loss

A six-foot blacksnake refused to move from his den under a stump, and W. H. Winter, a farmer of Augusta, Ky., on whose property the snake had taken up a residence, decided to smoke out the reptile. Fire spread from the stump to a 20-acre hay field. Appeals were sent to the fire department and farmers hurried to the scene to help extinguish the flames. At one time it seemed as though the fire would spread to the city, but a timely shower helped extinguish the flames. The snake escaped.
