A Toilet Luxury

In every respect, Ayer's Hair Vigor never fails to restore the youthful freshness and color to faded and gray hair. It also prevents the hair from falling, eradicates dandruff, and stimulates weak hair to a vigorous growth.

Five years ago, my hair, which was quite gray, commenced falling, and, in spite of cutting, and various preparations faithfully applied, became thinner every day. I was finally persuaded to try Ayer's Hair Vigor. Two bottles of this remedy not only stopped the hair from falling, but also restored its original color, and stimulated a new growth. — Eli F. Doane, Machias, Me.

Sold by Druggists and Perfumers.

ERUPTIONS OF THE SKIN, whether in the form of Pimples or Boils, indicate impurities in the blood, and should suggest the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

For the radical cure of Pimples, Boils, and Carbuncles, I know of no remedy equal to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. — G. H. Davies, Pawtucketville, Lowell, Mass.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

Mexican Mustang Liniment

CURES

Sciatica,	Scratches,	Contracted Muscles,
Lumbago,	Sprains,	Eruptions,
Rheumatism,	Strains,	Hoof Ail,
Burns,	Stitches,	Screw Worms,
Scalds,	Stiff Joints,	Swinney,
Stings,	Backache,	Saddle Galls,
Bites,	Galls,	Piles.
Bruises,	Sores,
Bunions,	Spavin
Corns,	Cracks.

THIS GOOD OLD STAND-BY accomplishes for everybody exactly what is claimed for it. One of the reasons for the great popularity of the Mustang Liniment is found in its universal applicability. Everybody needs such a medicine.

The Lumberman needs it in case of accident.
The Housewife needs it for general family use.
The Canaller needs it for his teams and his men.
The Mechanic needs it always on his work bench.
The Miner needs it in case of emergency.
The Pioneer needs it—can't get along without it.
The Farmer needs it in his house, his stable, and his stock yard.
The Steamboat man or the Boatman needs it in liberal supply afloat and ashore.
The Horse-fancier needs it—it is his best friend and safest reliance.
The Stock-grower needs it—it will save him thousands of dollars and a world of trouble.
The Railroad man needs it and will need it so long as his life is a round of accidents and dangers.
The Backwoodsman needs it. There is nothing like it as an antidote for the dangers to life, limb and comfort which surround the pioneer.
The Merchant needs it about his store among his employees. Accidents will happen, and when they occur the Mustang Liniment is wanted at once.
Keep a Bottle in the House. 'Tis the best of economy.
Keep a Bottle in the Factory. Its immediate use in case of accident saves pain and loss of wages.
Keep a Bottle Always in the Stable for use when wanted.

Mr. Jenkins Anticipated.

When Mr. Jenkins went to his bedroom at half-past one, it was with the determination of going to sleep, and with another determination that he would not be interviewed by Mrs. Jenkins. So, as soon as he entered the door, he deposited his lamp on the dressing-table, and commenced his speech:

"I locked the front-door. I put the chain on. I pulled the key out a little bit. The dog is inside. I put the kitten out. I emptied the drip-pan of the refrigerator. The cook took the silver to bed with her. I put a chair under the back-hall door. I put the fastenings over the bath-room windows. The parlor-fire has coal on. I put the cake-box back in the closet. I did not drink all the milk. It is not going to rain. Nobody gave me any message for you. I mailed your letters as soon as I got down-town. Your mother did not call at the office. Nobody died that we are interested in. Did not hear of a marriage or engagement. I was very busy at the office making out bills. I have hung my clothes over chair-backs. I want a new egg for breakfast. I think that is all, and I will now put out the light."

Mr. Jenkins felt that he had hedged against all inquiry, and a triumphant smile was upon his face as he took hold of the gas-check, and sighted a line for the bed, when he was earthquaked by a ringing laugh, and the query from Mrs. Jenkins:

"Why didn't you take off your hat?"

Women in Male Attire.

Worth, in conversation with an American, remarked recently: "It is impossible to-day to say that there is any special fashion in France. During the empire the empress ruled in the world of fashion, and all our ladies followed her lead. But now each lady invents her own toilet—there is no one chief whom all obey. Hence it is that you cannot say that such or such a style will last during a season, for it may change to-morrow. But not so with colors. A particular hue may prevail throughout a season, and generally does. The color of dresses may remain the same for months, but the form will change oftener than the moon. It might be otherwise in England and Austria, for in those two countries it is the princess of Wales and the empress who set the fashions. But unfortunately for the inventive genius of the English and Austrian dressmakers, those royal personages wear tailor-made garments. Consequently, except in the case of ball dresses, there is no variety, the women are all attired like men. For example, a leading dressmaker of Vienna came to see me the other day to select some models. I showed him a fine new cloak, such as is now being worn in Paris. But he wouldn't take it. 'What could I do with it Vienna,' he exclaimed; 'all our ladies buy only tailor-made cloaks.'"

The President Turns A New Leaf.

When President Cleveland was a bachelor the cabinet officers were dearer to him than now. They supplied him with plenty of material for his plodding and methodical habits. With a good cigar and a bottle or two of lager he would sit up until after midnight familiarizing himself with the details of every department. The same habit which he had when mayor of Buffalo and governor of New York clung to him until very early last summer, when other [illegible] he had ever known before had to be cultivated for Mrs. Cleveland's sake. The necessity for so much plodding has greatly disappeared. The members of the cabinet do not sit up so late in the White House as last year at this time, and as for those concomitants of his single days, they are still provided, but used at another time. Evenings in the parlor with the household company takes the place of lonely work in the library, and sometimes the president adventures to accompany the ladies in their songs, though he is not much of a vocalist according to his own statement.

The Same Old Grindstone.

There once lived in a neighboring town a well-to-do Irishman, who kept a small grocery store. He varied his business by purchasing lint-cotton. In packing and baling this cotton on one occasion he made bold to include a grindstone. The bale was forwarded to Charleston, where it was sold and part of the proceeds used to purchase a hogshead of sugar. It so happened that the man from whom the sugar was ordered was the purchaser of the "mixed-packed" bale. Probing around with his cotton gimlet he found the grindstone and at once proceeded to bury it in the hogshead of sugar. In due time it was returned to the grocer. Months afterward, while the grocer's son, who was also his clerk, was scooping sugar out of the hogshead he struck something hard. Uncovering it he found a grindstone, and called his father's attention to it.

"Faith, 'tis the same old rock!" the old man exclaimed. "Remember Moike, honesty's the best policy."—Atlanta Constitution.

Mrs. Cleveland's Drive.

Mrs. Cleveland takes advantage of the weather for driving, and none cares more to enjoy it than she. Every afternoon the carriage is ordered, and Mrs. Cleveland has some lady friend to go with her. The ladies tell the coachman to drive them out into the country where they can see the beautiful trees turning to autumn colors. Mr. Cleveland does not care particularly about looking at the change of colors in the leaves, but sometimes he is prevailed upon to go. Very often Mrs. Folsom accompanies her daughter; sometimes little May Cadmuch, Mrs. Folsom's little niece, occupies the front seat, but it is rarely that Hector is invited. Hector is not such a favorite with his mistress, as every one would have you to suppose. He would much rather be in the kitchen, or in the pantry with Sinclair, than acting propriety upstairs. Hector gets his ride though. He goes every morning out in the White House market wagon. Sinclair takes him to the grocer's and the butcher's. Hector enjoys this riding much better than he does the long drives with his mistress.

A Democratic Record.

Some one has asked the "Little Rock Democrat" to point out what the Democrats have accomplished in the three years which they have had charge of the government, and that paper replies as follows:

It has restored more than 100,000,000 acres of unearned land grants to the public domain—for the benefit of poor settlers.

It has paid $100,000,000 of the public debt, and at the same time paid more money for the pensions than was ever paid before in the same time.

The expenses of the government has been reduced about $15,000,000.

Hordes of lazy, incompetent and useless officials have been dispensed with.

It has broken up Indian rings, land rings and tradeship rings that flourished till the Democratic party came into power.

It has established business methods and strict economy for jobbery and wasteful extravagance.

It has given the lie to the charge that the Democracy if entrusted with power would "put the negroes back into slavery and pension the Confederate soldiers."

It has done more in three years to curb the rapacity of corporations than the Republician party did in a quarter of a century.

The Democratic party repealed the odious and unjust tenure of office act.

A Democratic Congress passed an act forbidding the ownership of land by aliens.

A Democratic Congress instigated a searching inquiry into the affairs and management of the Pacific railroads—an investigation which has already done much good.

The Democrats reduced the fee on postal money orders and extended the benefits of the free delivery system.

A Democratic Congress ordered the adjustment of railroad land grants.

A Democratic Congress passed an act authorizing the issue of small silver certificates—a matter of great advantage to our people.

A Democratic Congress passed an act settling the succession to the presidency, and also the act regulating the counting of the electoral vote. There could be no more important acts.

A Democratic Congress passed an act forbidding the use of convict labor upon all government works. A just and wise act.

A Wholesale Groceryman.

Mr. T. D. Meador of the firm of Oglesby & Meador, thinks it is just as important to fortify against the sudden attacks of the bowels, as against the robber that invades the household. He says Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial is the weapon, a dead shot to bowel troubles.

Irish potatoes grated and applied as a poultice is a quick and sure relief for burn or scald.

Take Ayer's Pills and be cured. Misery is a mild word to describe the sufferings of body and mind, caused by habitual constipation. A moderate use of Ayer's Pills will invariably regulate the bowels.

Skimming Nuisance.

The skimming is the most difficult and slavish part of syrup making, and any machine that will materially assist that work is a boon to the syrup manufacturers. We know of nothing that accomplishes this better than the Self Skimming Evaporator made by the old house of Chapman & Co., Madison Ind., and advertised elsewhere in this paper. It is cheap and efficient. This firm has been manufacturing Mills and Evaporators for thirty years and know just what is needed.

Are Married People Happy.

Do you think married people are happy, Uncle Jake? "Dat 'ar 'pends alotogedder how dey enjoy demselves: if dey hab chillun an keep Dr. Bigger's Huckleberry Cordial, dey are certain to be, for hit will cure de bowel troubles and de chillun teething."

Pennsylvania Democrats.

Although the tariff-reform resolution of the Pennsylvania democrats is not "so deep as a well nor so wide as a church door" twill serve—for Pennsylvania. That it did not content itself with demanding "a wise and prudent reduction of internal taxation" proves Sam Randall felt the party pressure for tariff reform too urgent to be denied, and that it did in a feeble and half-hearted way ask for a reduction "of duties on imports" demonstrates that the democracy in the Keystone state "do move."

Although a palpable compromise the Pennsylvania platform is a distinct gain for the cause of revenue reform. It shows that even in the most rock-ribbed protectionist state in the union some sense of the iniquity of our present system of overtaxation is beginning to stir men's minds. It was not to be expected that Sam Randall's long and undisputed supremacy in the democratic councils of the state would surrender unconditionally to the forces of a reform led by less experienced politicians. But to save himself and preserve "unity in the party"—that fruitful breeder of compromises—Mr. Randall was forced to abate somewhat of his opposition to any reduction of the tariff.

The declaration in favor of a wise and prudent reduction of internal taxation is a harmless bit of Pennsylvania stupidity. The tax on tobacco and whiskey is not going to be reduced though Sam Randall and all the distillers in the country should demand it. It is a tax on luxuries properly imposed and [illegible] protest. It is the duty on such imports as affect the necessary cost of living and of manufacturing that is demanded by the people of the United States. And it is a reduction that must come whether Pennsylvania is lukewarm about it or not.

Canker humors of every description whether in the mouth, throat or stomach, are expelled from the system by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. No other remedy can compare with this, as a cure for all diseases originating in impure or impoverished blood.

Danville to have a Tobacco Fair.

At meeting of the executive committee of the tobacco association was held at the office of Colonel James M. Neal, Planters' warehouse, Thursday afternoon, and the question of a tobacco fair was considered. It was finally unanimously agreed that such a fair should be held this fall, and the committee will make a report to the association at its next meeting, which will probably be early next week. The ball is moving, keep it rolling, by a hearty all-hand drive, and Danville will have as fine a show next fall as was ever witnessed in the country.—Register.
