From Buzz.

HE VISITS CONFERENCE AT DANVILLE—SEES THE SIGHTS AND CASWELL BOYS.
The Sargent went to Danville on the 17th to attend the Virginia conference and enjoyed the exercises a part of two days. They were transacting routine business most of the time. A great improvement in the way of good order, I thought, might be made. Preachers, men and women just kept old Main street church in a buzz all the time so that midway of the church you could scarcely hear anything that was being said or done by the conference. Bishop Key rapped in vain with his gavel and begged all to desist but still the hum kept up. The preachers as a whole looked care worn and hard worked.

By an appreciated invitation from one of the officers of the academy of music I attended a play there Thursday night and enjoyed it immensely. This is one of the finest opera houses in the South and has the reputation among opera troupes of being the best arranged in acoustics south of Baltimore. It is a beauty inside. In the dome is the handsomest chandelier I ever saw. The whole house is lighted by electricity, so that it can be darkened and re-lighted in an instant. The play that night was "Rene," and some of the tableaux were magnificent.

Old Caswell has furnished a good deal of talent for Danville all of whom she has a right to be proud.

Our genial friend Howard Cobb still holds the fort as one of the leading auctioneers of the Danville tobacco market, and they say he gets the best prices obtainable. He and Jim Turner are both clever fellows.

I had some pleasant chat with Mr. Frank Woodson, city editor of the daily Register. Frank is doing good work for that paper and by his tact and energy improved it very much (maybe God did intend him for a newspaper man). He is a skillful user of the fable.

According to the "L. D.'s" report a good many marriages round about here between now and Xmas. As the old camp-meeting sinner used to say "I wish them well."

Washington Letter.

(From Our Regular Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23, '87.

The busy scenes in and around the Capitol indicate that the coming session will be an unusually exciting and important one. Everything is now in readiness for it, and the heavy mails received at both the Senate and House post offices, show that many of the States' distinguished Representatives are already here. The new members are getting initiated into the ways of doing business within the marble walls of the building, so as to be ready from the first to put forth their best and most effective efforts in behalf of the interests of their respective States. Speaker Carlisle is here to stay, and is in conference with prominent members of the last Congress, who have been returned to this, discussing the "make-up" of the numerous Committees of the House. The contest for his seat gives him no uneasiness, and his numerous friends place his election to the Speakership as a certainty.

He is in frequent consultation with the president, and it is believed that the two are endeavoring to formulate some acceptable plan for the settlement of the tariff question. Some members think that the committee will be announced before the Christmas holidays, but the best informed say that it is impossible. It always happens that after the states are made up many things arise, after the assembling of Congress, to change them. The views of the several members on different subjects become better known after the distinguished gentlemen meet together at the Capitol, and this often leads to a change in the committees, generally in the interest of carrying out the policy previously decided upon. Everything now concerning Congress must be in glittering generalities, but in the course of three weeks your correspondent can get down to hard facts.

An official list of members of the next House shows that there are 168 Democrats, 15 Republicans, and 4 Independents. The Independents are Anderson of Iowa, Nichols of North Carolina, Hopkins of Virginia, and Smith of Wisconsin. In the Democratic caucus it will require 85 votes to nominate. There are 25 Senators and 32 Representatives now in the city.

The Supreme Court room was crowded the day that Roscoe Conkling with Randolph Tucker argued the Virginia tobacco case. Great disappointment prevailed over Conkling's presentation of the case. It was expected that he would make not only a strong legal argument in behalf of the prisoners, but also warm up with the subject and with fervor plead the cause of State rights. But the astute lawyer confined himself to the dry details of the law, and in giving the reasons why the prisoners should be released stated them as those entertained by his clients rather than by himself. After he had finished no person was the wiser as to his views on State rights, and so it must be left to the future to ascertain where he stands on that important question. In my next letter I expect to be able to give you in brief the points relied on by the Court in its decision which will probably be rendered before them.

The post office department for the first time in its history has reached the point where it is self-sustaining. It was a common thing in the past for Congress to be called on to appropriate from $8,000,000 to $15,000,000 for deficiencies until last year, when it was reduced to $4,000,000. Now it is nothing, and in anticipation of its revenues exceeding its expenditures. United States Treasurer Hyatt, in his report prepared for Congress, recommends that the surplus postal revenues be turned into the Treasury like any other public money.

Assistant Secretary Hawkins, of the Interior Department says that the Pension Appeal Board of that office is up to date with its work, having disposed of 4,000 appeals during the year, and that such was never before known in the history of that department. The news is welcome to the many pensioners, and they would be made still happier if the Pension Bureau was more prompt in disposing of cases coming before it.

The Back Pay and Bounty Claims Division of the Treasury Department shows that 25,000 claims were filed before it for adjudication the past year.

Give Them a Chance!

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air-passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Bascher's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

RICHLI REWARDED are those who read this and then act, they will find honorable employment that will not take them from their homes and families. The profits are large and sure for every industrious person, many have made and are making several hundred dollars a month. It is easy for any one to make $5 and upwards per day, who is willing to work. Either set young or old, capital not needed; we start you everything new. No special ability required; you, reader, can do it as well as any one. Write us at once for full particulars, which we mail free. Address Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine.

What is this Disease that is Coming Upon Us?

Like a thief at night it steals in upon us unawares. The patients have pains about the chest and sides, and sometimes in the back. They feel dull and sleepy; the mouth has a bad taste, especially in the morning. A sort of sticky slime collects about the teeth. The appetite is poor. There is a feeling like a heavy load on the stomach; sometimes a faint, all gone sensation at the pit of the stomach which food does not satisfy. The eyes are sunken, the hands and feet become cold and clammy. After a while a cough sets in; at first dry, but after a few months it is attended with a greenish-colored expectoration. The patient feels tired all the while, and sleep does not seem to afford any rest. After a time he becomes nervous, irritable and gloomy, and has evil forebodings. There is a giddiness, a sort of whirling sensation in the head when rising up suddenly. The bowels become costive; the skin is dry and hot at times; the blood becomes thick and stagnant; the whites of the eyes become tinged with yellow; the urine is scanty and high colored, depositing a sediment after standing. There is frequently a spitting up of the food, sometimes with a sour taste and sometimes with a sweetish taste; this is frequently attended with palpitation of the heart; the vision becomes impaired, with spots before the eyes; there is a feeling of great prostration and weakness. All of these symptoms are in turn present. It is thought that nearly one-third of our population has this disease in some of its varied forms.

It has been found that physicians have mistaken the cause of this disease. Some have treated it for a liver complaint, others for kidney disease, etc., but none of these kinds of treatment have been attended with success; for it is really constipation and dyspepsia. It is also found that Shaker Extract of Roots, or Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup, when properly prepared will remove this disease in all its stages. Care must be taken, however, to secure the genuine article.

IT WILL SELL BETTER THAN COTTON.

Mr. John C. Hemptinstall, of Chulafernee, Cleburn Co., Ala., writes: "My wife has been so much benefited by Shaker Extract of Roots or Seigel's Syrup that she says she would rather be without part of her food than without the medicine. It has done her more good than the doctors and all other medicines put together. I would ride twenty miles to get it into the hands of any sufferer if he can get it in no other way. I believe it will soon sell in this State better than cotton."

TESTIMONY FROM TEXAS.
Mrs. S. E. Barton, of Varner, Ripley Co., Mo., writes that she had been long afflicted with dyspepsia and disease of the urinary organs and was cured by Shaker Extract of Roots. Rev. J. J. McGuire, merchant, of the same place, who sold Mrs. Barton the medicine, says he has sold it for four years and never knew it to fail.

SHE WAS ALMOST DEAD
I was so low with dyspepsia that there was not a physician to be found who could do anything with me. I had fluttering of the heart and swimming of the head. One day I read your pamphlet called "Life Among the Shakers," which described my disease better than I could myself. I tried the Shaker Extract of Roots and kept on with it until to-day I rejoice in good health. Mrs. M. E. Tinsley, Bevier, Muhlenburg Co., Ky.
