Headache,
Pain in the Side and Back, and Constipation, indicate that the digestive and excretory organs are in a disordered condition, and that a laxative is needed. For this purpose, Ayer's Cathartic Pills are the best medicine that can be used.
Ayer's Pills are a never failing remedy for Headaches caused by a Disordered Stomach. I suffered for years from this infirmity, and never found anything to give me more than temporary relief, until I began taking Ayer's Pills. This medicine always acts promptly and thoroughly, an occasional dose being all that is required to keep me in perfect health.—Mrs. Harriet A. Marble, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
I have found entire relief from Constipation, Stomach troubles, and Nervous Headache, by taking Ayer's Cathartic Pills. I suffered a long time from those complaints, was under medical treatment, without obtaining relief, and a part of the time was unable to work. A friend, who had been similarly afflicted, urged me to take Ayer's Pills. I commenced using this remedy, and by the time I had taken four boxes, was cured.—F. L. Dobson, Topeka, Kans.
Ayer's Pills,
Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.

For the Caswell News.
Life is What We make it.
Wisely, ah, how wisely has the maxim been expressed that "Life is what we make it." In the early morning of life, before the verge of manhood or womanhood has been reached, does the flood of rosy tinted light brighten the youthful mind and carry far out on the brink of the creamy foamed ocean the beautiful bubbles that vanish as suddenly as they have appeared. It is in the springtime of youth that the life blood runs high upon the immortal shores, and the wild anticipations of bright youth are realized in the realization which, for so long has been fitting across the mind. From early childhood the mind should be taught to look long and carefully into the mysterious future; to penetrate, as it were, the dense cloud, like vapor that floats forever across the gaze, as the fleecy clouds roll over the sky.

Although the great unopened volume that contains the secrets of all lives, is now sealed to us, yet each day it is being revealed to us in each whirling moment and rapidly moving hour. Does the golden volume on whose gilded pages our destinies are written, spin our existence, sometimes clipping the fatal cord before the time for life to be extinguished? Ah! no, God keeps the sacred seals, and each day the brilliant opportunities that we so often idly squander are penned by His hand and will be remembered against us until the hour of repentance arrives. No matter if life is full of pleasure or pain, sunshine or shadow, our destinies lie in our own hands. We can either make a brilliant tuture for ourselves, or darken it forever by each little thing that daily occurs in the routine of our existence.

Then, how very careful in youth we should be to form a spotless character while it lies in our power. On the immaculate pages of unknown history, we should stamp success in brilliant unfading letters. On the tablet of the mind should be inscribed in burning letters of gold, usefulness. On the harpstrings where the fingers of the fairy play so delicately, the soft melodious strains should reverberate with the one continual strain—happiness. How often do we hear of another bright star rising far above the horizon, by some grand victory achieved, or some great work making a far-famed reputation when, perhaps, the person is of humble origin. Again we hear of a popular, wealthy, renowned person who is wielding such a wide spreading influence, as to sway the hearts of thousands, when suddenly the bright blazing star has been extinguished. Only one foul deed has driven him to the brink of a deep, dark precipice, and one false step has carried him down, down, in the dark abyss below. Then it is some lives are darkened with sorrow and crime which if traced far back into the past, the deeds were committed by their own hands. If only those days could be recalled all would be bright and beautiful, instead of the dark shadows carelessly thrown across the pathway.

Many beauties of nature are given us to feast our eyes upon. Amid the great forests even in the melancholy days of autumn, in the warm genial days of Indian summer do we gaze upon the dense foliage bordered and fringed with every different hue, the dark rich foliage of crimson hue, with the pale yellow companion near its side making the marked contrast more discernible by glancing across the vast space, and the vision next floating before the gaze is the grandest, most picturesque mountain scenery, just below it, dashing and foaming, flows the waters of some ancient river rapidly rushing through glens and hollows to the boundless ocean. Yet with all this beauty and grandeur, usefulness and happiness are the priceless pearls which make this life beautiful and secure a place far superior to this life in the world triumphant. It is the many little things that occur in life which reveal most to us and affords the best index of character. Our aim in life should be at the topmost spur and if the duty be performed a victory will be won. Though, perhaps not so great as some daring soul that has lived centuries before us. As some brilliant blazing stars in the great blue dome of heaven are greater in magnitude than the silvery moon gliding near their sides, so are some minds superior to others. Our creation is far too exalted and noble to fit a ray by pride, fashion, cares and troubles, and at last end in a shapeless blank, but purity, happiness and usefulness should hold the golden scepter of time and assist us on our upward and onward march to the eternal city where life is a pleasure sublime.

ROSEBUD.

Give Them Papers
An exchange tells its readers to teach the boys and girls to read newspapers—not sensational, trashy, smutty sheets; but clean, respectable, plain-spoken papers. It will do them more good than can be calculated. It will make them intelligent. It will give them food for thought. It will cultivate a taste for more extensive reading. It will cause them to love home better. It will make their intellect keener and their hearts happier and better. Then as they grow in wisdom, they should also be supplied with first-class magazines and good books. A good local paper is the best to begin with, as the children can there read about things that are familiar to them—about their town and county, and concerning men and things of which they have personal knowledge. From this they go up-step by step until they rank among the most intelligent people of the land.

Household Hints.
It is a good plan to keep a coil of strong wire about the carriage, as it may prove useful in mending the harness should it break unexpectedly on a journey.
Wrap fruit jars with paper to keep out the light.
Never sun feather-beds. Air them thoroughly on a windy bay in a cool place. The sun draws the oil and gives the feathers a rancid smell.
Tin vessels rust and are often worthless in a few weeks, because, after washing, they are not set on the stove for a moment, or in the sun, to dry thoroughly before they are put away.
Mix stove polish with vinegar and a teaspoonful of sugar.
To brighten or clean silver or nickel plated ware, rub with a woolen cloth and flour.
A dish of whitening should be kept by every housekeeper. It makes nickel shine like silver and removes grease and dirt from paint without injuring it.
Saleratus or soda cleans tins beautifully.
Clogged wicks can be cleaned by boiling them in soap-suds.
Spirits of ammonia rubbed over nickel ornaments, by applying with a saturated woolen cloth, will keep them bright.
An old hoe or spade blade set into a block of wood, in which a slanting slit has been sawn to hold the blade in place, will make a good boot scraper. The block may be screwed door-step or along the board-walk.
Have mats at top and bottom of cellar stairs, or else carpet the steps with old carpet. It will prevent carrying dirt on your feet out of the cellar.
When your coal fire is getting low a tablespoonful of salt thrown over it will help it to come up.
Egg shells crushed into small bits and shaken well in decanters, three parts filled with cold water, will not only clean them thoroughly, but make the glass look like new.
We are thinking of spring house cleaning and I have been frequently asked how to make a good color of whitening and lampblack, and our method is to soak the whitening shale and add a little Prussian blue if a French gray is required; a little flour paste and salt helps to make it stick. Ruff requires chrome yellow, and a good salmon can be made by adding Venetian red.

Odds and Ends.
Health is better than wealth.
Persia gave us the peach.
Let good digestion wait on appetite.
The turnip originally came from Rome.
The masses are against the classes—the world over.
A man must ask leave of his stomach to be happy.
A few oysters shells will remove clinkers from the grate.
For ventilation open your windows both at the top and bottom.
Try buttermilk for the removal of tan and walnut stains and freckles.
Waste in the kitchen is often very great from apparently trivial sources.
The cantaloupe is a native of America and so called from the name of a place near Rome, where it was first cultivated in Europe.
The first coffee house in Europe was opened at Constantinople in 1554. Another century elapsed before it reached western Europe.
Cultivate the habit of listening to others; it will make you an invaluable of society, to say nothing of the advantage it will be to you when you marry.

The week just closed has been an unsatisfactory one all around, unsatisfactory to the leaf-buyer, to the warehousemen, to the seller and to the manufacturer. The week opened with weather favorable for handling leaf and breaks were full, but the cold March winds came along, dried out and crusted tobacco so that to handle it was wasteful and aggravating to the dealer. The result of this was, sellers picked up their fine and better goods and put only their common on the market; hence the breaks showed a larger proportion of inferior and nondescript stock than for any week since the Christmas holidays. Buyers were not anxious to handle leaf in such a crummy condition and for this reason—perhaps others also—bidding lacked spirit, there was not much animation and prices went off all along the line. The tax agitation may be having a bad effect on the leaf trade in a state of uncertainty. Many tobacco men think differently and attribute the decline entirely to unfavorable weather. Be that as it may, the fact remains that leaf tobacco is not bringing the good prices which gladden the farmers' hearts sixty and ninety days ago.—Danville Register.

The man who sleeps in church has a bad idea of his immortal soul.
When Mrs. Mackey gives a dinner to the Prince, she has nine different kinds of pie.
There is one place where busybodies seldom "stick their nose in," and that is a horse's nest.
The woman you can call a poem is not the woman you can call early in the morning to get breakfast.
One thing can be said in favor of the tea man. If he has any left over he doesn't warm it up for breakfast.
A woman's beauty is most perfect when it is backed up by intelligence. A newspaper bustle is just the thing.
In a race for the prize of being called belle of the ball, it is frequently a neck-and-neck finish with society beauties.
Your horse has a tremendous long bit," said a friend to a noted wag. "Yes," he responded, "it is a bit too long."
Strange—Does Mr. Jones live on this floor? Musical young lady—No, sir, his room is an octave higher, in the next flat.
Ruth was not a designing woman, and yet she managed to get as good a Boaz as any of the other girls who both sewed and reaped.
It must be exasperating to the city beau to read about courting by the gate, when he has nothing to lean against but the scraper.
Hotel Proprietor—"We don't allow any games of chance here." Gambler—"This isn't a game of chance. My friend here has no chance."

A glass bottle factory is to be established in Atlanta, Ga. There is a large local demand in the South which this enterprise expects to supply.
If people who mean to begin to read should read all the advice to readers about reading, they wouldn't have time to read anything else.
A convict with a ball and chain attachment gave an excuse for not taking a summer vacation, that he was too closely tied to business.
"That is genuine butter," remarked the oleomargarine man, as he gathered himself up off the ground after the goat had got through with him.
The Phrenological Journal says: "In choosing a wife, be governed by her chin." A man is apt to be governed by the same thing after he gets a wife.
Even pious souls are sometimes tempted to lapse into the wanton spirit of the little maiden who prayed: "Please, Mr. God, I'm tired o' bein' made good—won't you kill pa?"
"How long has Brown been married, Charley?" "Didn't know he was married at all. I don't believe he is either." "Yes, he is; I noticed him turn pale when the clock struck eleven."

Belle—"Ma, do you know what cafe au lait is?" Mrs. Mushroom—"No, I don't know exactly, darling; but I suppose cafe au lait is coffee with an egg in it."
Mrs. Gubbins says she never allows her boy Jim, to eat jam, for her husband died of the Jim-jams, and she don't propose to run any chances with the boy.
There is one advantage about the big, short-measure silver dollar. Thieves do not take them in large quantities where the transportation is limited.
The meanest man so far on record lives in New Haven. His wife asked him to give her a pot, so as a animal that would stick to her, and the next evening he brought home a leech.
