Washington Letter.

(From Our Regular Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 26, '88.

The Capitol was shaken to its very foundation by the severe thunder storm of a few days ago, and our Legislators thought that the day of reckoning had come. The Senators were all brought to their feet by the sudden thunder clap and in horror observed the lightning playing around the ceiling of their deliberative chamber, and were so paralyzed by the scene that considerable time elapsed before business was resumed in its accustomed order.

On the House side the galleries were crowded, and the members below were engaged in a heated debate over the eight-hour bill when suddenly the peal of thunder and flash of lightning brought every member to his feet and caused the crowds in the galleries to suddenly disappear. The press gallery was also quickly cleared by the fall of fire which played around the telegraph instruments and cut them all off. In the rotunda the shock was felt more than anywhere else, because the massive iron dome served as a playground for the lightning and as a sounding board so that the people in the rotunda ran to the doors, thinking that the dome was falling. Besides the fright, no injury was done, except destroying the telegraphic instruments, and killing a horse to a cab standing at the Senate wing of the building.

It now looks as if we will without doubt have the Congress of Nations to consider a code of international laws, and a mode of arbitration to settle disputes which may arise between American nations without recourse to arms. The bill for that purpose has already passed the House, and the Senate Committee has reported favorably on it. The convention will be held April 11, 1889, and will be composed of twenty-four delegates from each country to meet in Washington, but no nation shall have more than one vote in the disposition of the question. A uniform system of weights and measures; a common silver coin for trade purposes to be issued and redeemed by each nation and other important measures will be acted upon by the Congress.

The House Committee on the revision of the laws has agreed to report a joint resolution providing for the election of U. S. Senators by a direct vote of the people, the same as members of the House of Representatives. The resolution may pass the House, but the indications are that it will never get through the Senate.

Senator Kiddleberger is still pegging away at his hobby for open Executive Sessions, and if the change does not take place this Congress, it will not be for the want of persistency on the part of its champion. The Senator has just offered a resolution that the consideration of the Fisheries treaty be in open session and asked unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of his resolution. Senator Cockrell objected, and so the matter has gone over for the present.

At the International Council of Women to be held here this week, Miss Rose Cleveland is booked for an address on the subject, "Why is not Woman the Equal of Man?" It will be Miss Cleveland's first visit to the city since the marriage of her brother, and her host of friends here are anticipating much pleasure from seeing her again.

The sudden death of Chief Justice Waite has cast a gloom over both social and political life at the National Capital. The death was the result of a cold contracted a month ago in attending the funeral of a Miss Brown, who died while visiting the family of the Chief Justice. The Supreme Court convened at the usual hour on Friday and Justice Miller, the Senior Justice, after announcing the death of their Chief adjourned the court for one week. The court room was crowded and profound sorrow prevailed in the quiet chamber. The Senate and House both adjourned over out of respect to the memory of the distinguished dead.

Stranger (to Dakota landlady)—"I noticed a party of seared and crippled gentlemen at a table in the dining room. War Veterans, I suppose, enjoying an annual dinner?" Dakota landlady—"No, sir; it's a press dinner, given by the editor of the Daily Paragon to his staff."

Unhappy-looking Young Man (to editor)—"Here is a poem, sir, which I have written on an empty stomach." Editor—"An Empty Stomach" is rather an odd subject for the muse to tackle, but I will look it over. It may possess originality."—T. B. S.

What is this Disease that is Coming Upon Us?

Like a thief at night it steals in upon us unawares. The patients have pains about the chest and sides, and sometimes in the back. They feel dull and sleepy; the mouth has a bad taste, especially in the morning. A sort of sticky slime collects about the teeth. The appetite is poor. There is a feeling like a heavy load on the stomach; sometimes a faint, all gone sensation at the pit of the stomach which food does not satisfy. The eyes are sunken, the hands and feet become cold and clammy. After a while a cough sets in, at first dry, but after a few months it is attended with a greenish-colored expectoration. The patient feels tired all the while, and sleep does not seem to afford any rest. After a time he becomes nervous, irritable and gloomy, and has evil forebodings. There is a giddiness, a sort of whirling sensation in the head when rising up suddenly. The bowels become constive; the skin is dry and hot at times; the blood becomes thick and stagnant; the whites of the eyes become tinged with yellow; the urine is scanty and high colored, depositing a sediment after standing. There is frequently a spitting up of the food, sometimes with a sour taste and sometimes with a sweetish taste; this is frequently attended with palpitation of the heart; the vision becomes impaired, with spots before the eyes; there is a feeling of great prostration and weakness. All of these symptoms are in turn present. It is thought that nearly one-third of our population has this disease in some of its varied forms.

It has been found that physicians have mistaken the cause of this disease. Some have treated it for a liver complaint, others for kidney disease, etc., etc., but none of these kinds of treatment have been attended with success; for it is really constipation and dyspepsia. It is also found that Shaker Extract of Roots, or Mother Seigel's Serravallo's Syrup, when properly prepared will remove this disease in all its stages. Care must be taken, however, to secure the genuine article. IT WILL SELL BETTER THAN GOUTON.

Mr. John C. Hampten, of Oklawaha, Oklawaha Co., Ala., writes: "My wife has been so much benefited by Shaker Extract of Roots or Seigel's Syrup that she says she would rather be without part of her food than without the medicine. It has done her more good than the doctors and all other medicines put together. I would give twenty miles to get it into the hands of any sufferer if he can get it in no other way. I believe it will soon sell in this State better than cotton."

EVERYBODY FROM DEATH. Mrs. S. E. Barton, of Warner, Ripley Co., Mo., writes that she had been long afflicted with dyspepsia and disease of the urinary organs and was cured by Shaker Extract of Roots. Rev. J. J. McGuire, merchant, of the same place, who sold Mrs. Barton the medicine, says he has sold it for four years and never knew it to fail.

SEEK WAS ALMOST DEAD. I was so low with dyspepsia that there was not a physician to be found who could do anything with me. I had fluttering of the heart and swimming of the head. One day I read your pamphlet called "Life Among the Shakers," which described my disease better than I could myself. I tried the Shaker Extract of Roots and kept on with it until to-day I rejoice in good health. Mrs. M. E. Tinsley, Bevier, Muhlenburg Co., Ky. For sale by all Druggists, or address the proprietor, A. J. White, Limited, 54 Warren St., New York.
