Disastrous Flood

The Dayton (Ohio) flood of 1913 was, in the main, caused by a record-breaking rainfall, which was due to the meeting of three opposing air currents, one from the west, another a cold stream from the northeast, the third a warm current from the south. The flood was accentuated by the conditions of the rivers flowing through the city and also by the bursting of reservoirs in central and western Ohio. Four hundred and fifteen lives were lost, and the property losses amounted to $180,000,000.

Caring for Books

Books kept in glass-fronted bookcases are subject to attacks from bookworms, moths, etc., in greater degree than if on open shelves. To preserve your books from these pests sprinkle the shelves occasionally, say once every six months, with half an ounce of camphor, half an ounce of powdered bitter apple (well mixed together). Do not keep books in a very warm room. Gas light affects them very much. Russia leather bindings in particular.

'Messers' and 'Moppers'

The world is divided into the people who make the messes and the people who mop them up. Ninety per cent make the messes and 10 per cent are served out with mops. I was reading a novel called "Keddy" the other day. I'm told it's the best picture of modern Oxford that has ever been done. And from cover to cover there isn't a single mention of such things as lectures, reading, examinations, tutors, or anything of that sort. It's really masterly the way everything trivial like that has been eliminated.—From "Blackmarston," by Mrs. Hicks Beach.

Aluminum Rivals Steel

Aluminum was merely a laboratory curiosity a generation ago, but today it is a real rival to copper and steel and the center of one of the largest individual industries. Besides being used in hundreds of household articles it is finely ground for making paints, is necessary in airplane and dirigible construction and is used as cables for high tension transmission. The output of the industry in 20 years has grown from nothing to hundreds of millions a year.

Christianity in China

It cannot be definitely stated who was the first Christian missionary to China, since a tablet found in 781 A. D. indicated that Nestorian missionaries operated in China as early as 565 A. D. There are, however, no definite records. The first definite record is that of Friar John of Monte Corvino, a Franciscan friar who went alone to China in 1295 shortly after the return of the Polo family to Europe, and he remained in China for many years, when his effort was reinforced by the pope of Rome and he was consecrated archbishop of Cambalin (Peking).

Lighting for Pictures

Every picture has a right to the best light that can be found for it. It is often true that a wall space on which there is not the right light for one picture is quite the proper place for a picture with different colors or details. While vivid flower pieces and garden scenes, sunlit landscapes and bright interiors do much to enliven a somber corner of a room. There is no picture which may not be seen to better advantage if well lighted. (This does not mean glaringly lighted.)

The Maid's idea of it

One theory of compensation is that a person should be paid for his work according to its difficulty and not according to the skill with which he performs it. A woman was a convinced adherent to that theory.

A lady was about to engage a maid. "It seems to me," she said, "that you ask very high wages, seeing that you've had no experience." "Oh, no, mum," answered the girl earnestly; "you see, it's much harder work when you don't know how."

A man who leads a double life gets through twice as quick.

The best way to get down to work is early.

"CO-OPERATION" IS NEEDED FOR SUCCESS

Don't Be a Knocker, But Boost Your Own Town

To The Editor of The Record:

This is a big sounding word, but when understood it is very simple in meaning yet often difficult in putting into practice. It means "working together," a thing that every community ought to do. One thing Zebulon needs more is just this spirit when it comes to matters of community interest. Many small towns lose or fail to get things that would boost and build of the lack of appreciation of working together.

If our people had pulled together, could not the oil mill, that should be a profitable business, have been rebuilt? If we would even now get together, work together, could we not get the hosiery mill in operation again? This spirit and interest and effort is what brings enterprises to a town and keeps those already in operation going with a healthy vigor. The Wakelon spirit has largely made our high school and this spirit among teachers and patrons will make it a bigger and better school.

Do we want a tobacco market—one that will help our community, then let everybody, whether he grows tobacco or not, work for it. Are there roads we want, or streets to be improved or any other matter of public interest and concern to be done? Then let everybody get together and work together to the end that these things may be realized. Families have been broken up, towns put on the back list, all because there was so much selfishness, lack of public pride, indifference and indolence.

Flowers planted, shade trees set, sidewalks smoothed, and many other things could be done if our people would wake up generally and do these things. It does not take taxes to do things like these, but if every man would "begin over against his own house" our town would be accomplished. Now that we have a means of communication in The Record, let us use it to stir up sentiment and interest in those things that will advertise our town as a good place to come and see and live. The knock that gives a town the black eye usually gives the prospective comer a blind eye. Let us train our children to boost our town, and let each parent set a good, strong healthy example of how this should be done. Let's have a Zebulon spirit, one that will find everybody talking, boosting and working for Zebulon. Let each citizen lose sight of his own personal preference and get behind—no, INTO every good movement—social, religious, commercial, intellectual—that will help our town and community. All this means that we must, to grow and build, have unity of purpose and effort, we must work together, there must be co-operation among our people from the poorest to the richest, from the smallest to the greatest. All of us can do this; then let each get on the job—the most important thing just now ahead of us.

Don't fall out, if you can't lead in the parade. Don't be a knocker. The man and woman that are lifting the world upward and onward are those who encourage more than criticize. Don't follow in the footsteps of the loafer, said Bob Burdette. It is better to saw wood at two bits a cord, than to whittle at a whittling match and abuse the government.

All of which means to say that there is a place, a work something to boost and build our community which every one may do. Here's the hand, head and heart of your fellow citizen to this end. Reach across, friend, and let's give a long pull, a strong pull, for the best BEST TOWN of all, our HOME TOWN.

A. S. SAYER.
