SALE POSTPONED
By JUDGE GRONER
Judge Meekins Orders Sale On October 25th

Federal Judge D. Lawrence Groner, of Norfolk, has approved a lease of the property of the Fisheries Products Company near Norfolk to Armour & Co., for $650 a month until next August. This property was recently bid in by the Armour people for $100,000 and the sale confirmed but the confirmation was recalled upon protest being made against a private sale of the property. The Armour people have promised to start the next bid at $100,000 when the property is put up for sale again. There are outstanding bonds against the property amounting to $75,000, which have priority. Judge Groner has suggested that the Norfolk property of the defunct Fisheries Products Company be put up for public sale about January 1. Some of the interested stockholders think this will be too early. Federal Judge Meekins who leased the Hilton plant of the defunct company for $4,000 for a year, has ordered a public sale on October 25. Protest has been made against having a sale so early as it is claimed that nobody but the lessees of the plant will bid at that time as nobody else would want to buy it subject to lease. It is argued that there is nothing to be gained by selling at low prices now because amount received would leave little or nothing for the stockholders while there might be a possibility of increasing the bids.

Tar Heels Contribute To Farm Treatise

Roy H. Thomas and J. K. Coggin, supervisors of Agricultural Education for North Carolina, are two of the authors of a new book entitled "Farm Crops," which has recently been issued by an Atlanta firm for use as a text in the vocational agricultural high schools of the South. This is the first text ever written on crops primarily for use in the agricultural high schools of the South. Most of the texts on this subject now in use are declared to be either too general in nature to meet the specific needs of the vocational agricultural high schools or they were written by men who were not very familiar with Southern farming conditions. The North Carolina supervisors prepared the chapter on tobacco for the text. Much of the information contained in this chapter was obtained through E. G. Moss, director of the North Carolina Tobacco Experiment Station at Oxford. The North Carolina station is considered the best of its kind in the United States. Supervisor Roy H. Thomas has received a letter from the publishers of "Farm Crops" stating, "So far we have not had an adverse statement or comparison of the book. It will gratify you to know that the book is being sold in large numbers in every State in the South, including West Virginia and New Mexico."

GOVERNOR LIKES PAPER MADE HERE

Governor McLean stated last week that he is very much gratified to receive from Reuben B. Robertson, president of The Champion Fibre Company of Canton, sample sheets of "Old North State Bond" paper which is now being produced in large quantities by the Champion Fibre Company. The samples of paper show quite distinctly the following water mark: "Made in North Carolina." Governor McLean said that it is just such advertising as this that North Carolina needs at the present time. He said that a large number of the most popular products that now enter into general trade in this country are made in North Carolina without any evidence that they are manufactured in this State. Governor McLean has written Mr. Robertson congratulating him upon his enterprising and patriotic act in advertising this special grade of paper as made in North Carolina Department of Labor and Printing purchased quite a large amount of this "Made in North Carolina" paper from the Champion Fibre Company, and by doing so served the two-fold purpose of reducing the cost of paper to the State and aiding in the exploitation of a distinctively North Carolina product.

STATE FAIR NOTES

Ten crack riders from Troop F. of the North Carolina Cavalry will come to the North Carolina State Fair to give exhibitions of skillful horsemanship during the Horse Show on Wednesday and Thursday, October 14 and 15, according to a statement from E. V. Walborn, Manager of the North Carolina State Fair. These men have been secured through R. R. Reynolds of Asheville and they are associated with the Asheville troop. According to advices from Mr. Reynolds, the troopers will arrive at the State Fair on Monday, October 12, and will be quartered on the grounds. They will be in charge of Major E. F. Jones and Captain Tennent of the Cavalry battalion.

"One of the men who will accompany this troop, Sergeant George Bryson, will compare with the best trick riders of the crack regiments of the regular cavalry," says Mr. Reynolds. "In addition, the men will bring some fine specimens of good horse flesh, among them hunters and jumpers that will bring thrills of pleasure to genuine lovers of thoroughbreds."

This night horse show, according to Mr. Walborn, will be the society event of the State Fair. There will be riding and exhibitions of horsemanship by ladies, gentlemen and couples. Mr. Walborn has set aside Wednesday and Thursday nights for the show and states that eight or ten horses will come from the Cavalry at Fort Bragg. He states that this one feature alone should bring more people to the State Fair during the two days of Wednesday and Thursday than attended the whole week last year. Indications are that this will be true, he says.

IMPROVED FORDS

Every day new evidences come in of the popularity of the Improved Ford Cars.

It is not only expressed in the crowds which fill dealer show rooms all over the country and the groups which pause to inspect the cars wherever they appear on the streets nor alone in the thousands of orders being booked for immediate delivery, but also in orders entered for future delivery.

Probably the best index to future deliveries of these cars is found in enrollment in the Ford Weekly Purchase plan, which have shown a remarkable increase since the cars made their appearance.

This increase was first noticed the last ten days in August, during which the announcement of the cars was made. In that period enrollments under the plan reached a total of 13,167 and in the ten days following, the first in September, the number of new purchasers under the plan totaled 16,054.

Those enrolled under the plan at the time the improved cars were announced all benefitted by the change, for they will receive the new types and will be given preference when they desire delivery of cars.

More than 175,000 are now enrolled under the plan and with others coming at the rate of 1,600 a day it will not be long before the enrollment list will exceed 200,000.

Those who are ordering cars under the plan at the present time for the most part contemplate delivery either during the coming holiday season or for early spring next year.

SHORTAGE OF COTTON BAGGAGE IMPENDING

Reports emanating from Memphis, Tenn., that an acute shortage exists in cotton bagging over the South has been confirmed by A. D. Geohagen, president of the Southern Cotton Oil Company and of the Southport Mills, Ltd., which concerns operate gins in Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, Alabama and South Carolina.

"While the Southern Cotton Oil Company's gins are operating on full time at present, we have known for some time that a serious shortage of cotton bagging is facing ginning operators," Mr. Geohagen said. "We do not expect to curtail operations just as we have ample stocks of bagging to care for immediate needs," he added, "but we are finding it increasingly difficult to replenish stocks."

Prof. Gulley Invokes Poor Man's Law

Dr. N. Y. Gulley, Dean of the Wake Forest Law School has filed a characteristic reply in the suit which he has filed in Wake County Superior Court in which he asks $2,500 punitive damages from F. M. Drake and R. A. Harris for "cutting over the line" in removing timber purchased from Gulley by Drake.

The reply of the veteran professor is directed to the answer filed by the defendant Drake and the pithy portions thereof follow:

"That as to the allegations of defendant as to his large wealth this plaintiff has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief, but he rejoices in the prosperity of the defendant, but insists that defendant's great wealth gives him no legal right to exemption from the ordinary process of the courts, nor entitles him to damages when some poor man sues him to protect his property from destruction, nor does this great affluence give defendant the right to wantonly and willfully, with utter disregard of plaintiff's rights to destroy the property of the plaintiff, and his right to any damages is denied.

"Further replying to this paragraph plaintiff says, that the employees of defendant Drake were notified that they were cutting over the line of the timber in the contract and they stopped until they were ordered by said Drake to proceed to cut all on that part of the land adjoining the part sold, that he refused to reply to letters from plaintiff asking him to come and settle the matter, he passed many times within a hundred feet of the plaintiff's hundred feet of the plaintiff's hum to say a word about the matters in controversy, and the plaintiff insists that the defendant has no right to entrench himself on his large amount of real property in Warren county, and fortify himself behind his large amount of 'other property' to shield himself by a contract with his co-defendant by the terms of which 'this defendant was not to be liable for any damages occasioned by the said R. A. Harris to any person' and then proceed to cut the plaintiff's timber not included in his deed, to destroy his fences, burn his land, destroy the growing crops, and when his co-defendant told him that the plaintiff insisted that he was cutting over the line, and that he should not destroy the fences to order said co-defendant to go on, cut all there was there, pay no attention to the fences. This wanton, willful, high-handed disregard of the rights of the plaintiff entitles the plaintiff to punitive damages in the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars.

"Therefore the plaintiff pays judgment as in his original complaint and for the sum of Twenty-Five Hundred Dollars as punitive damages and the costs of this action."

WAKEFORD PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION

Why should we have a community-school organization? Why should we call such an organization a Parent-Teacher Association?

No doubt these questions have been in the minds of all who are interested in the school and community. The more we think of it, the more we must realize that no other organization, however many there may be can take the place of some kind of an organization of parents and teachers whose purpose shall be to function primarily for the school.

The name? "What's in a name? A rose by any other name would smell as sweet." We recognize the truth in this sentiment and yet what could be more fitting than to call such an organization as we have in mind by the simple compound "Parent-Teacher" association?

"A Successful Parent-Teacher Association Offers To The Parents—"

"A means of securing definite information about the school: the course of study, the recreation facilities, the opportunity for vocational training, the health standards of the school, and the home conditions of the children.

"An opportunity to meet the teachers to whom a large proportion of their children's time is entrusted, and to meet also the parents of their children's companions.

"An avenue through which they may become informed about educational methods and equipment, an create the school atmosphere with which they desire to surround their children's school days.

"A Successful Parent-Teacher Association Offers To The Teachers—"

"An assurance that the parents are supporting them in their efforts to improve the school.

"An opportunity to meet the parents of their pupils so that they may deal more fairly and sympathetically with the children and may have an opportunity to understand the child-

ten's individual and collective needs. "An avenue through which needed improvements and equipment may be brought to the attention of the voters and the School Board."

A large Association is good; An active Association is better; A large, active Association is the ideal!

Next meeting Tuesday, October 6, 3:30 p. m.

Poetic Name for City

The appellation "City of the Violet Crown" was bestowed upon the city of Athens by the ancient Athenians. The origin of the term is in dispute, and is variously explained. According to some authorities, the violet was the favorite flower of the Athenians, and thus became the symbol of the city. Aristophanes, in his "Equites" and "Acharnians," speaks of Athens as the "Violet-Crowned." According to others, Ion (the Greek for violet) was a king of Athens, was in consequence Ion's city, the violet city, the city of King Ion, or the city of King Violet.—Kansas City Times.

THANKSGIVING

Pitt county special thanksgiving service which will be observed in Greenville on Friday, October 23, will no doubt be the largest attended meeting of a religious nature ever before witnessed in this part of the State. The service will begin at 11 o'clock in the forenoon and will continue throughout the day with a basket picnic. The plans were perfected at a meeting of the ministers of the county held here this week, and Hon. Clyde Hoey, of Shelby, has been extended an invitation to attend and asked to make one of the principal speeches of the day. The meeting which will be open air will be held at the fair grounds and other than the seating of the grandstands additional preparations are being made to comfortably take care of the thousands who will attend.
