Kidnap Planned

A letter from Mr. and Mrs. Pittman Stell who are attending the Southern Baptist Convention in St. Petersburg, Fla., says that criminals planned to kidnap the six-year-old daughter of Rev. Mr. Gardner, pastor of the Baptist church there and told her for a $30,000 ransom, to be paid by the delegates to the Convention.

Mr. Gardner moved to the hotel, took his daughter out of school, and notified the police and the plotters were captured, and they missed the proposed collection from the Baptist delegates.

C. B. Eddins

Wounded

On Friday of last week Mr. C. B. Eddins was shot by some unknown person. He was taken at once to Rex hospital, where he stayed until Tuesday of this week. At first it was feared that his injuries might prove serious but he is recovering satisfactorily.

Mr. Eddins had gone on the morning he was shot, to the farm of his mother, Mrs. Mack Eddins, where he is said to have had an argument with a tenant, Mrs. Chalk, over the matter of advances on her crop. He is also said to have turned off and left the woman, who seemed to be considerably excited, and to have gone to working potatoes with a hoe. He was shot from a barn or some woods nearby, a distance of about thirty yards, the shot entering his back and limbs. The son of Mrs. Chalk and a Mr. Mason, also a tenant, are in the county jail, charged with the shooting, but no trial has been held yet.

Notice To

Correspondents

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS
We must again insist that names be signed to all communications sent us. We have several on file now that we cannot publish because of this rule against unsigned articles. Your name need not appear in our columns, but we must know who sends the items that we print. We have this week received two communications from Bunn, neither of which is signed. We regret omitting them, but have no choice in the matter, unless we break rules which have been announced.

MOST OF IT FOR WAR

A recent analysis of the federal tax dollar has been made and here is how your dollar is spent:

- To West Point and Annapolis, two cents.
- To veterans hospitals, five cents.
- To military research work, two cents.
- To building and upkeep of navy, 25 cents.
- To maintenance of the army, 30 cents.

To all the remainder of governmental services, legislative, judicial, diplomatic and administrative, 16 cents. Thus, it is obvious, the entire tax dollar goes for war purposes or war causes with the exception of 16 cents.

Tragedy Takes

Amazing Turn

Since the finding on Thursday of last week of the murdered body of the Lindbergh baby, the search for the kidnapers has been pressed even more vigorously than before. Officers of the law, who had in a measure held back to allow the child's father to more freely make contact with the child's captors, are now freed from that restraint, and hunt murderers as well as kidnapers. The finding of the little body only a few miles from the home of the parents served to add to the sympathy of the nation for those who have suffered from this crime.

John Hughes Curtis of Norfolk, who has claimed to be in touch with the kidnapers, has admitted that the entire affair was a hoax and that he planned it all to gain money for himself.

A man in New York has confessed that he had a part in the kidnaping, but police are not sure that he is speaking the truth. He says the child was dropped as it was carried down the ladder and was dead when picked up; that the gang separated, and he has seen none of them since.

His story is said to differ from known facts in the case. Dr. J. F. Condon is still trying to locate the man to whom he paid the $50,000 ransom on April 2.

Gets A. B. At 58

Dr. L. N. Glenn of Gastonia, 58 years old, will receive his A. B. degree at Catawba College this spring. He left the college 37 years ago because of lack of funds, and managed to complete his medical course. He has become a well known surgeon, but always regretted his lack of the degree he has at last won. He re-entered Catawba college at the beginning of the spring term of 1931; not, however, as a resident student. He now has a son in medical college and a daughter who finishes high school this spring.

JAPAN'S PREMIER MURDERED

Tsuyoshi Inukai, premier of Japan, 77 years old, was assassinated on May 15, by military fanatics in an outbreak against the government. He was held in his own home, by two men and shot by a third in the head and face. He had walked to the door to speak to the men, who had demanded to see him. He asked them not to shoot, offering to hear their complaints. He died soon after being shot. The assassins surrendered to the police. Japan's finances are said to have reached a serious point. Unemployment is another foe to security in Japan. For many years there has been a struggle between the military and the civilian factions. It is thought by some that the country may shortly come under the rule of Socialists.

ANNOUNCEMENT

On account of the meeting which will be held at Wakefield church all next week the Home Demonstration Club will meet on Saturday p. m. of this week. All members are urged to be at the club house by 2:30.

National Cotton Week

MADE-IN-CAROLINA CAMPAIGN

May 16th. to 21st

Carolina Products For Carolina People

MADE-IN-CAROLINA CAMPAIGN

OBJECTS—

1. To advertise the finished products made in North Carolina and to acquaint our people with their State and its manufacturers.

2. To stimulate the sale of home-made goods in the home State where there is a large buying market and where our manufacturers ought to be able to sell with last expense.

3. To stimulate business both for the manufacturer and the merchant and thereby aid in reducing unemployment. The sale of more goods would enable manufacturers to employ more laborers and the merchants to use more clerical help.

MADE-IN-CAROLINA IDEA STRESSES

IMPORTANCE FOOD PRODUCTS PLANTS

Food processing is one of the most important features of the "Made-In-North Carolina" ideas whose primary aim is to encourage the industrial development of the State. It also fits closely into Governor O. Max Gardner's "Live-at-Home" program as applied to agriculture, the two movements being complementary to each other.

The fact that North Carolina purchases elsewhere food and food products worth approximately $140,000,000 that might just as easily be produced within the State points to the failure of industry and agriculture to reach a well balanced development.

Following are estimates of the moneys spent annually for these various products, a large part of which local industries, drawing upon surrounding farm communities, might furnish: butter, $4,000,000; cheese, $4,500,000; condensed and evaporated milk, $50,000,000; canned fruits and vegetables, $13,000,000; canned seafoods, $15,000,000; meat and meat products, $23,000,000; processed nuts, $10,000,000; pickles, preserves and other processed foods, $20,000,000.

While no one will contend that North Carolina should produce all of these foods immediately, certainly a much larger proportion might profitably be turned out by local manufacturers. More of this processing is necessary to a well balanced agricultural and industrial State.

The fact that there are nearby markets; that the State produces most of the raw materials necessary for canning; that the State is admirably suited to the development of the dairy and stock raising industries; and the recent unprofitableness of the farm money crops are certainly good reasons for the establishment of additional canneries and food processing plants.

During the last year or so, as a result of the "Live-at-Home" and "Made-in-North Carolina" movement, considerable interest has been aroused in the expansion of the food processing industries, especially in canning. The Division of Commerce and Industry of the Department of Conservation and Development has been apprised of movements designed to launch plants in several parts of the State. Because of the field for industries of this class and other favorable conditions, a number of firms in other States have signified their interest in establishing branch plants in North Carolina.

Research at North Carolina State College has shown, like South Carolina, that vegetables produced in this State have a high iodine content. Iodine has been proved to be a wholesome food, and those products high in the mineral are coming more in demand. North Carolina plants, therefore, can easily share in the growing market for such products.

N. C. PRODUCTS

Products manufactured in North Carolina during the last census year (1929) were valued at $1,312,000,000, or about three times the value of all crops and livestock. These products are grouped into 141 different classes by the Bureau of the Census, some of the classes comprising several different kinds of articles. The 3,800 manufacturing plants in the State gave employment to 210,000 wage earners and 17,000 salaried officers and employees and paid more than two hundred million dollars in salaries and wages.

Manufactured tobacco alone amounted to more than half a billion dollars and for the first time became the leading industry as measured by the value of products. However, the textile industry, with products valued at approximately $453,000,000, is by far the largest in the employment of labor and the payment of salaries and wages. While all tobacco factories give employment to about nineteen thousand salary and wage earners and pay slightly more than twenty million dollars in salaries and wages; all branches of the textile industry give employment to 117,500 officers and employees and pay over ninety-three million dollars in salaries and wages. Other leading industries as measured by the value of their products are sawmills and planing mills, furniture, fertilizer, leather, cotton, cotton seed products, flour and meal, printing and publishing, and railroad and street car construction and repair.

The products of our factories may be summed up somewhat as follows: Wearing apparel, hosiery, and piece goods for personal use; furniture, stoves, draperies, blankets, sheets, pillow cases, and many other things for the home; canned fruits, vegetables, butter, cheese, and other processed foods for the table; motor and horse drawn vehicles, auto tires and batteries, and similar things for our transportation needs; candies, cigars, cigarettes and smoking tobaccos for our pleasure; medicines, drugs, salves, and other medicinal products for our bodily ailments, and more than 150 other different kinds of articles, including something for almost every imaginable need. Every section of the State shares in the production of some of these articles, but as a general rule, North Carolinians are not as well acquainted with what we manufacture as might be, because they have not been able to visit these manufacturing plants nor have they had many opportunities to see them at exhibitions or in retail stores. In most cases, when they have bought them at the stores, they have not known that they were buying things made in North Carolina.

In order to acquaint the public with goods made in the State and to stimulate the sale of these articles in the home-stores, the State Department of Conservation and Development is sponsoring the third annual "Made-in-Carolina" campaign. The week of May 16th to 21st, inclusive, has been selected for this purpose. During this period many merchants plan to feature North Carolina-made goods in their show windows, on their counters, and in their newspaper advertising, plainly marking all articles made in the State so that purchasers will know when they buy home-made products. "Manufacturers have been asked to make a special effort to place their products in as many stores as possible before May 16th. Aid officials of the Department, "and, of course, the public's part is to buy these articles during this special week. If former campaigns can be taken as representative of what will happen this year, then the merchants who take part in this plan to advertise North Carolina-Made goods will enjoy a big increase in sales during this

Senators Joy-Riding

Washington.—It is good just to be a senator with a good fat job for seat warming and talking, but the Utopia of a senator's life is to be put on a committee, most any committee will do, but one that sends you to California or Florida is better.

Senator Pittman of Nevada and two others were put on a committee to investigate the feeding of elk. They went out west, stopped at Tetol Lodge for 17 days. They sent in a bill for over $4500. Among other items were "tip to Joe Allen, $20.; "tip to Joe's two wranglers, $20.; "tip to Jessie, waitress, $20. He gave the boy who built his fires a small tip of $20. and to various other servants $10. and up, including guide, headman, gunman and valet. Senator Pittman actually went into Mexico at the expense of the government to investigate elk, which turned out to be duck. "Hearings" were held, but no records were kept, so it is presumed that no elk were seen or heard.

The next senatorial outing takes them into the land of flowers. The time chosen was Christmas and the committee rode in drawing rooms and chartered a blip and two boats. This time it was Senator Nye and his committee. While there were only six senators, eight drawing rooms were required and sixteen tickets. Some of the senators took their wives along. Seven days were spent in a Miami hotel at the low cost of about $1,000. Nye himself ate about $135. worth of Florida food. Being good citizens, the senators did not want to violate the law in the interests of conservation; so they invested $22. in fishing licenses, and several other dollars in tackle, bait and something to drink while out in the Everglades where water was scarce! Senators seem to have established a precedent in paying $20. tips for the usual service senatorial pomp and power demand, for this was the usual tip in Florida. Their joy ride at Uncle Sam's expense took the air in a blimp to the jingle of $75. That's what we call fun; California and comfort, Florida and fun, it's all in just being a senator.

Teacherage Burned

Erwin.—Thirty members of the faculty of the Erwin high and graded schools were forced to flee in their night clothes from the teacherage, located on the outskirts of Erwin, about 3 o'clock this morning as flames destroyed the large structure. The loss was estimated at $20,000. The origin of the blaze was not determined.

Drinking To

Uncle Sam's Health!

On Tuesday afternoon W. A. Barnett was arrested by G. C. Moseley for being drunk and having in his possession about one-half gallon of whiskey. Barnett is said to have been drunk for about 80 days. In fact, it has been asserted that since he received his Government loan he has been drunk and disorderly around his home and in the community, and that he has spent a large percentage of his loan in this way.
