

Holloway's Hits

NATIONAL

President Roosevelt administered a well-deserved, stinging rebuke to the scandal mongers and unfair critics of the administration and the new deal over the radio the past week. He will go on the air again Sunday night to give the people another account of his stewardship. He is the first president to adopt this method of informing the country on the affairs of Government. Every time he sneaks over the radio he completely knocks arguments and plans of his critics into a cocked hat.

The passing of General Hugh Johnson out of the National political picture will be the cause of mingled emotional reactions over the entire Nation. It cannot be denied that the General was the most picturesque and forceful personality the present administration has produced. His job was the biggest and most difficult one ever wished off on any man. He performed it with vigor and ability and the NRA, if perpetuated, will be a monument to his memory. In naming Hon. Clay Williams as his successor the President has made a wise decision. If he succeeds as well with the management of NRA as he did with the management of the great Reynolds Tobacco Company, he will also win for himself immortality. The fine Italian hand and influence of Ex-Governor O. Max Gardner is seen in the selection of Mr. Williams for this important position. Mr. Williams made Max Gardner Governor of North Carolina and very doubtless was largely instrumental in making him the Chief Counsel and super-lobbyist for the National Textile Association. The former business connections of Mr. Williams with the tobacco interests will probably be construed by the extreme new dealers as an evidence of the purpose of the President to turn to the right in his future activities. So far the administration of the NRA has been along extremely liberal lines and the appointment of Mr. Williams may be notice to the country that the President has gone as far to the left as he intends to go.

STATE

Hon. Herbert Gulley, the Federal Prohibition Enforcement Official for North Carolina is making quite a reputation by his vigorous and successful prosecution of liquor law violators in this state. He goes on trial at Columbia the coming week for the alleged search and seizure of liquor in a raid he is reported to have made on a private residence down East without a search warrant a few weeks ago. The fact that he found and destroyed a large amount of the contraband seems to have been lost sight of entirely by the court officials. If he is successful in his efforts to dry up North Carolina he will deserve the thanks and approbation of all decent citizens who respect the laws of the land. It does not seem possible for the state authorities to curb the bootlegging industry or else they are not honestly trying to do so. All over Raleigh and Wake County and other sections of North Carolina illicit liquor dealers ply their trade brazenly and without fear of apprehension. If they happen to the misfortune of being caught they are let off with small fines or short prison sentences while disreputable lawyers fatten off of the fees they receive for appearing for them.

The Ninety Nine Year Lease of the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad has been cancelled by the Board of Directors on account of the default of the Norfolk and Southern Railroad. They are more than two years behind with their rental and the proposed Port Terminal at Morehead City is being delayed by reason of that fact. Just what disposition will be made of this valuable state property remains for future determination. The Governor and Board of Directors believe other arrangements can be made that will be more advantageous to the interests of the state than the present lease has been. It is now up to the legal department of North Carolina to determine the status of the lease, which has about Sixty more years to run before it expires by limitations. In the meantime the Morehead City Port Terminal project remains in a state of suspended animation.

The North Carolina Utilities Commission continues to thresh over a lot of old straw while the people who patronize the Public Utilities and the Telephone Trust get no relief from the unfair and exorbitant rates they have to pay for the service. The new Utilities Commissioner seems to be following the example of the old Corporation Commissioners who always staged long drawn out public hearings just before election time and promptly forgot all about reductions of the rate structure after the elections were over. Governor Ehringhaus could not perform any greater service for the people than to turn loose in the Utilities Commission his official Bloodhound, Dr. Mark Noble, and let him have a complete house cleaning of that department. The many holdovers left from the old Corporation Commission in the department have never had the interest of the public at heart and they should be cleared out completely.

"The Christ of the Andes," a 26-foot statue standing on a high point in the Andes Mountains between Argentina and Chile, bears the inscription (translated) "Sooner shall these mountains crumble into dust than Argentines and Chileans break the peace to which they have pledged themselves at the feet of Christ the Redeemer."

Deposits of iron ore in Brazil exceed those in the United States.
