Fayssoux Coming Here Today

EXTREME COLD

At the time that this paper goes to press, Zebulon and the surrounding community suffers in the second cold snap of the season.

Tuesday morning dawned warm and fair, but the thermometer dropped fourty degrees in the next twelve hours. A hard rain fell Wednesday, which changed to snow late that afternoon.

Register Your Baby Now

At an early date the United State Government will begin in North Carolina a campaign looking to the registration of every baby born within the state. This has been supposed to be done for some years, but repeated failures by midwives and doctors to report births have kept the files incomplete.

Registration at birth is the only way in which the age of a person may be officially verified, and there are times when this is necessary. In some states children beginning school are required to present birth certificates along with those attesting to vaccination.

It might be added that it is well to name a child before registering the birth; otherwise an "unnamed child" is entered as having been born on a certain date, with the sex and the parents' names also noted.

85 to Take Bar Examinations

Eighty five men and women have qualified to take the bar examination in this state. Of this number 43, or one-half have previously been before the examining board.

Hopkins Chapel

The W. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. N. L. Perry Jan 12, 1935, with 12 members attending. A good program was rendered, sponsored by the program committee Mrs. Petie Wright.

The next meeting which will be the Second Saturday in February, will be at the home of Mrs. M. M. Horton.

We are expecting a good program and wish every member to be present. Mrs. N. L. Perry and the social committees served a delicious course consisting of hot chocolate, banana sandwiches and fruit, which was enjoyed by everyone.

Sen. Simmons 81

Former United States Senator F. M. Simmons celebrated his 81st birthday Sunday. His health is good and his interest in public affairs still very keen. He received many messages of greeting on his birthday.

WOMANS CLUB

Rough weather reduced the attendance at the general meeting of the Woman's Club on Tuesday night, but those who went were more than repaid by the presence of Mrs. B. B. Mangum of Roxboro, district chairman of federated clubs. Mrs. Mangum made an interesting and informative address setting forth the objectives of clubwomen of the present day, and emphasizing service as a privilege as well as duty. She said that a good mother prepares the proper environment for her children at home and as far abroad as she is able to wield her influence and that all other children are thereby helped. Emphasis was laid upon citizenship and the necessity of knowing one's own community, its resources and needs.

Miss Webb, of Wakelon's faculty, spoke on Furniture, being presented by Mrs. Faison, chairman of the department of American Homes. Miss Webb explained that the greater part of furniture reproduces designs of past years, save for greater use of color. She explained that most furniture takes the name of the maker as Sheraton, Duncan Phyfe and others.

In the short period regularly devoted to Civics, Mrs. C. E. Flowers presented Miss Irene Pitts, Wakelon's teacher of History and Civics, who briefly sketched the proposed Townsend Act for old age pensions, and showed why it would not prove feasible.

Mrs. Flowers spoke for a few minutes on safety and health, giving practical suggestions.

In the business session a nominating committee was elected to report at the February meeting: Mrs. C. L. Read, Mrs. R. H. Herring, Mrs. E. C. Daniel being those chosen.

Several members of the Junior Club were guests to hear Mrs. Mangum. Mrs. J. D. Horton was also a guest.

Mesdames Lela Horton, F. H. McGuire, Theo. Davis and Ted Davis were hostesses for a social hour after adjournment.

The Music Department of the Woman's Club will meet on next Tuesday, Jan. 29 at the clubhouse. Gounod's opera, Faust, will be the topic for study and the music will be from the same source. All club members are invited to attend.

Cold Wave Over Whole Country

World's Premiere Hypnotist Will Give Two Performances

THIS, THAT AND THE OTHER

By Mrs. THEO. B. DAVIS

It seems that I never can learn much about folks; I am forever being surprised either at their goodness or their badness, and often the same person surprises me both ways.

Last Sunday when I was trying to find an illustration of service that would parallel the washing of the disciples' feet the best one that came to my mind was how, on the day our home burned, some men scrubbed the floor of the kitchen in the house to which our few belongings were carried. Soot had been washed down the chimney flue by rain, but we saw none of it. Those men had left Sunday School to do service to a fellowman. They certainly did not make scrubbing their profession but they did a good job of it and it was appreciated more than feet washing could have been.

Of course there is nothing special in the recollection, but whenever our legislature is in session I recall the time when we took our two oldest children on a tour of inspection over the capitol. The boy was only four and was not much impressed until we reached the rotunda and he saw the numerous busts of statesmen on display there. With eyes wide with horror he implored: "Come on! Let's leave just as quick as we can. The folks what live here worship idols."

A good memory is not entirely a blessing. In the course of the years one accumulates many memories that it would be a pleasure to forget. It would be different if one could choose just which to discard and which to treasure; but the chances are that just when the happy ones are being counted over and enjoyed some painful or horrid recollection will rear its head and insist upon being considered. A good forgetter is almost as necessary as remembering, if one would be happy.

The love of watching sights, unusual, at times even repulsive, is a peculiar trait of humans. It develops early in life—and often keeps right on developing. At times it reminds me of a little cousin who was begging to go down to the railroad track and see a mule that had been killed by the train. Her aunt tried to reason with her, explaining that the poor old mule was all dead and ugly and

Good Opening At Hatchery Here

The Zebulon Community Hatchery began the season's work last Monday with the best opening in its history, and a good year is confidently expected.

The hatchery paid a dividend last year to stockholders, who feel much encouraged over the outlook.

As a community enterprise the hatchery is one of the most important establishments of this section.

Visit the plant and let Mr. and Mrs. Massey explain the methods used. Take them eggs for hatching early chickens. (Ad runs this issue.)

New Registration For Wake County

Representative Clarence Mitchell introduced a bill Saturday, concurred in by both Representatives Thompson and Douglass, authorizing Clerk of Court Tilley to burn all registration books, so as to insure a complete new registration for Wake County. The bill passed the house under suspension of the rules and went to the senate.

At the instance of Dr. A. R. Newsome, secretary of the State Historical Commission, Senator Weatherers amended the bill to provide that instead of destroying the books they be placed in the archives of the hall of history, with a further proviso that they should not be available for inspection or consultation for a period of five years. That amendment was satisfactory to the representatives and in that form the bill became law. At Monday night's session another bill was introduced providing for the same disposition to be made of the registration books in the city of Raleigh.

Other bills introduced Monday night included one by Mitchell outlawing gypsies in this state, and another banning obscene literature or pictures from the state. This last bill is designed to keep off the newsstands some of the type of magazines that flaunt good-looking gals on their covers. Not having seen a copy of the bill, this writer is not in position to say who is made the censor to judge what is obscene and what is not. However there is little occasion for concern. Such a bill as that will not pass a North Carolina legislature.

Dr. Douglass offered a bill requiring that the highway commission secure its gravel, sand and other road building material from its own land, or else pay full price for damage done private property by removal of such material.

Blindfold Drive Begins At 2:45 At Zebulon Supply

William Irvine Fayssoux will be here for two performances tonight and tomorrow night. The admission is 10 and 25 cents.

Mr. Fayssoux will arrive in Zebulon at about noon today and will hypnotize a man in the window of the Zebulon Supply Company where the man will remain in a cataleptic state until the show tonight.

The blindfold drive will commence at 2:45 sharp. In this drive Mr. Fayssoux is blindfolded and very well-guarded by several citizens. While blindfolded and guarded, several other citizens composing a committee will write a letter, address it to some person in town, then, they will take it to the post office and it will be placed in one of the various boxes. The box key will then be hidden somewhere in town by a committee and they will return and notify the guarding committee.

Fayssoux, still blindfolded, will get in the car with the guarding committee and drive to the place where the key is hidden. Then, find the key and drive to the post office, find the box, select the aforementioned letter from among several others and with the blindfold still on, deliver the letter to the person to whom it is addressed.

Among the attractions of the big night show, is Houdini's Mail Bag Escape and Alexander Herman's Trunk Trick combined into one great illusion. A committee selected by the audience will be permitted to lock an assistant in a mail bag, place the mail bag and all in a trunk lock the trunk and tie it in any way they wish, so they are quite sure he cannot escape. In three minutes they unlock the trunk and find a beautiful young lady. The assistant has made his escape and comes walking down the aisle. This is the identical trick that made Houdini famous the world over.

Don't forget the dates. Today and tomorrow, Friday and Saturday, January 25th and 26th. Admission is only 10 and 25 cents. The doors open at 7:00 and the performance begins at 8:00.
