Rocky Cross News

Mr. K. S. Strickland died on August 29. He had been in frail health for seven years and had not walked in four years.

He was 73 years old in July. He married Miss Clara Strickland in 1893, who preceded him to the grave by about ten years. He leaves one son, four daughters and nine grandchildren. He was a member of the Baptist Church and Jr. O. U. A. M. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. A. Pippin and burial was in the Strickland burying ground. He was born and lived all of his life in this community.

Some of the farmers were sorry it rained last week, because they had a lot of fodder pulled and hanging on the stalk. They are trying to save all they can to feed their stock as well as trying to prepare food for their families.

Mrs. E. D. Brantley went to see her father last Sunday and found him unable to walk. He has erysipelas in one foot.

Avon Bryant has just traded his old car for a brand new 1935 V-8 pick-up truck, which is proof that he has sold some 1935 tobacco.

Fall Work In Flower Garden

One who would have spring flowers should make preparation for them in early fall. All grass, weeds and rubbish from dead or fading summer flowering plants and shrubs must be removed.

A selection of the flowers to be grown and the location of beds and borders must next be decided upon.

If the soil is heavy, compost from the horse stables will loosen it. If soil is light, fertilizer from cow stables is to be preferred. This compost should be spread liberally, several inches deep, over the beds and borders, and dug thoroughly into the soil, then left to be settled by rain before being planted. The fine seeds of poppy, larkspur, correopsis, calliopsis phlox, alyssum, petunia, portulaca, etc., should be mixed with their bulk of fine sand, scattered over the prepared beds, and lightly raked in or put in the bed just before a rain. The poppies and larkspur can be mixed and sowed together.

Perennials planted in the fall produce flowers year after year, dying down in winter and coming up early in spring. From these and bulbs come earliest flowers.

When daffodils, narcissi, hyacinths, tulips and lilies bloom, they are desired by many people who seem to forget that in order to have these beauties planting must be done in the fall. A bed such as that already described will also be suitable for bulbs, but a handful of sand must be placed in each hole; for if the bulb comes in contact with manure, it will rot.

Another way is to mix a liberal amount of woods dirt with good garden soil, set bulbs, and cover bed with several inches of well-rotted compost placed on top of soil. Thorough and early preparation is half the battle in growing flowers.

Fertilizing Grain

Fertilizer applied to small grains will return a good profit to the farmer when the crop sells for anything like a fair price.

Experiments conducted with wheat at the Piedmont branch station near Statesville have definitely proved the cash value of good fertilizer, said C. B. Williams head of the State College agronomy department.

Over a period of 11 years it was found that when 200 pounds of good fertilizer were applied to the acre, the increased yield over the non-fertilized fields paid for the fertilizer and gave an average extra profit of $5.86 per acre.

When 400 pounds were applied the extra profit was $14.32 above fertilizer costs. A 600-pound application produced a gain of $15.42 and an 800-pound application gave a profit of $17.36 an acre above the cost of the fertilizer.

The exact amount of the gain to be derived from fertilization depends, of course, upon the individual farmer's soil, weather conditions, cost of production, and price of grain on the market.

On average Cecil clay or clay loam soils of the Piedmont area, he recommended a fertilizer mixture containing 10 per cent available phosphoric acid, 4 percent nitrogen, and 4 per cent potash. From 300 to 400 pounds per acre should be applied when the crops are seeded.

Where the soil is good, or where it has been fertilized with manure, or where legumes have been plowed under, the percentage of nitrogen in the mixture may be reduced or even left out. Piedmont soils in average condition need at least 4 percent nitrogen, he added.

N. B. The local fertilizer plant in Zebulon will supply farmers of this section with specially prepared fertilizer for small grains and fall gardens.

Cotton Tax Exempt Certificates

By H. G. WHARTON

Notice has been received from the State Allotment Board that the cotton tax-exempt certificates will be ready for distribution in the county around September 15th. No cotton will be permitted to be ginned tax free without the use of these certificates. We are very anxious that cotton growers receive their certificates this year on time and want to prevent any delay in getting them distributed.

Landlord May Be Made Trustee
Provisions have been made this year so that a landlord may act as trustee and receive the certificates for his tenants. In order to arrange for this forms have been placed in the hands of the township committeemen and the committeemen will be glad to help the producer in filing out these forms. At the time that the certificates are issued no certificates will be issued except the landlords own personal certificates.

Transferring Old Certificates
Any cotton producer who holds old 1934 certificates that were not used on his crop last year must have them transferred in the County Agent's office before he can use them on the 1935 crop. Unless these certificates are transferred for new certificates they will be a dead loss to the grower since they will not be accepted at the gin. Over 100 producers in the county have already turned in their certificates and they have been forwarded to Washington where they will be replaced for this year's certificates.

Proof of Compliance Necessary
It is very important that each producer see that his cotton land has been measured and completed correctly as no tax exempt certificate will be issued until the producers compliance measurements have been checked as correct in the County Agent's office. This matter is urgent and should be attended to at once. If you have any difficulty with this in this matter see your township committeemen or call at the County Agent's office in regard to same.

1935 Cotton Sold

The first cotton on the market from this year's crop has been sold at Wadesboro. To date the government has not made a definite announcement as to loans on the 1935 crop. Farmers in this state received more than $5,000,000 in benefit payments on cotton for the year ending July 1.

We spend 11 billion dollars annually trying to prevent and suppress crime. Which is more than was loaned to the Allies during the World War.
