NEWS OF THE WEEK

FARLEY RE-APPOINTED

Although he is expected to resign within a few months, James A. Farley was unanimously confirmed by the Senate for a full 4-year term as Postmaster General. His is the only Cabinet post requiring confirmation for a full term, all other members serving at the pleasure of the President.

TWO PROMINENT VISITORS

New York City—Although it is vigorously denied that their presence has anything to do with Britain's debt settlement, financiers lay great importance to the fact that Sir Otto Niemyer, vice-governor of the Bank of England, and Walter Runciman, president of the British Board of Trade, arrived in this country within a few days of each other.

LAZY STUDENTS PENALIZED

Norman, Okla.—Figuring that it would require the service of fifteen full-time instructors to coach the failures during the last semester, William B. Bizzell, president of the University of Oklahoma, worked out a plan under which backward students should pay $3.00 per hour for each hour failed. The alternative is dropping from University rolls. For last semester's failures 450 students will receive bills this week.

COUGHLAN BACK ON AIR

Detroit, Mich.—Coincident almost with the death last week of his superior the Most Rev. Michael J. Gallagher, Roman Catholic Bishop of Detroit, the Rev. Father Charles Coughlin, "Radio Priest" of the Shrine of the Little Flower, resumed his interrupted Sunday broadcasts. Both Bishop Gallagher and Father Coughlin denied that pressure from Rome had anything to do with the temporary suspension of the latter's radio program.

Club Column

The public is invited to attend an art exhibit at the Woman's Club on Thursday afternoon, February 4.

Among the art students whose pictures will be exhibited are Thomas Bell, Ruth Winstead, Pauline Kannon, Jack Gregory and Dorothy Harris.

The art department at Wakelon school is newly organized having been begun in the late fall, but the class is growing and the students are progressing rapidly.

YE Flap-doodle

By THE SWASHBUCKLER

Lawyers use lots of bumfoozling phrases and wording. For instance they say ex post facto when they mean too late to do any good.

But let Dean D. F. Stansbury of the Wake Forest law school tell you about it.

Said the Dean:

"A lawyer just naturally can't give a friend an apple and say have an apple' like an ordinary human. Instead, he must go through the following form—

"In consideration of love and affection, and one dollar in hand paid, receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, I hereby give, grant, convey, assign, transfer and set over unto you, your heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, all of my right, title, and interest in and to this certain apple, together with all and singular the rind, core, seeds, pulp and juice thereof, and all rights and privileges of any kind and character, in any manner there unto appertaining, anything to the contrary herein contained notwithstanding, including the right to smell, bite, taste, chew, swallow and digest the same or any part thereof; and I hereby warrant that I have good title and right to convey the said apple and all its parts, and will defend the same against all adverse claims, for you, your heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, to your and their use and behoof forever."

"The main idea," quoth the Dr., "is—Never use one word where seventeen can be used to say the same thing."

"The main reason," continued our informant "is, that the pomp and ceremony of these terms are pleasing to both the lawyer and his client."

One of our local lawyers however is a little more subtle. When asked recently if he would have a drink, replied "No, but he would take the nickle."

Two young ladies recently informed me that they had several jokes to submit for publication in the "Duffel Bag" department, but when they found out the right Reverend Mr. Davis edited it, they with drew their contributions immediately.

Fred Allen and Jack Benny are certainly laying it on each other these days. And I don't suppose they have even given a thought to the fact that the bigger fathea they call each other, the more people will listen to each program. C well, I tune both in, so I have no kick coming. I even pay them by using Allen's toothpaste and Benny's dessert.

Thoughtfully yours,
The Swashbuckler.
