

CLUB COLUMN

Mrs. Foster Finch introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. James Brodie of Henderson, N. C. who is Coastal Plain District Director.

Mrs. Brodie is a charming speaker and made a most valuable and interesting talk on Out Door Living Rooms.

She told the Club how with very little expense and a bit of originality the seeming ill arranged garden could be converted into an attractive out-door living room.

Green lawns and lovely gardens afford ideal spots for rest and conversation. Luncheons in the open suit the tempo of warm summer days.

A brick or flag terrace with a few simple pieces of furniture on it becomes a room where daytime sun and evening cool breezes can be fully enjoyed.

Lawn furniture is now to be found in a wide range of prices. Wire, wood, willow, iron and aluminum, make up the fascinating array of new lawn and garden furniture and it does not lack such practical feature as waterproof painted finishes, water repellent fabrics, and ease of moving. If it is in pleasant harmony with the house it is an added feature for attractiveness.

A rolling cart simplifies the problem of outdoor hospitality.

An inexpensive fish pool, bird bath, bird house or even a sand pile is not undesirable.

Have your outdoor living room easily accessible to your kitchen so that you may have many evening meals out of doors. Some degree of privacy is another desirable feature for your outdoor living room. A hedge, trellis, vine or tree may serve this purpose.

The Barrow home made a beautiful setting for the meeting. The spacious living room with its lovely arrangement of exquisite flowers, which were grown in the hostess' own garden, made each member want to know more of flower culture and arrangement.

The hostess served strawberry shortcake with iced tea.

Mrs. Wedell, sister of Mrs. Brodie, was a welcome visitor.

Some folks read the headlines in the papers, some read the papers, and some misread them.—Ex.
