

FRED N. DAY IN MEETING

Rev. Fred N. Day is a prominent business man of Winston-Salem where he has operated a successful jewelry store for a great many years. But the most important thing about this man is that he is also an unusual evangelist. He has held successful revival meetings hundreds of them, all over North Carolina and in other states.

Mr. Day begins a revival at the Kenly Baptist church on Sunday morning June 6 and will continue the meetings through the following Sunday. The services will be each day at 8:45 in the morning and 8:00 at night. Those living near enough to Kenly to attend these meetings should do so. The public is invited to come and cooperate with the Baptist and other christian people in having a real revival of religious life in the town and community around Kenly.

COAL AT ONE-TWENTY A TON

When Mr. Average man pays from $8.00 to $10.00 a ton for coal next fall and remembers the great state of North Carolina buys its coal for from $1.20 to $2.25 a ton he will wish he was the state or something of the sort. But when the state has paid considerably more for freight than the coal costs at the mine, it will not be so cheap as it seems.

GOOD TOBACCO PLANTING SEASON

In the season following the rain a week ago, most of the farmers of this section set the larger part of their crops. Had plants been large enough nearly the whole crop would have been planted. Another good season and all crops will be set. The blue mold did a lot of damage, but by waiting a little plants enough may be had to plant all crops in this section. The plant shortage is not as yet as acute in this section as in the Johnston county section.

PREACHED OWN FUNERAL

A crowd estimated at 5,000 gathered at Coatsville, Ind., Sunday to hear Zade Millman, 88 years old, preach his own funeral. His casket and tombstone were on display and it is said that the old man seemed thoroughly to enjoy the occasion. He is a farmer. In a cracked voice he said "When the roll is called up yonder I'll be there. When my time comes, all I ask is that they let me die unremembered and let me lie in my grave unmolested."

MOTHER MURDERS DAUGHTER

Mrs. Helen Tierman of Long Island, New York has confessed to the murder of her small daughter and the attempted murder of her five-year-old-son. Taking them out, supposedly, on a picnic the mother stabbed the children and tried to burn the bodies. The little boy was able to crawl away from the fire which for some reason went out, and his story helped to furnish evidence against the mother. She claims to have been in love with a man and to have thought there was not room in the apartment for him and the children. At first saying she committed the deed alone, she later implicated her lover, claiming that he struck the first blow. This statement was later retracted.

TOBACCO PLANTS STOLEN

Because of an epidemic of robberies of tobacco plant beds farmers near Kinston were said to be standing guard with guns over their plants. The unusual scarcity in that section has made the plants have added importance and the late season makes planting soon imperative.

A process has been developed by an English scientist whereby lenses may be stamped out of crystal clear plastics instead of resorting to the usual tedious process of grinding. Camera lenses formerly costing $50 can be produced by the new process for $5 at a profit. The inventor claims that spectacle lenses can be stamped out by the new process at a fraction of their present cost.
