FACING THE FACTS

TEMPERANCE —

If a thing is wrong morally, then there can be no middle ground. Whiskey is a curse. It is morally wrong. Then no good citizen or Christian can afford to drink it or make it legally possible for his fellow man to get.

CONTROL —

Physical forces are practically controlled as to direction and intensity. Moral forces may be controlled likewise. In county controlled sale of liquor, so far the ABC stores have succeeded only in partially controlling the selling agency. It still gets to the drinker in increasing quantity.

REVENUE —

The State and counties must have revenue if our schools and other institutions continue. The total amount spent for drink through ABC stores is five times the net profit of the liquor business. More than half goes to enrich fat liquor barons in Kentucky. One fourth or more goes into police and court expenses incident to liquor consumption. Twenty cents of the dollar comes back in cash, the balance as a curse.

On next Tuesday vote to save your country, your churches, and your children by voting NO to legalized liquor in Wake County.

Wakelon Wins 3 And Loses One

DEFEATS ANGIER 10-11

Angier and Wakelon offered a free-scoring game Thursday afternoon at Angier, but the battling was close most of the way—and the fans got their thrills. Wakelon edged an 11-10 victory by virtue of a run in the ninth.

Scoring was especially plentiful in early innings—Wakelon tallied five runs in its first two turns; Angier made three in each of the first three innings.

Woodrow Lindsey took over the Wakelon pitching job in the fourth and held the Angier team in check the rest of the way.

Bissett, Lindsey, and Mitchell hit homers for Wakelon. The three shared batting honors with Dick Hoyle, each of the four leaders getting three safeties apiece.

Spell, with two doubles and a single, was top hitter for Angier.

Angier used five hurlers and they looked alike to Manager Alton Strickland's Wakelon outfit. The victors outthit the locals, 14-12.

CHURCH NOTES

SPECIAL EXERCISE

At the Methodist church on last Sunday morning a special program was given by Sunday school pupils who had been trained by Mrs. Irby Gill. This was a most enjoyable worship feature, being based on the life of Christ. Ralph House directed and Miss Jocelyn House was at the piano. Pastor Bradley did not preach, but in a short talk emphasized the importance of temperance, illustrating with facts gained by personal experience with drunkards.

At the evening hour Pastor Bradley and his congregation worshipped at the Baptist church where Mr. Bradley preached the initial sermon in the revival meeting. On Monday evening Dr. Carl Townsend of Raleigh arrived to assist Pastor Herring. Services are being held at 8:00 o'clock morning and evening. The public is cordially invited.

On Monday night Dr. Townsend spoke on Making Christ Real. On Tuesday morning his theme was Going A Little Farther. Attendance at the services is good. On Sunday morning a special dedicatory program will be given, and the building formally consecrated.

REVIVAL CLOSURES

The revival meeting conducted by Pastor Davis at Kenly, assisted by Rev. Fred N. Day, closed Sunday night. There were ten additions to the church.

There will be services at the Social Plains Baptist Church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and at Union Hope, two miles below on the new Rocky Mount highway, at 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

RALLY DAY AT PEARCES

On Saturday, June 19, there will be a Rally Day at Pearce's Church. In the morning children will present a carefully prepared program and an address will be given by an invited speaker. At noon barbecue will be sold with other food. In the afternoon local teams will play two games of baseball. The public is invited.

The liquor question seems to be occupying the front pages of the leading county papers now and to listen to the general trend, both sides are bound to win. Get on the band wagon. It wouldn't be safe to bet on either of these sides because there is no certainty about women, weather or elections. All can be wet or dry without a moment's notice.

I have been accused of going to the movies, not to marvel at the feature, but to laugh at the cartoon. That in all respects is true to a certain extent, but I've a sneaking suspicion that there are others not far from our city who feel a tinge of disappointment if Mickey, Donald Duck or Popeye doesn't claim the silvered screen for ten or more minutes.

It seems that I remember a fairly recent all cartoon show that several of our more prominent citizens could be seen inside the State lobby while a son or daughter bought the tickets.

Of course the older heads were merely there to take care of the children. I was there for the same reason, only I forgot to bring the children.

There is something about the many predicaments that Donald Duck gets himself into, and the many humorous fights in which the sailor man engages that put another spring in my cushion. The seats are never as hard when the feature begins. As a matter of fact, I'd rather see several cartoon comedies than any of the long, or boring, or both, full lengths that grace our scene of action.

The local colored beauty shop did a rushing business Friday and Saturday preparing its dusky patrons for the colored June German in Rocky Mount. Our colored helper attended the gala affair and to-date, hasn't returned to the fold. He's probably the black sheep of the office force.

The local fair committee has recently contracted with The Master Showman George Hamid for an act the equal of which has never been seen at any small fair, and no better act has ever been staged at the state fair.

The act played for years during the summer season at Atlantic City and is famous the world over for high-wire and trick acrobatics.

A cut of the act will probably be included in the features of next week's paper. Messrs. Privette and Gill are to be congratulated on signing an act of such magnitude. No other fair smaller than the Winston Salem fair will feature the act in the state this year.

Saw Silas Green's Minstrels in Raleigh this week. They were true minstrels, but must confess I enjoyed the hot-roast beef sandwich afterwards better than the show itself.

Reviewingly yours,
