ANGIER DEFEATS WAKELON, ANDY FULLER PITCHES WIN

Angier, July 4.—Andy Fuller hurled his third victory in three starts as Angier turned back Wake lon's league-leaders here today, 4-3, to snap a Wakelon winning streak at six games. The Elon hurler allowed only five hits and fanned nine.

The Angier-Wakelon game was decided in the ninth inning, with none away. With the count deadlocked at 2-all, Larni singled, stole second, and came home on a single by Larry (Little Doc) Smith.

Despite Fullers' fine pitching, the Elon boy was hard pushed to gain the edge over Dawson in a mound duel. Wakelon took 2-0 lead in (Continued on back page).

ASKS HELP

The bill is now in excess of $1800.00 and any amount given will be greatly appreciated. Send direct to Mrs. Sloop. Crossnore school is devoted to helping those who otherwise might not be able to secure an education and all pupils do everything possible in the way of self-help, but are unable to meet their own expenses in full.

EVER NOMAL GRANARY

Among the ideas offered as a solution of price changes and food supplies is that of an "ever normal granary" which in some respects is a repetition of practices put into effect by Joseph under Pharaoh in Egypt some thousands of years ago. Surplus grain would be stored in years of plenty for marketing during the lean years, serving to hold up prices when crops are abundant and to keep down costs when grain is scarce outside the granaries. Crop control would probably be a feature of the plan if and when it is tried.

Miss Hoyle Wins First In Contest

J. C. MATTHEWS, SPRING HOPE AND MRS P. F. MASSEY RUN CLOSE SECOND & THIRD

Below we give the winners and list of prizes offered in our Advertising Contest campaign. A great many letters came in, so many that it took the judges hours to read them. So many of them were of merit, that it was a hard matter for the judges to decide the winners. In one instance the decision was a tie. It was found that one of the letters exceeded considerably the allowed 100 words, so it was necessary to throw it out. A lot of publicity was stimulated by the campaign which we believe will help the business concerns taking part. We hope our readers will read all the letters. Then visit the places of business mentioned and see for yourself the courteous service, large stocks and low prices offered that our contestants found and appreciate.

SCHOOL DATE SET FOR SEPTEMBER

Announcement has been made from Raleigh that county schools for whites will open on September 8. Schools for colored will open on the 15th. The list of teachers for Wakelon has not been handed in yet, but will probably be ready for publication at an early date.

WEED MARKETS TO OPEN EARLY

Definite decision has been made as to the dates for opening of tobacco markets. First sales will be made in Georgia on July 29. South Carolina markets will open on August 10, while in the Eastern Belt of this state the date is set for August 26. Middle Belt sales begin on September 16, and the final opening will be that of the Virginia Dark Belt on November 29. The crop as a whole is said to be good at this date, though blue mold did great damage to plants in beds.

MISS EARHART THOUGHT SAFE

Amelia Earhart, world-famous aviatrix, who recently began her most ambitious project in flying, was lost on last Friday when her plane was forced down somewhere in the Pacific Ocean along the equator by lack of gasoline. Storms had caused the use of more than had been expected. She was planning to land on Howland Island, but failed to reach it. Messages were received which were thought to prove that she was on land, as her husband said the plane radio could not be used on water. No messages have been received for some time now. George Putnam, husband of the aviatrix, and Mrs. Noonan, wife of the navigator who went with Miss Earhart, are naturally in great suspense, though they profess to believe that both will be rescued. The U. S. government has sent ships and planes to aid in the search and the nation listens eagerly for news.

GOOD PERCENT COLLECTED

Wake County tax collectors report that a total of $579,708.25 collected on taxes for 1936-37. This is 81 per cent of the amount due according to the tax lists. The books have been turned over to Leonard James, head of the new department, who will look after getting the remainder.

LOCAL RAIN IS TOO PLENTIFUL

A succession of showers varied occasionally by a hard rain have wet the ground thoroughly in this section and crops are thriving. So far no hail has come to damage anything in this immediate vicinity. However, it will be some weeks yet before the tobacco will be ready for the barns and one day may bring untold loss to farmers when hail strikes, so they will probably be on the "anxious seat" until the weed is safely housed. Wise farmers are carrying hail insurance. The early date set for warehouse opening will mean a rush to grade the leaves as soon as they are cured.

Lost sleep can usually be regained. Lost time is a waste that can never be regained.
