Pecan Scab C Annual I

Hundreds of pecan trees fall victim to the farmer's axe each year because of an unproductive condition caused by a number of diseases.

However, this is unnecessary since pecan diseases can be controlled through a systematic sanitation and spray program on susceptible varieties, according to Dr. Lu Shaw, extension plant pathologist at State College.

There are several diseases which develop on pecans in North Carolina, but the most prominent and the one that does the most damage is known as scab. This disease is distributed throughout the pecan growing area of the State.

It is caused by fungus organisms which attack the leaves, twigs and nuts. Symptoms of the disease are practically the same on all plant parts. The lesions are usually small, olive-brown, or gray first, and later turn black.

Since the scab spreads from old diseased parts to new growth, it is advisable to destroy all infected leaves and shake them off before they fall to the ground. This can be accomplished by pulling them under during the winter by raking and burning them.

Spraying with a Bordeaux mixture of three pounds of copper sulfate, four pounds of hydrated lime, and 50 gallons of water has proved to be the most satisfactory spray material for the control of pecan scab. Copper-lime dust is recommended for those who are not equipped to dust their trees.

Treatment should be started immediately after pollination has taken place and repeated every three weeks.

EXTORTION ATTEMPTED

In addition to the loss of his wife, George Putnam, husband of Amelia Earhart has had to deal with an attempt at extortion from a man who claimed that the aviator had been rescued by the crew of a smuggling boat, and offering to deliver her to her husband for $2,000. The would-be profiteer has been arrested and has confessed.

WILSON TRIES NEW SYSTEM

A revised system will be employed for the five sales on the Wilson tobacco market as it opens on August 26th.

Block sales will be counted at 6 o'clock A. M. following all sales days, instead of at 8 o'clock as last year. However, to be entitled to such count there must be left unsold on the warehouse floor at the closing hour at least 380 baskets of tobacco not over ten per cent of the total. If the balance of the day's sales are not sold by 8 o'clock, the balance of the day's sales will be counted at 8 o'clock.

By the County Counselor at Law, the housemen will be required to appear from the Supervisor early each morning, the exact time they will receive a set of buyers, and can advise their customers that they may place their tobacco on the floor accordingly.

HAIL AT EAGLE ROCK LIGHTNING HIT HERE

The storm on Monday brought hail to Eagle Rock and adjacent sections, damaging the tobacco on some farms considerably.

On Monday night lightning struck M. B. Chamblee's home here tearing a part of a chimney away. During the same storm, lightning struck the L. E. Long home, setting fire to a bed, which was the occasion for calling out the fire department.

Many who did not know lightning had struck wondered how any blaze could start in such a rain.

According to the number of customers who patronized the first ABC store in Raleigh Thursday, they must have been hanging around with their tongues out since dawn.

WILSON TRIES NEW SYSTEM

Thursday's paper states that on the first day of the opening of the Wilson store in Raleigh an average of almost 200 customers per hour was made. Order was said to be fairly good, though some arrests for drunkenness were made.

From noon until 9 o'clock Wednesday night 1793 customers paid $81.20 for 2125 bottles of whiskey handed over the counter by a dozen employees of the county.

MELONS PREFERRED

Down in Georgia managers of ABC stores are said to be complaining that watermelons hurt their business. It seems there is an opinion that melons and liquor should be mixed and folks prefer the combination.

The General Assembly of 1937 enacted a law entitled, "An Act Requiring the Examination of Domestic Servants." In effect, it says that all domestic servants shall be examined at least once each year, and as often as the employer may require. All servants employed, or making application for employment, shall furnish a certificate to the employer from a reputable physician, certifying that such servant has been examined within 2 weeks from date of employment, and that he or she is free from all contagious, infectious or communicable diseases and showing the non-existence of any venereal disease which might be transmitted. Such certificate must show that a Wassermann test or other approved tests to diagnose venereal diseases have been made and are negative.

This law to be effective, requires the observance of it by the people who employ servants. It is highly important to know that those who work for us are free of all communicable diseases, such as syphilis, tuberculosis etc.

Syphilis, in its infectious stage, is dangerous to the public. The only reason the syphilis is so prevalent today is that it has not been dealt with in an open and intelligent manner. The time has come for action on the part of all concerned. But this action must be well-directed and well-understood that both the employer and the employee may not suffer. I mean by this that, a person may have the disease, as proved by a blood test, but with proper treatment can be made safe for employment without danger to those with whom he or she associates. This is true of tuberculosis. A person may have this disease but with proper care and treatment may become—and often does—a cured or arrested type, and is not necessarily dangerous to associates. But we must recognize the fact that these diseases, when they exist, must be recognized and dealt with according to the best scientific knowledge available for the welfare of the patient and the people with whom he comes in contact.

We have in Raleigh two venereal disease clinics. One operated at Rex Hospital, as an out-patient department, where the indigent may go and receive treatment at a nominal cost. The other clinic is operated at St. Agnes Hospital, as an out-patient department, where people may go and receive treatment at a nominal cost. In other words, treatment is available for all indigent cases of Raleigh and Wake County as a very small cost, and can be secured free in many instances. Clinic hours in Rex Hospital for both white and colored are as follows: Monday, 1:30 to 2:30 P. M.; treatment, Friday 1:30 to 2:30 P. M.; admission charge of 25c. Clinic hours at St. Agnes Hospital are from 11 A. M. to 12 Noon each week day except Saturday. Admission 25c. Each treatment 50c.
