THE FIVE COUNTY FAIR

After a year of planting and harvesting every community needs a season of rest and recreation. It is usually a circus, a carnival or a fair where old and young may gather for a week's enjoyment.

For a number of years Zebulon has been without a fair that was creditable to the people. This year we are promised a sure-enough fair, one that is offered to all the people in Eastern Wake and to the people who live in the adjacent counties of Franklin, Nash, Wilson and Johnston counties. Much time and considerable money has been spent during the last month or two in preparation for a first-class local fair. A premlist of several hundred dollars has been provided. A thousand copies of the premium book have been distributed among the farmers and others who are interested in having a good agricultural exhibit. Everything possible has been done in the limited time to make the Five County Fair a success

The best rides and shows available have been secured, so there will be no lack of entertainment of this sort. The Whitley warehouse has been secured and booths constructed for the exhibits. When the doors are thrown open to the public next Monday Zebulon and the country around is promised the best fair and midway ever seen in this town.

The two young men, Dabney Gill and Wade Privette, who have directed all preparations for the fair and will have its management next week, deserve a great deal of credit for putting the effort over. We congratulate them on handling this new venture so well, and we hope everybody will turn out next week and help the boys make a success of Zebulon's new fair—the Five County Fair.

purpose of this, Dr. Reynolds declared, is to make it impossible for anyone to keep his condition a secret and thereby continue to be a menace to those with whom he is thrown into contact. The indigent who cannot afford to pay for treatment, which, in any case, must be administered by a duly qualified physician, will be treated at public expense.

"I recently called the attention of the public to the fact that we already have enough laws and available sources of information to wage an effective campaign against syphilis in this State," Dr. Reynolds said. "I had in mind, among other things, the above provisions. In other words, we propose to utilize the weapons we have against 'the great killer'. I hope every health officer in North Carolina will begin at once a vigorous crusade against the spread of venereal diseases which have already reached alarming proportions. Blanks for enforcing the law have just been received from the printer and are being made available to health officers throughout the State. The time for definite action is at hand.

according to Postmaster Paul R. Younts of Charlotte, who has been named chairman of the Air Mail Week committee.

Air Mail Week, has for its purpose making North Carolina air mail conscious and to impress upon business men the great value of the use of air mail and is being sponsored by the North Carolina association of Postmasters, with the full cooperation of the Post Office department.

The observance will be on the week of October 11-16.

October 12, Eastern Air Line planes will make stops at all of the cities and towns in North Carolina with landing fields to pick up air mail.

The air mail from all of the eastern cities will be taken to Raleigh and placed on E. A. L. planes there. Air mail of towns and cities in western North Carolina will be brought Both planes will start from Kitty Hawk, where aviation was born when the Wright brothers first flew a plane soon after the turn of the century.

Appropriate ceremonies will be arranged at each of the points, and officials in Charlotte and Raleigh will give appropriate greetings to the special planes.

Charlotte, N. C.—Postmasters of North Carolina are entering enthusiastically into plans for celebration of North Carolina Air Mail Week.

THINGS I NEVER NOODLE NOW

(By Bill Poole)

That nature causes babies to cry to exercise their vocal chords.

That a woman driver is an accident in the making.

That pork if eaten raw is very dangerous.

That wheat is corn and corn is maize and alfalfa is lucerne in England.

That Japan wants to send a committee to the United States to explain how it all started.

That blue mold to scientist is a form of downy mildew called penicilium.

That oats are grown mainly for horse feed.

That if you buy a second hand car in a big city you pay about 18 percent interest before it's all over.

That a cow has thirteen ribs.

That porterhouse steaks are rare—when only half cooked.

That the whole world is jittery over war.

That some people who would like to see action don't realize that they must have realities of war along with it.

That the downstream face of a dam is the front.

That half the people who go abroad do so on business.

That Yale University has at its disposal $10,000,000 for research in cancer.

That the Disarmament Conference is technically still in existence, but is in a state of indefinite recess.

That neurotoxin, which is obtained from the venom of a South American Cobra is said to be the most poisonous substance in the world and two grams could kill a million mice.

That a dog has run 600 yards at 36 miles an hour.

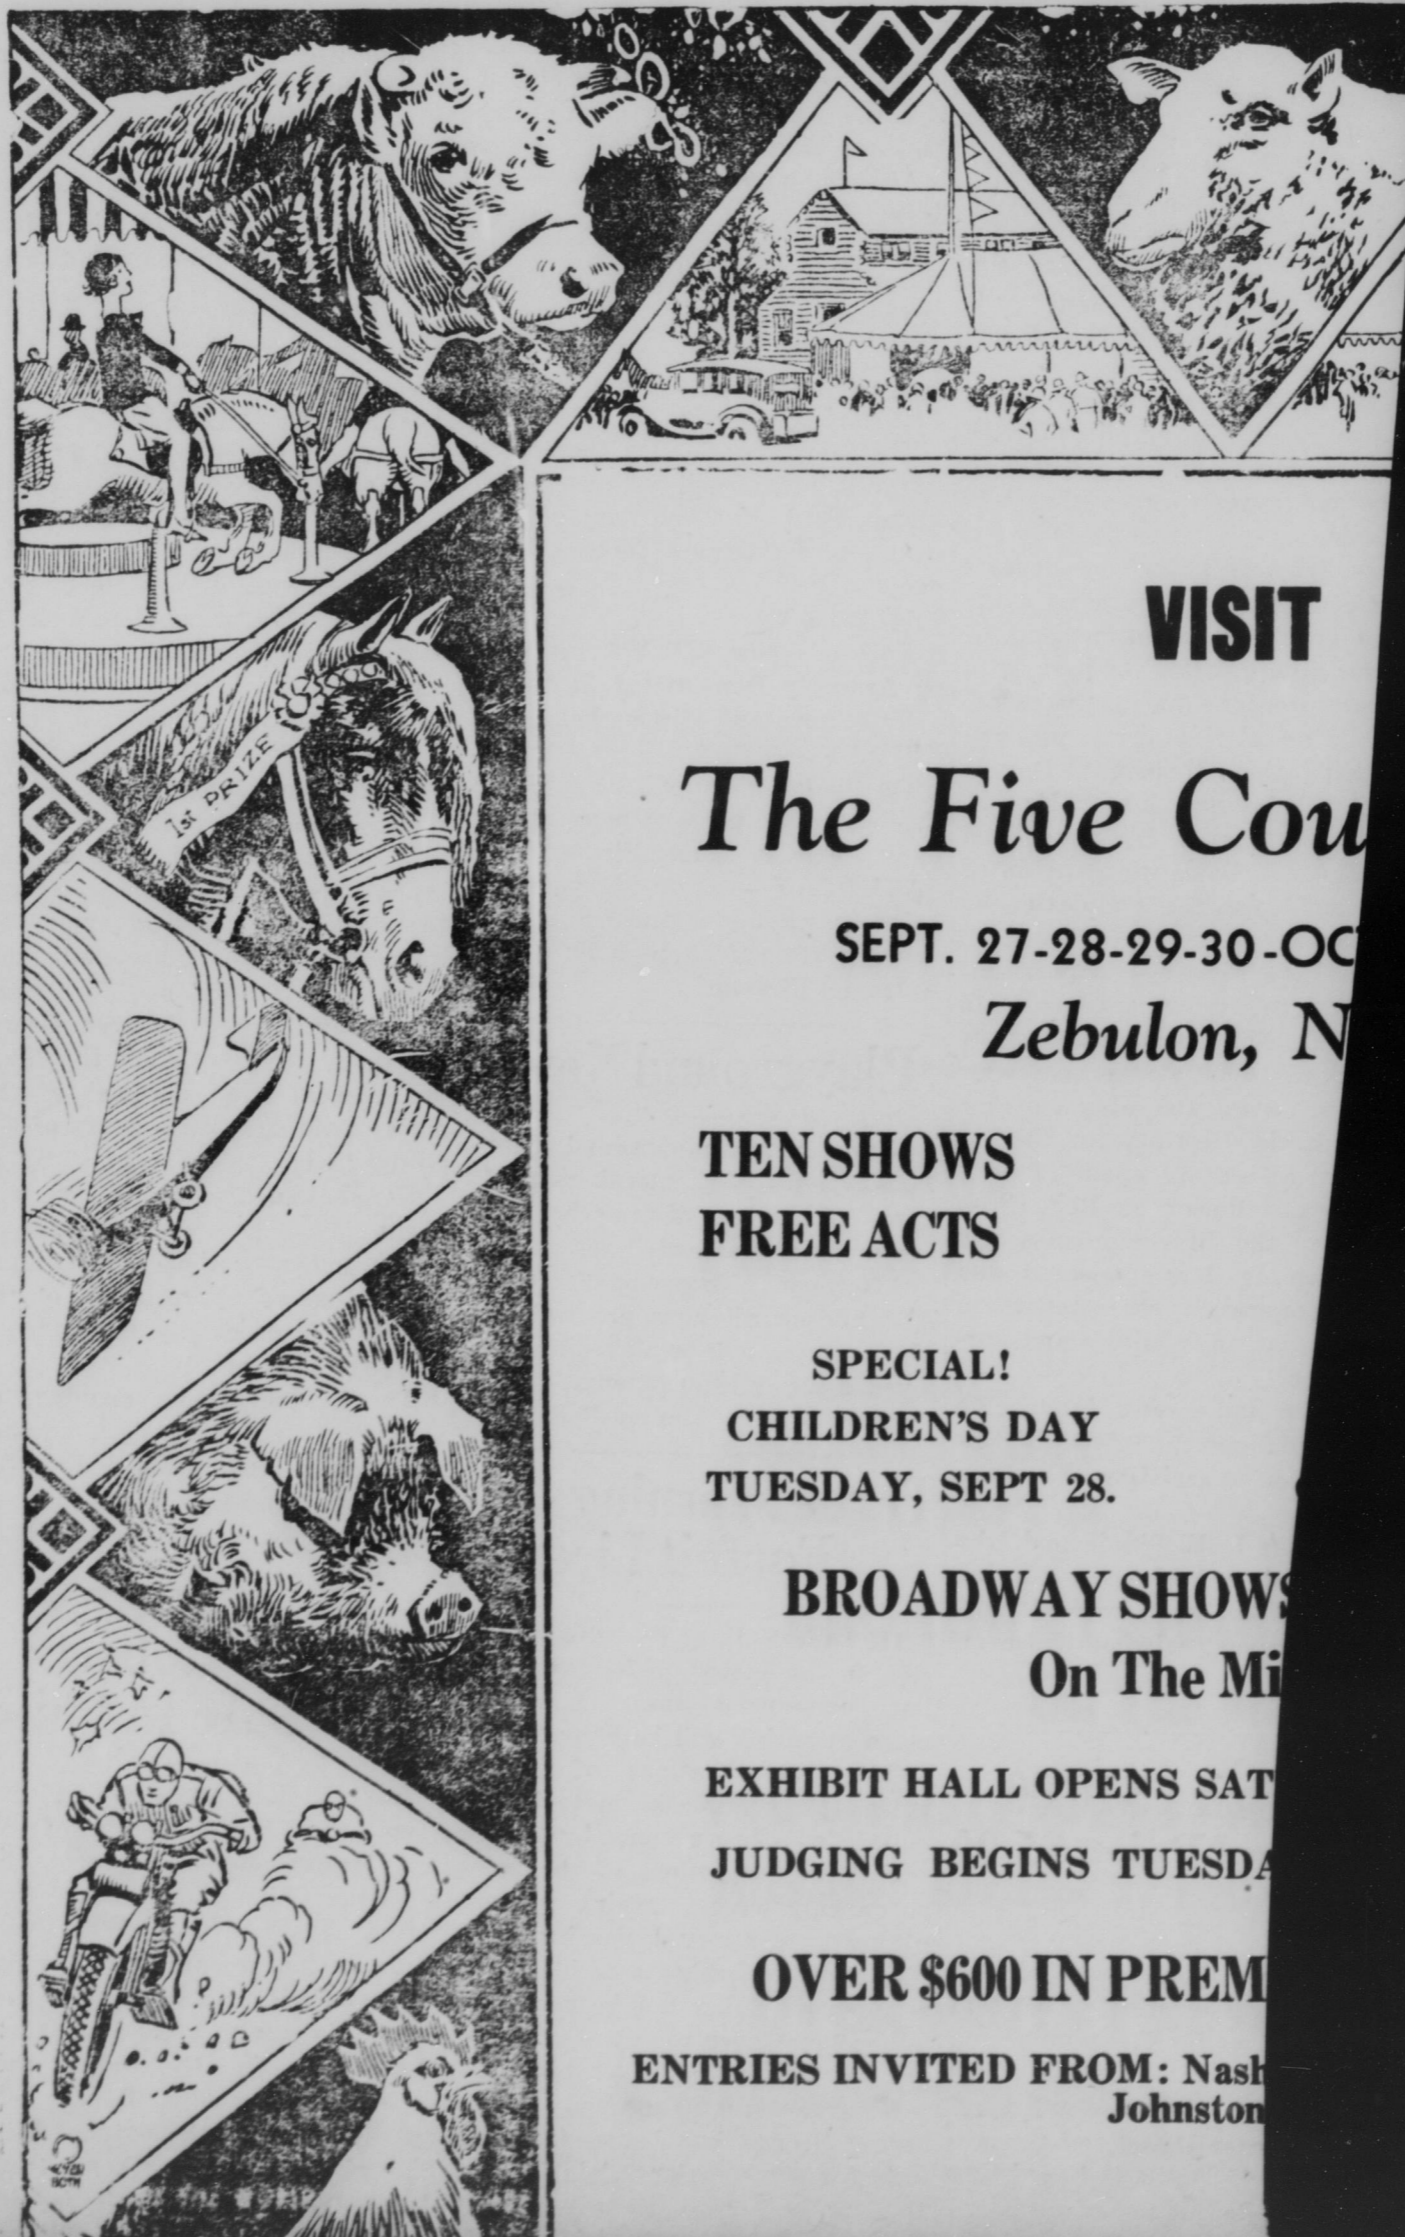

That turkey eggs sell for 10 to 50c each for breeding purposes.

Henry VIII disliked hops in his beer and prohibited their use, however, the Swedish tastes were different and an ordinance in 1440 required every farmer to grow 40 poles of hops.

The soybean is indispensable in the Chinese diet, being used as a food for their children where milk is used in other countries.

hours after receiving a first notice, Dr. Reynolds pointed out, they may be jailed and forced to take treatment, under the provisions of Section 3, Chapter 206, Public Laws of 1919.

Purchasers of remedies for venereal diseases are subject to examination by health authorities and records of the sale of such remedies by druggists may be inspected by health officials. The
