

Dodd May Quit

Well founded rumor has it that William E. Dodd is to resign as ambassador to Germany and return to the class room at Chicago university. It is known that the ambassador, who was born and reared at Clayton and whose father now lives near Fuquay Springs, has not been in very good grace with the state department for nearly a year. Last spring, during the supreme court debate in congress, the ambassador wrote a letter to Senator Glass telling him that he knew of a billionaire who was right ready to finance a Fascist uprising in this country. The purpose of the letter was to make votes for the president's court-packing plan, but its actual effect was to get the ambassador in bad. The letter didn't please the Hitlerites and Secretary of State Hull had a lot of explaining to do.
