IN THE FIRELIGHT

They have been far, who sit with quiet faces
On which the firelight glows this winter night,
Selecting from their treasury of places
Sails out of dawn, stars on a mountain height,
The way a steeple on an island lifted
Like song, a waterfall that seemed to start
From clouds on which the dust of gems had drifted—
They had the world and with it filled the heart.

Or they have stayed, who sit before the embers
With firelight on their faces all their lives
On land they loved. Each one of them remembers
Grain's golden waves and bees around the hives,
The tang and sweet of orchard, mow, and bin—
They had the heart and formed a world within.

Mrs. C. B. Eddins is sick and has been taken to Duke Hospital for treatment.

Members of Mrs. J. C. Wilson's Latin classes at Wakelon enjoyed a "Latin Banquet" in the home economics rooms on Wednesday night. Besides the meal there were stunts, of which one feature was a puppet show with dialogue pertaining to the Helvetian War. Several other members of the faculty were special guests.

The room representatives will meet at 7:00 o'clock Tuesday night, December 14th in the school library room. Please all grade mothers and fathers be present. Important!
