MRS. THEO. B. DAVIS

What a relief, both aesthetic and physical, it will be when the efficiency experts extend their "No stoop, no squat, no squint" program to include gardening! Aesthetic for the onlookers; physical for the workers.

Leading dealers star salesmen from each city were selected to attend the fight. In addition to a ringside seat, at the fight, the company is providing transportation and meeting all other expenses of the trip.

much, and they'll not only fail to be insulted but will actually thank you for giving them a chance to show what they can do in the way of brightening up your rooms. I've tried it. But then my idea of beauty is not the same as an artist's.

ALFRED ALLAN PIPPIN
Citizen, Teacher, Preacher

Nearly fourscore years ago a baby was born in the cross roads village of Bunn who was destined to do much in changing and remaking the lives of thousands of people. He was christened Alfred Allan Pippin. He grew up as most other country boys. He entered Wake Forest College and after three years began the Stanhope High School. After eight years of teaching and preaching, he moved to Wakefield and for six more years taught in the high school founded by Rev. O. L. Stringfield.

Then he gave up school work and gave all his time to preaching. He has held pastorates in the eight counties adjoining Wake county. He has served twenty different churches in 43 years ministry. For 33 years he was pastor of Hephzibah church and was pastor of other churches for a longer period though not continuously. All the churches he served are within 25 miles of his home. For forty years he averaged baptizing 100 people each year. In this time he has married thousands of people and buried other thousands. Even today young people come for miles to his home for marriage and he is called every few days to assist in a funeral of some former member. He is still actively engaged in the ministry. Much credit for his success through the years is due to his wife, Lillian Wells Pippin, who "stayed by the stuff" when he went afield to fight the battles of the Lord.

New Warehouse At Wendell

Plans for the erection of a new tobacco sales warehouse in Wendell were announced here today by Philip R. Whitley, President of the Tobacco Board of Trade.

The new building will be located on East Third Street and is to be 150 by 212 feet in diameter. Construction will be of corrugated iron with the latest improved skylights. Work is to begin immediately.

The new building has been leased to Mr. J. C. Vann of Greenville, Tennessee and Mr. C. W. Covington, of Reidsville and Aberdeen, N. C. Mr. Vann operates two warehouses in Vidalia, Ga., two in the burley belt, and is known as a successful warehouseman with years of experience. Mr. Covington

Hocutt Home Entered Sunday

Early last Sunday morning the home of C. M. Hocutt, local grocer, was entered by a prowler who, fortunately was frightened away before doing any damage. Mrs. Hocutt awoke to see a man on the floor creeping toward a chair on which lay her husband's trousers. She aroused Mr. Hocutt and by that time the intruder had fled. An attempt to turn on the lights disclosed the fact that the switch had been turned off in the pantry, which led to the conclusion that whoever had entered was familiar with the arrangement of the house.

Noe At Morehead

In a dancing pavilion arranged for the service at Atlantic Beach, Morehead City, Rev. Israel Noe of Beaufort preached last Sunday to a crowd estimated at 10,000. Achieving national mention by reason of his long fast early this year, Dr. Noe lost his place at St. Mary's Cathedral, Memphis, as a result of his action. His sermon Sunday did not refer specifically to his fasting, but he declared that "no man can gamble all for God without lifting the world to a higher plane of living."

Kidnaper Confesses

The discovery of the dead body of "Skeegie" Cash, five-year-old boy kidnaped from his home in Florida, the arrest of F. P. McCall, a former employee of the child's father, and the recovery of most of the $10,000 ransom paid for the child's return will result in a speedy disposition of the case. McCall, who is 21, declares he did not mean to kill the boy, but that cloths tied over mouth, nose, and eyes, smothered the child during the flight from the Cash home, which was entered by cutting a screen at the rear of the house. This plea, however, will not prevent the death sentence being imposed, since kidnaping carries the highest penalty possible.

McCall is said to be calm and to have expressed the opinion that there has been enough publicity and the sooner the matter is forgotten the better.

Miss Grace Coltrane was called to New York by telegram last week. Her plans for the summer have been changed and instead of singing at Jones Beach, N. Y., she will sing in Louisville, Ky.

ton has a record of successful operation on North Carolina markets.

With the announcement of the new warehouse the board of trade officials also announced that Mr. Vann, together with Halifax County, Virginia, interests, had contracted for the purchase of the Star Warehouse here. It is understood that Jodie A. Wells, veteran Wendell warehouseman and Mr. D. E. Stanley, of Baxley, Georgia, will be connected with Mr. Vann in the operation of this house.

The other houses here will be operated by the same personnel as last year. Whitley will be at the Planters with C. J. Fleming and Rupert Perry and the Farmers will be manned by C. S. Hobgood & Son and Henry Dean.

UNION HOPE REVIVAL

Dr. J. C. Owen of Newland, who assisted Pastor Davis in the revival at Kenly last week, is helping in the meeting at Union Hope this week. His sermons are deeply impressive, the attendance is increasing and it is hoped that much good may result from the series of services.

Bunn, this part of the church work has been held for two weeks. Attendance 116. Kenly To Become Up-To-Date

Zebulon's not distant neighbor town, Kenly, is going to put on modern city ways if an election ordered carries on July 5. The town board has passed an ordinance for an election to issue $70,000 in bonds. If carried, the town will spend $35,000 on a modern sewerage system, $29,000 on a water system and $6,000 for the construction of a city hall. Kenly is one of the best small towns in Eastern Carolina. It is the center of a fine agricultural section and has good rail and highway communications. The highway eastward is being paved some distance out and it is expected within a short time to have a fine paved highway running from Raleigh through Kenly to Washington. This will shorten the distance for people going to Raleigh by several miles.

Kenly has a progressive town board. Its business men are wide-awake. The town has varied business enterprises. Kenly is one of the best trading centers outside the largest towns in this part of the state. Watch Kenly grow.

I have just gone through pages and illustrations of a book on flower arrangement by Katherine Cary. It is a beautiful volume and has many fine suggestions and the pictures are specially lovely. It is surprising how many petunias, zinnias, and other common flowers are used in the arrangements, and how the writer stresses the beauty of magenta, purplish-red and other shades usually considered second choice.

The importance of choosing the proper container is emphasized and to a great extent I agree with what Mrs. Cary says. But she believes the container means so much that if one can not secure exactly the right one it is better not to attempt to take flowers into the house but leave them outside rather than insult them. And there's where we part company.

Of course we use the right vase, bowl or basket when we know it and have it. Otherwise, I say use what you have, from a washed ink bottle or an emptied tin can to your best cut glass pitcher or the old sugarbowl your grandmother gave you. Just be sure to put in water enough to let the flowers drink all they can hold, don't crowd them too
